(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Sept. 17 .- (Special.) -- Chairman Hall of the state committee appeared on the stage at 2:40 and called the convention to order. Walter Philipps of Co lumous, who had been nominated by the committee for temperary secretary, read the official call and Chairman Hall then amounced the committee's nomination of the temporary chairman, W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, and it was unanimously approved by a vote of the convention. Mr. Thompson was escorted to the stage by C. J. Bowley of Saline and Benton Maret of Dawson, who were appointed for this duty by Chairman Hall. He spoke for fifteen minutes, beginning with a reference to the anarchistic deed in Buffalo. His remarks were frequently interrupted by applause and in brief were as follows: We meet today with feelings of mingled joy and sadness. Through this gloom we the more closery see how we are united as one people and divine the brotherhood of all mankind. We, as to our president and his mankind. We, as to our president and his beloved wife, forget party and forget creed; above these we behold the noble manhood and womanhood, America's truest type of home and Christian life, the only permanent foundation on which nations are builded.

nent foundation on which nations are builded.

I am glad to greet a democracy that knows no surrender. Would that there were more of us; that those who left us in the last two campaigns were of us. Why should they not return? Behold the rule loyalty to party. Through their assistance the Declaration of Independence is made a mockery, the Monroe dectrine crippied, if not robbed of much of its virtue; a colonial system fastened upon us, with its wars and rumors of wars; a menacing standing army, with its increased burdens; an income tax swept away and a probibitory tariff in its place, fostering trusts and stiffing competition. These are some of the weeks that the in the pathway of this suicidal policy, and all for what? That a gold delar might be said to be the unit of value instead of the historic sliver dollar.

The gram old democratic party is willing to be recognized, if need be, by democrate, loyal and true, but those who have been beauting the sarred from in the republican band are not the fellows who should handle the cornet in the democratic procession.

May I ask why all this talk of reorganization? If we are to reorganize, on what line?

Is a democratic principle to be deserted simply because it has met defeat at the polls? If a platform is the consensus of opinion of the majority of a party, and if the minority should yield to the will of the majority, so expressed, can there be a question as to where the democracy stands today?

Now, I'il tell you how I would reorganize the democratic party. I would just let it remain as it is and ask every voter in the nation who is opposed to the imperialistic and extravagant policy of the present administration to vote with those believing as they do, and select a leader who has never slackened his traces or sulked when the battle was on. never slackened his traces of sunce which the battle was on.

He from the precedents and unwritten rules declared that he was humiliated by the and the regulations of the order ever atoss of Nebraska last year, but he was confident that in the near future he would see the state back again in the democratic column and he pledged his best services to the effort to bring about the change.

Motions to adjourn until evening were defeated by an overwhelming vote, as was also a motion by C. J. Smyth to proceed with the nomination of a candidate for supreme judge, it being the sense of the convention that it would be dangerous to go ahead with the business without first hearing from the populist convention through the conference committee. During the intermission speeches were made by Rausom and Dunn of Douglas.

At 4:45 a motion was made by a delegate n the rear of the house to adjourn until o'clock in respect to the late president. Amendments changing the time of recess were offered and finally, after a short debate, a motion by Eastman of Custer to adjourn until 7:20 was carried by viva voce vote. The adjournment was opposed on the ground that an evening session would prevent many of the delegates from returning to their homes until tomorrow. During the afternoon session the convention by a rising vote, on motion of Howard of Platte. requested the chairman to send a message of condolence to Mrs. William McKinley. The democrats assembled at 7:30, the evening session being held in the house of representatives half at the capitol. The report of the conference committee that it had been agreed to give one party the nomination for supreme judge and the other party the nominations for the board of regents, was unanimously adopted, it being explained that the two committees had informally decided that the former should go to the democrats. The convention resolved to begin balloting for supreme judge and the first vote taken resulted:

Platform Adopted.

The platform reported by the resolutions ommittee and adopted by the convention declares unfaltering allegiance for and betief in the principles enunciated by democratic leaders from Jefferson to Bryan and as set forth in the Kansas City platform demands more stringent immigration laws devised to exclude anarchists from American territory; recommends Nebraska's representatives in congress to give their support to an effort to provide liberal appropriations for a national system of irrigation; arraigns the republican party in Nebraska as a subservient tool of railroad orporations; declares that the plank in the republican platform demanding the custodians of public funds to make frequent reports to the public was not adopted in good faith, as evidenced by the failure of the present treasurer to comply with the provisions thereof; condemns the action of Governor Savage in paroling Joseph Bartley; favors the nomination of state and county officers by a primary system so devised that every elector of a political party may aid by his ballot in the selection of the candidate of his party; and points with pride to the records of all fusion officials, special mention being made of former Attorney General Smyth. A resolution adopted with the platform follows:

The assagniation of our president has filled the hearts of the people of the nation with profound sorrow, and we deplore and deneunce the cruel and inhuman act by which his illustrious carreet has been terminated. The democracy of Nebraska express for Mrs. McKinley their heartfelt sympathy in her great bereavement.

Howell came here a few days sgo and represented himself as wealthy business man of Rome, .. He passed two checks on local business men. drawn by F. E. Bacon & Co. of Rome in favor of Howell on the First National bank of Rome. The checks were today repudiated. Howell said before leaving the city that he was spending a few days on the the officers will look for him there.

Swenson's Case Postponed.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Sept. 17 .- (Special.) The case of Warden Swenson of the Sioux Falls penitentiary, who was cited to appear before Judge Carland yesterday, charged with contempt for alleged premature release from the penitentiary of Richard A. Tubbs, ex-mayor of Alcester, has been postponed until Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The case was continued because of the funeral of President McKinley. It is reported here that Deputy Warden Peterson left yesterday to rearrest Tubbs to again place him in the penitentiary. It is likely that Tubbs will fight hard against being reincarcerated.

To Pay Last Respects to McKinley. MITCHELL, S. D., Sept. 17 .- (Special Telegram.)-Memorial services for the late day of the interment in Canton. The city organ of us at this sale at the prices now is draped in mourning and a feeling of sadness is exhibited throughout the city for the calamity that has come to the nation. In the procession to the corn palace, will take part.

When we made up our mind to close out the planes and organs returned to uh from talking with General Barry upon the sub- were offered by Rev. Mr. Maccaud of Grace our country agents, we also made up our mind that we could not expect any profits: In fact, we figured on an actual loss of possibly $8,000 to $9,000. This loss in dollars is counterbalanced by the general advertising our business will derive from the placing of these some ninety instruments in homes all over the surrounding ristes, as well as the absolute necessity of disposing of these pianos before our fall stock, contracted for in advance and which will commence arriving October 1, overcrowds our warerooms, and we should be required to engage additional storage room. We still have some very desirable styles in the strictly high grade makes that will be closed out at from one-third to one-half off and on terms to suit your convenience. In those good, medium grade planes that sell regularly at from $250 to $350 we have left some beauties in walnut, mahogany and oak cases that would be good value at the above prices, but when you can get them at the prices we have marked them at this sale you have only yourself to blame if you do not improve the opportunity.

There is one sample plane left in a rich mahogany case, worth regularly $400; marked to sell at this sale for $227; one cabinet grand Kimball plane worth $450. slightly used, but as good as new, marked to sell at this sale for only $190; good, serviceable upright pianes in hands of our country agents from two to six months. marked to sell at this sale at $100, $128, $145 to $198. These planes are all guaranteed by
