First Step Taken in Prosecution of the President's Assassin.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE PRONOUNCED

Grand Jury Makes It Just as Severe as the Law Provides.

ANARCHIST STUBBORNLY SILENT IN COURT

Will Answer No Questions and Feigns Disinterest.

JUDGE EMERY APPOINTS HIS COUNSEL

Finally Has to Take Matters in Hand and Assail Former Supreme Court Justice Lewis and Titus.

BUFFALO, Sept. 16.—Leon Czolgosz, alias Fred Neiman, was indicted by the grand jury for murder in the first degree, for the shooting of President William McKinley at the Temple of Music in the Pan-American exposition grounds at 4:15 p. m. September 6.

When arraigned before Judge Emery the prisoner stubbornly refused to answer questions repeatedly asked of him by District Attorney Penney as to whether he had counsel or wanted counsel. The district attorney then suggested that inasmuch as the defendant refused to answer, counsel should be assigned.

Judge Emery assigned Hon. Lorain L. Lewis and Hon. Robert C. Titus, former supreme court justices of this city, whose names had been suggested by the Erie County Bar association. Czolgosz probably will be arraigned tomorrow to plead against the indictment.

The Witnesses.

District Attorney Penney presented the evidence in the murder case to the grand jury. No witnesses, aside from the doctors, were sworn excepting those who were in the Temple of Music and witnessed the shooting. The list of witnesses in the order in which they appeared to testify is as follows: Dr. Herman Mytzer, Dr. H. E. Gaylord, Dr. H. W. Matzinger, Dr. M. D. Mann, Secret Service Detective Gallagher, Attorney James L. Quackenbush, Attorney Louis Babcock, Harry Hinzoway, Captain Damer and Patrolman Merkel of the Exposition guards; Corporal Louis Bertsch and Privates Neff, O'Brien, Fennengaugh and Brooks of the Seventy-third United States Seacoast artillery; E. C. Knapp, Mrs. Vandenberg Davis, John Branch, a colored porter, Captain Vallery, chief of the exposition detectives; Superintendent Bull and Assistant Superintendent Cusack of the local police department; Fred Letter, James Close, Exposition Guards, Westenfeller and James and Detectives Geary and Solomon of the city.

At 4:15 this afternoon, just exactly ten days after the shooting, the grand jury voted unanimously to indict Czolgosz for murder in the first degree. At 4:41 the secret indictment was presented to Judge Emery in the county court. Then ensued a wait of an hour, but the rumor that the murderer was to be arraigned spread and in a short time the court room was crowded.

His Whereabouts Kept Secret.

Great secrecy was maintained as to the place of confinement of the prisoner, but it is believed that he was locked up in the temporary jail at the Erie county penitentiary, where prisoners have been kept while the jail has been undergoing repairs. After the indictment was returned the prisoner was driven to the jail across the street from the hall. Czolgosz was then taken under strong guard through the tunnel under Delaware avenue to the basement of the city hall and up the stairs to the court room on the second floor. The prisoner was shackled to a detective and another detective held his other arm. Assistant Superintendent Cusack marching in front, and a number of patrolmen behind.

When the prisoner was taken before the bench, the crowd in the room surged about him on all sides. They were compelled to resume their seats.

Czolgosz is of medium height, of fairly good build and has light curly hair, but a ten-days' growth of beard on his face gave him an unkempt appearance. Apparently he feigned insanity, not speaking and his glance roamed about, but his eyes were always downcast. Not once did he look the county prosecutor or the judge in the face.

Stubbornly Mute.

"Czolgosz, have you got a lawyer? Do you want a lawyer? You have been indicted for murder in the first degree; do you want a lawyer to defend you?"

"Czolgosz, look at me and answer."

District Attorney Penney directed these at the prisoner, his voice rising with each succeeding question, but Czolgosz stubbornly refused to answer. The district attorney respectfully suggested that counsel be assigned to defend the prisoner and ascertain what he had to say as to his plea to the indictment. Before arraignment Judge Emery then asked the prisoner before the bar if he had counsel, but there was no answer, despite the fact that the peace officers told him the judge was speaking and that he must answer. The court then said:

Court Appoints Counsel.

"Czolgosz, you having appeared for arraignment in the court without counsel, the law makes it the duty of the court to assist you. The bar association of our county has considered the matter, and suggested the names of certain gentlemen of high character for such assignment. The court has seriously considered the question and after much consideration has concluded to follow the suggestion made by the association. The names are as follows: Hon. Lorain L. Lewis and Hon. Robert C. Titus as your counsel."

Judge Emery directed the officers to notify the attorneys and remove the prisoner. Czolgosz was handcuffed to the detectives, who started out of the courtroom with him. The crowd surged after them, but found the exit barred by policemen. Outside the courtroom door the prisoner was surrounded and hurried down stairs into the basement, whence he was taken through the tunnel to the jail across Delaware avenue. Whether he was left there for the night or taken elsewhere the police refused to say.

District Attorney Penney said Justices Lewis and Titus would be notified and given an opportunity to talk with the prisoner and that he hoped to arraign Czolgosz tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The engineers appointed by the district attorney following the collapse of the Brooklyn bridge on July 24, 1900, in the condition of that structure as it presents safety, have reported. While the report gives much of the following as the condition of the structure, it is believed that the margin of safety will be increased by the absence of hot weather.

The district attorney has not indicated whether the matter will be presented to the grand jury.

Accordingly, Mr. Hunt took the oath privately at his residence this morning in the presence of members of the supreme court. The ceremony was very impressive. FEW FUSIONISTS IN SIGHT

Advance Guard of the Convention Coverts Slight in Numbers.

LEADERS DISHEARTENED AND APOTHETIC

Seeing Only Defeat Ahead They Listlessly Await the Time to Go Through the Motions of Nominating.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Sept. 16.—(Special Telegram.)—The advance guard of populists and democrats who are to make up tomorrow's fusion convention has arrived. In numbers, however, the early converts are decidedly meager as compared with previous years. Scarcely a handful of them are on the ground and they are the same old fusion horses that have figured in all recent fusion parades. It is a listless crowd, none of the enthusiasm and confidence that used to inspire pre-convention meetings. Instead of the air of assurance, an atmosphere of doubt and dismal foreboding pervades. An illustration in point is a declaration heard from one of the members of the Douglas county delegation to the demonstration: "I am out of politics and I don't see why they put me on the delegation. This would be a pretty time to get back into democratic politics, even if a man wanted to. The democrats are out of power and it looks as if they would stay out. They deserve to stay out, because when they were in they showed such lamentable incapacity to control. We are instructed to go to the caucus and perhaps he will be nominated, but it doesn't matter who he nominates, as he will be sure to be beaten."

THEIR HOUR HAS STRUCK

All the leaders seem to realize that the days when a fusion nomination in Nebraska was as good as an election are passed. That explains why the populists, although they know they contribute by far the greater strength of the fusion compact, are willing to hand the place at the head of the ticket over to the democrats this year without a struggle. Two populists are mentioned for supreme judge. It is true, Judge Adams of Jefferson county and Judge Kretzinger of Gage county, but it is only by way of compliment. The real competition is in the democratic arena, where four candidates have been introduced, who seem to be leading the following order: Judge C. H. Hollenbeck of Dodge, Judge E. R. Duffie of Douglas, Judge William G. Hastings of Saline and Judge J. C. Stubbs of Hamilton.

If there should be any difficulty in agreeing on any one of these men the friends of Judge W. D. Oldham stand ready to spring his name into the breach. There is a great deal of politics in the present situation. The willingness of the populists to yield to the democrats arises not only from the fact that they despair of success at the election, but also that they are ready to head for next year when they want to be in position to claim the governorship on the state ticket.

The proposition was made that the president of the United States be requested to appoint a committee of citizens, who shall take charge of the collection of public funds for the purpose of building an arch as above mentioned in Washington. His further approval in the event of a favorable action by President Roosevelt, such men as President Roosevelt, former President Cleveland and W. J. Bryan become honorary presidents, and Lyman J. "That's the way we'll serve all these anarchists," growled a man who stood in the crowd. "If they want to get along without any laws we can show them how it's done." "Bring out Emma Goldman and we'll burn her, too," cried a voice. During all the excitement, which lasted for three quarters of an hour, no policeman was visible in the crowd and there was not the slightest interference with its actions.

BODY NOW REPOSES IN WHITE HOUSE

Is Borne from Station to Famous East Room with Impressive Military Ceremony and Left for Night.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The body of President McKinley tonight lies in the east room of the White House, where for more than four years he had made his home as the chief magistrate of the great American republic. Upstairs in his family apartments that bring back many memories, it was with simple ceremony and a silence that fitted the sadness of the occasion that the body of the late president was borne by Pennsylvania avenue to the White House and laid upon the bier in the great east room, where he had stood so often in the pride of his manhood to receive the greetings of the common people.

It was fitting that such ceremony as there was should be military in character. Nowhere was there a show of civilian participation. The streets about the station were filled with mounted troops and the station itself was occupied by stalwart soldiers and sailors in uniform.

There was not so on Pennsylvania avenue. There the people straggled and crowded in a vast multitude against the stiff wire ropes which restrained them from the space marked out for the line of procession. The silence that marked the progress of the funeral party through the national capital was profound. The people as a whole did not talk, even the children who were the sign of agitation in the great crowd were the silent pressing and striving against the ropes to see the mournful cortege which swept slowly along.

CANTON HERALDS TRAIN'S APPROACH

The afternoon was cloudy and at the close of the day began the dull, depressing boom of a great gun at intervals of five minutes. It was the signal which gave notice of the approach of the funeral train. At the Pennsylvania railroad station men in bright uniforms gathered, a mixture of soldiers and sailors, and with lowered voices talked in groups while waiting to take their part in the ceremony.

The brigadier general and naval captain vaulted, awaiting the preparation of a permanent resting place. The parade, so far as the White House was concerned, will be made up of only Ohio military and civil organizations. Many tenders were received from other states, but it was deemed inadvisable to accept these. Many lodges and societies have announced their intention of attending. Chicago, Peasburg, Cincinnati and other cities have sent word that their prominent organizations will be represented by committees.
