CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

House Sales Last Week Broke All Previous Records by Big Margin.

MARKETS SHOW BUT LITTLE CHANGE

Reports Regarding Coffee Crop in Brazii Show the Largest Yield Ever Recorded in History of the Trade.

Last week was the banner week in the history of the wholesale trade of this city. Jobbers say they never before experienced enything like the house trade that they had last week, and although they were looking for a good many merchants, the number that actually did arrive was far in excess of their expectations. All the traveling men from Nebraska and also a great many from the surrounding states were in the city to meet their customers and wait upon them, but still there was such a rush of buyers that even with the assistance of the travel-that even with the assistance o ing men it was difficult to give all the merchants prompt attention. The majority of retailers who visited the market placed exceptionally liberal orders, which would indicate that they are contemplating anticipating a good fail and winter business. Those who were interviewed on the situation all said that trade this summer had been very satisfactory, all things considered, and that there was every reason for looking forward to a good demand in the future. People in Nebraska and neighboring states have plenty of money and will be fully as liberal buyers as they were a year ago. Confidence regarding future business was, in fact, visible on all sides and as a result jobbers are more encouraged than ever. The general opinion among jobbers is that the festivities this year have been the most successful of many yet held, as more of the better class of merchants came to the city and were well pleased with their entertainment, which naturally means that they will come again.

The market situation has not materially changed since last report. As a general thing prices are good and firm and so far as can be told there is no prospect of values reaching a lower level for some time to come. dicate that they are contemplating anticipa-

Grocertes Hold About Steady.

Groceries Hold About Steady.

The wholesale grocery houses were flooded with visiting merchants all last week and while grocers as a rule do not buy many goods while in the city, they did place a good many orders during their stay issi week. The exceptionally large number of visiting merchants even for Ak-Sar-Ben week was probably accounted for to some extent by the fact that grocers and general merchants held a two days' convention, which was well attended.

While there have been very few market fluctuations since last report, there are, nevertheless, a number of features worthy of mention. The demand for sugar is still exceptionally heavy for this season of the year and probably will continue so for the next ten days or two weeks, when the preserving season will be over with Fruit jars were also in big demand last week and in fact the demand was far in excess of the supply, so that this market is now entirely bare.

There is but little change in canned goods with the exception of corn and tomatoes, which are a little firmer, and particularly

There is but little change in cannel access with the exception of corn and tomatoes, which are a little firmer, and particularly is that true of the latter. There were frosts last week of considerable extent, which practically put a stop to the packing of tomatoes, and present indications are that higher prices will rule at no very distant

The cheese market for some time past has been considerably lower than usual at this time of year. That condition was brought about through lack of export demand. During the last few days, however, several lots have been sold for export, which has given a firmer tone to the market and higher prices are looked for in the next two weeks. The quality of the stock now on the market is exceptionally good for this time of year.

In farinaceous goods there is no change, except in beans, which are a trifle firmer, owing to excessive rains in Wisconsin and Michigan, which are the two big bean producing states of the country.

In dried fruits there have been no changes in quotations in this market worth mentioning. It is reported, however, that the bulk of the California evaporated peaches have passed out of first hands and for that reason as soon as the fall demand sets in higher prices may be looked for, particularly on the cheaper and fancy grades. The raisin growers' association as yet has not continued to the content of the country of the chaper and fancy grades. The cheese market for some time past larly on the cheaper and fancy grades. The raisin growers' association as yet has not announced prices on the new crop. Old stock is well cleaned up and three and four crown goods are practically out of the market.

The coffee situation is attracting considerable attention because of the unusual conditions which exist. For some time past those posted on the condition of the crop in Brazil predicted an enormous yield, but it is doubtful if anyone realized how far in its doubtful of the crop would go.

those posted on the condition of the crop in Brazil predicted an enormous yield, but it is doubtful if anyone realized how far in excess of previous years the crop would go. The total receipts of Brazil coffer from July 1 to September 16 of the present year were 4,450,000 bags. The largest previous receipts for the corresponding period were in 1809 and amounted to 3,348,000 bags. The receipts, it is said, are increasing at a rapid rate, so that it is thought that the surplus over all provious years will continue to increase during the next two months. To show how fast the crop is being marketed, it might be said that at the present time there are 715,000 bags on the water.

The total crop for the year 1901-02 is conservatively estimated at 13,000,000 bags, while the largest actual crop on record is 11,000,000 bags. The largest visible supply tober, 1899. The visible supply, however, in September, 1901, is 8,654.801 bags, which breaks all previous records.

Jobbers and brokers, however, call attention to the fact that although the crop this year is enormous, still strictly high-grade coffee will not be as low as would seem reasonable and will be considerably above the quotations on the general run of stock. This is owing to the fact that a large prepartion of the new crop is what is called "blighty," that is, inferior. There will, of course, be plenty of good coffee on the market, but buyers will have to pay a little more for it than for the general run of stock which is now being marketed. In view of the enormous crop, those posted on the situation predict a dull and weak market for some little time to come. Buyers will naturally be afraid to load up for fear that prices will take a drop, and for that reason trade is apt to be light until there is a falling off in receipts. Since last report there is a little firmer feeling on the markets abroad, but it is thought that it is purely speculative and will only be of short duration.

Hardware Remains Firm.

Hardware Remains Firm.

Hardware jobbers, the same as wholesalers in other lines, experienced a very nice trade last week and made the acquaintance of many of their friends and customers that they have been doing business with for the last several years. The visitors as a rule placed very liberal orders to the extent at least, that wholesalers broke all previous records for house sales.

The market is in about the same position as it was a week ago. Prices are firm all along the line and although the strike situation has improved and many of the title mills are at work, still jobbers do not look for any weakness in the market. Most of the mills were far behind with their orders before the strike came, so that now they before the strike came, so that now they are so badly swamped with business that it will be some time before they will be able to put out enough stock to weaken the City Flooded with Merchants.

The dry goods houses on Howard street seemed to be the general meeting place for visiting merchants last week. Jobe's had prepared for a host of visitors, but a they had never seen anything like as many retailers in the city at any one time as arrived last week, they were in a way unprepared, but still their customers were waited upon in good shape. In speaking of the trade for the week, a representative of one of the houses said that they sold fully 100 per cent more goods last week than they did during Ak-Sar-Ben week a year ago. They tried to close their houses on Thursday afternoon, but there were so many buyers crowding into the stores that they had to keep open the same as usual. So far as market news is concerned, there is practically nothing new to be said, as the general market is about the same as it was a week ago.

There was a very good demand last week for fruits and vegetables. The great influx of visitors increased the local demand on i then, too, the visiting merchants placed a good many liberal orders. the king immediately upon his ascension, 66 was secretly summoned from London to Copenhagen to make an examination of the king's throat. This was the reason of the 49 prolongation of the king's sojourn at Fredenshorog and of the canceling temporarily of of his arrangements to visit Balmoral, 48 where all had been prepared for his reception last Tuesday.

The king now limits his consumption of cigars to three a day, a restriction which 72 he at first strenuously resisted. Although his physicians affirm that the growth in the throat is not malignant, it obstinately resists all attempts at cure and grows steadily worse. It has affected the king's voice so seriously that he must avoid all public speaking.

ODD FATALITIES TO BABES One Infant is Killed by Rats in an Asylum and Another Dies of Ants' Bites.

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, Sept. 21 -- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-Two babies recently met horrible deaths under curious circumstances. One, a boy 8 months old, on sale today, but they were mostly feeders and sold at just about steady prices, and sold at just about steady prices, the supply of sheep the been the largest this week for some little time, but still by big rodents which invaded the asylum from a sewer, broken during the night. The other victim was a girl 4 months old. The mother, a peasant, while harvesting grapes placed the baby on the grass under a tree Soon the child began to cry, but the vineyard workers thought it simply wanted its mother and let it cry on, saying it would soon tire and be quiet. When picked up two nours later the child was dying from the bites of big ants. She died the same

The disposition of the day's receipts was as follows, each buyer purchasing the number of head indicated: Cattle, Hogs, Sheep.

There have been a good many cows and heifers on sale all the week, but the demand was sufficient to take about everything offered at steady prices. Trade was active each day and at times the market looked a little better, but there has not looked a little better, but there has not looked a little better, but there has not looked a little better. looked a little better, but there has not been enough change in the prices paid to be worthy of mention. The demand for canners has been unusually good. Bulls, calves and stags have also sold in about the same notches they did a week about the same notches they did a week ago.

The demand for heavy feeders showing quality has been fully equal to the supply, and prices have changed very little. Most of the country buyers want the heavy-weight cattle, and then, too, there have been a good many heavy cattle hought here to be fed at the different distilleries, so that sellers have had no difficulty in disposing of that class of stuff at steady prices. The light stockers and particularly the common stuff, however, have not moved as freely and are barely steady for the week.

as freely and are barely stead, week.

The bulk of the receipts all the week have been made up of western range cattle. The steers that were good enough for killers have advanced 15225c and have been in active dermand. Cows sold readily at steady prices, and so, also, did the desirable grades of feeders. The common stockers, though, were almost unsalable at any price. Representative sales:
