THE OMAHA DAILY BEE: WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1901.

ent minds.

Skitters and the Falls By MORTIMER O. WILCOX.

(Copyright, 1901, by S. S. McClure Co.) scribe this apparatus very closely. Every PART L

B. G. Skitters.

cigar and is an intricate contrivance of public." How great events depend on trivialities! rubber and steel springs. A certain free-A chain of circumstances, in themselves indom and power of movement are allowed to significant, brought us together, a little the limbs, which close in upon a trunk of group of strangers, and drew us finally into great rigidity, and the headplece looks not that tragic adventure of which so much unlike a diver's helmet. Ignorant as I am has been said and written. The first of of such things it seemed to me, even then, these circumstances was no doubt my stopping to speak with Skitters, B. G. Skitters of Buffalo, one day in April last.

Skitters since I have known him has amid a whirling chaos. always been full of enterprise and of tune in an hour. But the spring of the Pan-American year with its dazzling possibilities which affected some stronger heads seemed utterly to turn a head originally none too steady. When I saw him that morning he was loitering feverishly on the corner of Niagara street and Main and glaring like a tiger at the crowds which went to and fro. There was a feel in the air of adventure and success and the man on the corner seemed to be maddened by it. He began to rave. "Three good things gone wrong." said he. "Taree elegant, gilt-cdge, safe ideas, all gone to smash in a week!"

"How so?" I inquired.

"Oh, the same old fogles. Men that 1 ied to git interested wouldn't take 'em up. No more nerve in this town! But, say, for heaven's sake, if you know of anything real good that's doing let me in, will

"Same here." remarked a weary voice beside us. A youth with a derby hat on the back of his head and a cigar stump in the corner of his mouth had paused in his simless strolling. I recognized him as a distance sequaintance, one Curley Bowers, somewhat well known among the East Side gangs. Curley has imagination and even cultivates the Muses. I made the suitable introductions and happened to remark:

"Mr. Skitters here is interested in some Pan-American enterprises."

"Not now," he answered darkiy, "I wouldn't touch such wild-cat schemes; haven't the time anyway: too busy." His mood had changed and he eyed with a certain pitying melancholy the people that went past us, ephemerals of the hour.

"Look at 'em," said he, "and every other one has got some kind of a bee buzzing. restaurants, notions and sideshow fakes, anything, anything to coax a dollar out of the poor visitor. They'd better git on to one of them big yellow cars and go down to Niagara Falls and float over."

Young Bowers was moving leisurely away, At this casual remark he half turned round, and said: "I know of a feller in this town who says he can do the trick."

"Do what?" asked Skitters, "what's he talking about?" "Go over the Falls," replied Curley,

"Shoot Niagara. Course he'd need something to do it in." He spoke with a tired. dispassionate air, and drifted on. Would be quite a scheme, wouldn't it?"

said Skitters, and his eye lighted fitfully as it rested for a moment on one of the yellow cars. "What an advertisement!" And we talked of something else.

But the very next day he, Skitters, rushed into the office where I was. "I've found it! I've found it!" he exclaimed. "Found what?" I asked.

He dropped into a chair, and lowered his voice, but he was quivering all over with eagorness, like a hound one side like a bird. 'Fooh!' replied I. 'It's more madness.

Niagara means death." "Death ?" said he, cheerfully. "I should say it did. Death and your bones mashed What's that got to do with us? Now that we've got the man and the machine for the public to look at, all that we need is good management, and that's where your little friend comes in. Yes, sir," he eried, and swelled with the sublime ideal, "just a little good management and we've got the body knows that it is some kind of a pneufake of fakes." matic suit, but in reality Gills' much dis-"I refuse," said I with proper severity, cussed invention looks rather like a huge wto become a party to any fraud upon the

"Oh, well," he replied, still cheerful, "we'll arrange it some way." Skitters and rode back to Buffalo together, leaving the two others to lurk about the place and enjoy their own society.

That was the last that I saw for some that a person encased in this might endure little time of Skitters and his Niagara tremendous buffeting and frightful shocks. Navigation company. When I met him

MARKELL

"WE DREW IT UP ON THE BEACH AND BEGAN TO OPEN THE PNEUMATIC SUIT.

"I'll have some people fixed all right,

He began to be afraid, horribly afraid, gion. Skitters got so at last that he would eye the people who got upon the yellow

"Hello, hello," that voice said. "Say, once that Skitters and I had been playing could sometimes keep gazing upon a dan-became a manie with them. And I remembered the queer look I had seen in Westergang whose creed was to "take no bluffs"

and whose ideal was audacity. A presentidown into the street, almost running into people as I went, and boarded one of the PART II.

The Apex of the Horseshoe.

Arrived at the city, I hurried across to

All that day Westerman and Curley

Bowers had lain and watched the rapids cance of any human atom going down that descent less terrifying. Yet even to those daredevils the attempt could have promised hardly better than magnificent death.

Bowers tells me that his companion talked strangely, when he talked at all, and that there was a look upon his face all day not yellow cars which go to Niagara Falls.

and his party would be found.

"Well," replied he, thoughtfully, "up of Canada, where one can see them best.

to be understood.

"Do you really think," I questioned West-

"Oh, yes, of course, of course." Skitters that it would end in nothing.

of hours.

daring. It was not the training to make two. And with that the current him refuse when Skitters came with his caught it and whirled it. glittering offers to find him money and pitching and stumbling through the waves. notoriety if he would pretend to do the As though in mockery the river played hugest feat of all. Westerman was as much with it awhile and drove it downs against a piece of drifting wreekage in the cur- that reef of rocks which show above the rent as though he had been drawn into the water parallel with shore. When we saw Nisgara and carried down to the brink the German clutch at these and lie there, it from the city up above. But the more that seemed to us that it was not too late and he watched and studied the river the more that he might yet be saved. For, perhaps did the strange fascination of it and the the space of two minutes, he rested against longing to conquer it-and I cannot help ticse rocks and he may have heard our thinking also a certain deep honesty of shouts of encouragement, but who can nature-preserve him from the fakir's part. guess what was going on in his mind as He and Skitters, on the whole, were workhe hung there over death. He stirred ing at cross-purposes and with very differagain spasmodically at last, rolled over on his side into deeper water and with reck-For Skitters in the meantime had been less valor which made us gasp to see it making his arrangements for the fraud with swam straight for the apex of the Horsea cheerful, tireless industry. Day after day shoe.

had seen him down at the scene of action. Skitters the while was coming up betaking measurements and "fixing people." hind us; when he beheld that sight he The preumatic suit had indeed been sent turned around and ran away, uttering successfully over the Canadian fails. Skit- strange noises. But Bowers and I. rs. and possibly keep the breath of life awhile again he reported that arrangements were ters. I believe, had persuaded certain men we saw the Alsatian take thus his one being perfected, that he had a rowboat upon that side that the same thing would chance for life and victory, were seized The inventor was speaking and looking all ready below the fails and a scheme merely be done again this day, artful stage with a new mad recklessness, so that we schemes more or less crazy to make a for- at us with a childish, shy pride. "We worked out to put the supposed swimmer | management and the gift of gab would make forgot the stake, forgot the ghastly odds and began to shout encouragement again.

"O, good boy, good boy, Pete," we cried. (We must ourselves have been half-crazy.) "Go on there; you can do it!" The water caught him again and shot him forward; it all passed rapidly as an accident. That moment when the black form hung poised upon the brink of the abyss was not to be forgotten. He had swung himself around to go down feet foremost; he seemed to shoot out and to keep the crest of the water skillfully enough and fell with it through crashing space and clouds of blinding vapor to the bottom of the precipice 150 feat below forward

Upon the place seemed suddenly to rest a solemn bush and quiet for all the movement and the uproar. Curley Bowers and 1 stood peering and watched the water going over so majestically, as though we half expected that it might bring him back. A rainbow had appeared and hung across the chasm; behind us the sun was shining and the world v -t on as usual. But from out the misty, echoing gorge faint voices and strange noises seemed to cise, and Curley Dowers was shivering, and talking to himself. "He's gone," the lad lamented; "poor eld Westerman, he's off the msp! Wouldn't that jar you?" Then he pulled himself together and started to run down toward the elevator. "C'm on," he shouted to me. "Let's see this circus through."

his face a pale pes green. "Look a here," he cried, with a knowing air, "this thing is getting pretty close to risky. We'd better look out for our scalps, and cut and run." But Bowers, showing his teeth like a wharf rat, snarled: "Who cares about your scalp? There's a game man gone down there. You've got a boat, 'n' you'll come along 'n' help get him out." So we hurried down to the lower river where the boat was, Skitters and his company. We must have been a curious collection! The inventor had run down and joined us, his eyes bulging and his mouth wide open. Even then he seemed to be principally concerned about the fate of the suit. From his somewhat fragmentary remarks I gathered that after he had carefully inclosed Westerman in this, plain for all men to see, the German had quietly rolled off into the water. He had goue down to keep the appointment. indeed, but in his own fashion; old Gills was still indignant at the trick. We crouched there, meanwhile, on the stones, and watched the writhing water come out from the shadow of the precipice with queer long streaks in it. Bowers and Skitters and the man who had charge of the boat pushed off in this; they went a long way out and as far as they dared up the stream. Yet it was close inshore and very near us that we caught sight of the object of our search, and the sight of it gave us all a start. "See, see; there it is!" muttered old Gills and pointed. We watched it with a kind of awe as though it had been un-

Table and Kitchen Practical Suggestions About Food and the Preparations of It

Dally Menus.

THURSDAY, BREAKFAST Fruit. Cream. Fried Eggplant. ried Eggplant. Tomato Omelet. Hashed Brown Potatogs. Corn Bread Coffee. LUNCH. Let's see this circus through." "Beside the elevator we found Skitters. s face a pale pea green. "Look a here." Tripe a la Creole. Stuffed Potatoes Dressed Cucumbers. Stewed Fruit.

Reast Loin of Veal. Brown Sweet Potatoes. Dissues Siewed Tomatoes. Dissuestes. Rice Croquettes. Stewed String Bean Saind. Chocolate Souffle. Coffee.

FRIDAY BREAKFAST. rait. Creamed Tomatoes. Coffee. Codfish Balls. White Muffins, LUNCH. Cereal. eamed Eggs Cheese Toast. Popovers Fruit Sauce. DINNER Cream of Onion Soup jed Salmon. eamed Eggs.

offed Salmon. Cucumber Sauce, Buttered Beets. Scalloped Potatoes. Cold Slaw. Tapioca Pudding. Coffee.

SATURDAY, BREAKFAST, Sliced Bananas, Liver and Bacon Broiled, Sauted Cucumbers, Cakes Cereal. Cream. Rice Cakes. LUNCH. Coffee. Fried Oysters. Cold Catsup. Nut and Apple Salad. Cheese. Wafers.

Cheese. Tea. DINNER. Vegetable Broth. Braised Beef Tongue. Horseradish Sauce. Mashed Potatoes. Glazed Turnips. Tomato and Cucumber Salad. Nutmeg Melons Filled with Vanilla Ice Cream. Co.Tee.

Chips

SUNDAY

speenfuls of butter in a saucepan and when is oily add the same amount of sifted flour and stir until smooth and bubbling. let brown slightly and then add the tomato liquor, season with salt and pepper and h is ready to serve. Never add sugar to a tomato sauce for meat or fish, no matter how acid the fruit may be, as the acid flavor adds just zest to the dish that is so destrable. Another Tomato Sauce-Take a cup of red cataup, heat, add one-half cup of soup stock or broth and thicken with a level tablespoonful of flour and same of butter. rubbed to a smooth paste and stirred in the sauce until thoroughly dissolved and mixed.

Mushroom Sauce-Add one-balf can or one cupful fresh quartered mushrooms to one cupful of brown sauce made in the usual way; simmer gently for five minutes Potato Souffie-Season one pint of mashed potatoes with salt, pepper and butter, moisten with a little hot cream so they will whip up easily and lightly with a fork beat the whites and yolks of three eggs separately; stir the volks into the hot mashed potatoes and then whip well with the fork; set aside to cool. When cold, fold in the whites very carefully and bake in a buttered pudding dish or souffle cups. Cold mashed potatoes can be served in this way and make a dainty accompaniment to cold meat or hot canned salmon with to mato sauce if you are unexpectedly chiled upon to entertain a guest with "nothing in the larder."

Cheese Souffe-Make a white sauce according to directions given, seasoning with cayenne or paprika instead of white or black pepper. When sauce is smooth and thick, stir in the yolks of three eggs well beaten and a cup of grated cheese, and set away to cool. When quite cold, fold in the well-beaten whites of the eggs and bake half an hour.

Fruit Souffe--This is much on the same principle as the potato souffle. Take fruit that has been cooked, put through a sieve and sweeten; beat into the whites of the eggs, allowing one tablespoonful of sugar to each white, and as much fruit as can be beaten in without making i may be used or not, as desired. If used, beat them and add to the hot sauce; then cool. The point is to have the whites unbeaten, adding the sugar and fruit alternately. Apple Souffle-Rub stewed apples through the colander; allow two tablespoonfuls of sugar to each apple. Add finely alfted bread crumbs to make it consistency of marmalade; then stir in the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, and when cold the stiffly beaten whites. Custard Souffle-To a white sauce made of three tablespoonfuls of hutter, aix of flour and one pint of hot milk, add three tablespoonfuls of sugar and the weil-beatcu volks of six eggs. Set away until cocl; then fold in the stiffened whites and bake in cups or paper cases. Thirty minutes in a moderate over will suffice. Serve with creamy sauce.

"In this here town," said he. solgame. emply, "up near Black Rock, there's an old fellow that's an inventor, and he's had a burt him."

hobby for years. He works in a bicycle "That is pretty ingenious," I said to Skitters as we came away, "but to drop fogy, always afraid that his invention is repair shop, but night times he works on the hobby-an invention. And, by Gad." over Niagara Falls in! Do you think it (his voice fell to a whisper). "I most begoing to git hurt. I've got Westerman would ever work?" Heve that he's got something there at last.

"Looks as though it might, anyway," he ticing with the suit. All he needs to do is Where's that young fellow." Skitters cried, musingly replied, "and that would do just seem to git in above the fails and then "that we were talking to yesterday?" as good." From which I guessed that he seem to git took out below, and then -Oh "Who? Oh, young Bowers?" said I. had his own id as mamma, the world is ours! 'What do you want of him ?"

"Do you remember what he said?" Skit-Then we two got upon a car and rode he used to hint mysteriously. And the ters replied, "about knowing a fellow who down past Tonawanda and the open counmotto that he gave his followers was, "Rewanted to go over Niagara. Well, by heav- try beyond. Presently we caught sight of member Steve Brodie." ens, I'm a-going to give him the chance." the river above LaSalle, with its waters to the telephone and called up moving onward quietly to their doom, a a grocery store out on "the East side, on a little restlessly perhaps, but, as Skitters were, indeed, as may be remembered, vague loon. Around that corner, os I knew, relics companion viewed this scene with complaof one of the old street gangs of Buffalo cency and I listened to a dissertation from still loafed and lottered through the heavy his lips on the utility of Niagara. hours.

"Seems as though somebody would have "Hello," said I into the telephone. "If thought of it before." he ended. "I won-Curley Bowers is near there will you please ask him to come down town?" and I gave der no one hain't and I shouldn't wonder a bit if they'd be doing it, a-following on the name and number. my footsteps." He glared around with an Skitters meanwhile had eat down by the window. From that window one can see injured air. "This year there's big induce-two empires facing the waters of Lake ments to do it. This ain't the year for small fakes." Erie, wide and blue, and the point where At Prospect Point we found Curley Bowthose waters pass so quietly and unsuspectingly into the clutch of the strongest of rivers. Skitters gazed upon this scene plained that his friend was across in to the telephone, expecting some ordinary distance away and the people in it were staring suspiciously and with that half hyp-notic hewilderment which a mystery causes.

"Looks quiet and gentle enough out there, don't it? he observed. "Who'd ever guess myth, this singular being who wanted to citement was vibrating in it. go over the falls. We three crossed the what there was a few miles down yonder? What a chance for somebody!" He went then on down the bank of the Canadian goin' to try that thing today; you'd better off into deep musing and presently came out of it to chant a kind of song to me, the song of the "Dollar Hunter."

upon a wet rock and staring fixedly up at to hesitate. "I can't quite make out Wes-After a while Curley Bowers sauntered the cataract. Curley approached and terman. I'm kind of afraid he-means-to- Westerman had instructions to hurry down in, still doing the dignified. Like some of touched him, then with a graceful wave Come on down, will you?" his kind, in the presence of strangers he of his paw said: "Let me make you gents affected a polite and lofty indifference, his acquainted" and did so. notion of good manners. We explained that Westerman was, as I now remember him, we wanted particulars about the man who a short and very thickset young man, in whom the life lay deep. He appeared to be thought he could swim Ningara.

"Well," replied Curley, "he's a feller somewhat stolid, yet at the same time innamed Jake Westerman-a Dutchman. He terested me. The curious, absent look in kind of hangs on to the edge of our push his eyes impressed me even then, and he an' he's a sort of queer feller-always doin' had also an expression which is. I believe, things that others won't, makin' long swims | characteristic of those who love daring ven-'n' dives, you know, 'n' jumpin' off'n ele- tures. If you have ever watched a man vators. Well, one day he had some kind about to try, say, a high dive, you will of job down at Ningara Falls 'n' when it know what Westerman's constant manner was done he went over 'n' looked at the was. He spoke very little, and appeared place 'n' asked questions about logs that either sullen or shy, but kept turning his had went over, 'n' Graham's barrel, and so eyes toward the cataract above us. Scen from down there one could imagine that the forth. He's been down there lots of times waters of all the lakes were being tipped since to poke around-whenever he had the over upon one out of the sky, and the clouds carfare-'n' they say that he'll set down above vanished behind that overhanging over Table Rock 'n' watch the water 'n' think for hours. He's a sort of a queer felbrink. "Aw," remarked Bowers at last, "give ler. He don't never say much, but I've heard him say that with some kind of a rig. us something simpler. Better go down 'n' a barrel or something, he'd try it as sure take a swim in the whiripool, Jake, 'n' let her go at that." as beans." "Now, you listen to me," said Skitters impressively. "I've found the rig. I want you erman, "that any man could go down that to get that fellow and I want you to bring place and live ?" him over to Black Rock: here's the address -tomorrow at 2 p. m. I'll be there and there I can't help thinkin' that there'll be The immensity of the thing, which grows we'll go down to Niagara Falls and look a kind of a chance. The American fall is upon one gazing, did not daunt, but fasover the ground. You come along, too," no good, and besides they've spolled it cinated them; perhaps the very insignifiadded Skitters, graciously, to me. "It's a drawin' the water off. This fall here is lower than the American, and there's lots watery road made the thought of the thing worth seeing.

But soon other matters intervened and more water to float in, and that, I guess. Skitters and I were late to that rendezvous. would be my chance. There's a place up When we reached the house at Black Rock, there where the curve is that I've looked at Bowers and his mysterious friend had come a good deal. Water seems friendlier, someand gazed and gone. They had seen the how, and it keeps a-goin' over and a-goin' invention and left word that we could find over so easy-" He recovered himself with an effort and became sullen again. "But hem down at the falls. Gills, the inventor, I'll tell you what." he added to Skitters. was a shambling, shy old man of about 60, "you'll have to get that rubber rig and send trade and without relatives, so far as I with somewhat of a cranky gleam in his weak eyes. He led the way mysteriously it over first. I want to see how she stands can learn. It is said that he had tried around the house, past the repair shop, and It. to a little woodshed in the rear. There he replied. He had not been looking at the pulled aside a canvas and we looked upon his masterpiece, the labor of his love. it will be easily understood that I can-

us. Presently he drew me spart. act. at the present time, attempt to de-we watched the figure stirred rolled it off'n the roof of the house," said, into the river above. "And we've tried the jit appear that a man had been inside the and swam. he, "with a boy in it and it didn't never rubber suit!" he exclaimed one day. "We suit this time, and such truly enough was Alive! Skitters stood up in the sent it over by moonlight, night before the program as Skitters planned it. The reckless of the river and flushed with the last. It got bumped a bit, but stood it one element to interfere, the infatuated dar- pride of victory, Napoleon at Austerlitz, pretty well. Gills, though, is such an old ing of a man of the old Germanic war breed. Caesar on the triumphal car. He bowed Skitters could not estimate. "This kind of as though to invisible crowds: I believe thing needs a head like mine to do it." said that for a moment he thought he owned down there, learning the ground and prache when he saw me come, and he mopped a the Falls. "Gentlemen." he almost sobbed. seaming brow, "but it's all figgered out "I didn't quite plan it this way, but we've got here the biggest attraction that the now." world has ever yet seen. We'll be known

I arrived upon the stage in time to see, but not to take a part. The characters were all over America tomorrow." "Help me to get him out of this," cried already grouped for the play-which might Bowers. They had towed the bulky figure in toward land and the arms kept swimming interfere with the performance had I known and convulsively clutching air. We drew how. As Skitters and I walked up past it upon the beach and began to open the Table rock he pointed ahead toward the pneumatic suit, wondering to see how this wooded shore that borders the Canadian had been bruised and strained. One of the had said: "Who would ever guess!" My rumors of attempts upon the falls, for such rapids. We looked across wild waters and legs hung limply, smashed in spite of all ideas seem at times to come like a conta- saw even at that moment two men come the armor.

suddenly out of the bushes close by the What followed next I find it not easy river and bend over something which lay to describe. We got the helmet off at cars with a positive hatred. He saw a rival between them on the ground. "That's him," last with nervous fingers, and we saw a in every traveler and chafed at the flight said Skitters, "and the professor, old crank, smothered, distorted countenance, the eyes "Some one will beat us yet, he's so dead afraid that his suit may git closed tight as though to shut out fear. some one will beat us yet," he used to hurt. He doesn't care so much about the They opened in a moment, with the strangbitterly cry. But for myself I had begun man." For the inventor also, it seemed, est, blankest expression in them, and did to lose all interest in his scheme, believing was in the cast, and his part was to put not see us, and a voice began to speak, or Westerman into his invention, and after- gibber rather, no matter what the words day in the history of Niagara. On the ward to let him out again, not so publiclywere. What would the words be of one drowsy hush of a noon hour the telephone an easy thing to do with nobody very near. whose reason has snapped suddenly and left a mind all blank or topsy-turvy. ers awaiting us. He was alone, but ex-plained that his friend was across in to the telephone suddenly jarred. I went distance away and the people in it were I suppose, in fact, that the German's he had already begun to seem almost a away which was speaking and a strange ex. "See 'em rubber," Skitters said complacently. "They think that this is genuine. bridge and stopped to gaze upon the view, this is Bowers, down at the Falls. We're We'll be in the papers tomorrow." He turned and started back to look to his arside and saw there a lonely figure seated come on down. And say," the voice seemed rangements, for he had a boat all ready on the lower waters to assist in the deception.

> along the bank and be fished out of the I hung up the receiver and did some sober stream below, and the press agent would thinking. Ie began to dawn upon me all at do the rest.

But just above the point where one enter with fire, if the expression may be allowed the elevator I met Curley Bowers, and his in this connection. I had heard of how men eyes were alight with a strange excitement. "He swears he's goin' to do it; he swears gerous thing until the wish to conquer it he's goin' to do it!" cried the lad in something between terror and delight, "an' no-"body knows but me." We stood in a line man's eyes and the answering gleam in the with the cataract and stared at it rather eyes of Curley Bowers. They belonged to a blankly, while the spray drenched and the roar deafened us. Before us we could see the point where the precipice retreats and ment of danger came heavily upon me and forms almost a funnel, the apex of the soa feverish longing to be away, and I went called Horseshoe fall. Volume of water was what Westerman desired, and out there the water wall was green with depth where the lakes went toppling down. There are hours of the day when the Canadian shore appears almost deserted, and this was one of them. The few people walking about seemed like little puppets; we ourselves seemed puppets, in a stage scene, and with that scenery! The whole business was unthe other bank, where I knew that Skitters real, with those two burly figures up the river bank, the little silont people in the trolley car looking on and Bowers and I the while obliged to move along deliberately and the cataract from those high grounds keeping up appearances, and to know that matters were out of our control. All day the sky had been cloudy, but now at sunset the sun came out and showed off the green and white of the crumbling waves that moved from above past the islands in endless procession and threw long shadows down to the vortex. The swimming suit lay motionless upon the rocks and Westerman had disappeared. "Oh, he'll never dare." I said to Bowers, and turned to look after Skitters, but just then the boy clutched my arm and pointed. I say but indistinctly; it

He was a genuine product of the streets seemed to me as though an empty suit had and the water fronts, without a settled been pushed into the current by its inventor, but Curley Bowers, with keener eyes, had dropped upon one knee, straining fercely forward, and he cried: "He'll tr unsuccessfully to enlist in the army; he surely had the courage. Unsuccessful in it! He'll try it! By G-, he's coming most things, he no doubt had been a street | down!"

falls, but at Westerman and the rest of Arab who dreamed, a young man who For a moment the clumsy misshapen form picked up a livelihood, as Curley said, doing seemed to lie motionless in the water. "Well," said he, and cocked his head on odd jobs of work and the minor feats of then it stirred and made a stroke or BREAKFAST Fruit. Cereal. Broiled Birds. Cream. Potato Souffle. Popovers. Coffee Popovers. Coffee. Cauliflower Soup. Hot Boned Chicken. Spiced Cherries. Oyster Sauce. Mashed Potatoes. Sweet Potatoes a la Caramel. Tomato Mayonnaise. Ice Cream in Cantaloupe. Coffee.

ce Cream in C. Coffee. SUPPER. Indian Sandwiches. Nut and Orange Salad. Wafers. Cheese

Tea. SAVORY SOUFFLES.

The Fortuitous or Casual Concourse of Atoms."

The souffie, as its name would imply, is something raised, light, puffed up.

It indicates indeed a delicate form of cookery that can be utilized in the concoction of various dainty dishes.

The foundation of nearly all souffies is superstructure through skillful combinations, additions and subtractions may become one of cheese, meat, potato, rice, fruit. "cordon bleu" may determine.

In the well-chosen menu of a correct brain, long dwelling upon that foolbardy English dinner the souffle almost invariably In a dainty, inexpensive souffle she can feat, may have become unrettled at the last appears either as an entremet or a dessert, while at a luncheon it precedes or and have given way rapidly during those minutes in the upper rapids. That had been follows the sherbet.

no sane man who swam at the falls before The general directions for making a souffe us, and the menthl wreck had been com- are as follows: Make a smooth, white pico, Ill., writes: "Foley's Kidney Cure is pleted at last by possibly the greatest sauce, using two level tablespoonfuls of physical shock that a human being has ever butter, one heaping tablespoonful of flour yet survived. Life was there still in that and one-quarter of a cup of warm milk. wrenched and battered form, but not a Add the well-beaten yolks of two eggs and spark of reason. But Skitters, with an El the seasoning; cook just long enough to, Dorado of dazzling possibilities still before thicken, stirring it constantly at first, then his eyes, refused to accept the truth, and set aside to cool. When quite cold fold in he strove to revive the shattered man with words of glittering cheer. "Just think of it." he bawled above the stunning uproar. "that you're made a man now. Think of the Midway up yonder; think of them great great big crowds a-streaming in from all America, and you alive, and the biggest thins of all the biggest inducement in all coposure to heat causes the air hubbles to the biggest inducement in all constructions of the state of the state of the supreme senate of Knights of the Ancient Essenic Order be-gan here today with 306 delegatest present. After addresses by Mayor. Fleighth an-harles Edgar Brown and others the sup-temperature in the oven, as a too sudden thins of all the biggest inducement in all committees. The session closes Thursday he strove to revive the shattered man with the stiff beaten whites (do not stir them thing of all, the biggest inducement in all exposure to heat causes the air bubbles to night. the burch-The Man Who Went Over Ni- break and forms a crust on top so they canagara-no fake about this show, and me not rize. If served on platters, they should your manager". Thus he gabbled to the be accompanied by a sauce. The recipes man before him, and the other was gab- which follow will serve as examples from in the water and turned the lights out Meat Souffle-Make the foundation of when one fell off the world. Meanwhile the thick, white sauce and reason with a little solemn cataract above thundered on un- onion juice, chopped pareley, celery sait, ceasingly, indifferent to us and our small or, if chicken or oysters are used, a bit of tragedy. Once Curley Bowers turned toward nutmeg. Add one cup of fine-chopped it and exclaimed with a touch of respect he meat, solidly packed; this may be chicken. rarely showed. "I guess it doesn't pay to monkey much with you." I am disposed to Fish makes delicate and delicious souffes. A only man alive who ever saw Niagara from or set on a cold dish, or allowed to stand a point on the middle of the Horseshoe fail: after coming from the oven, or it will fail: yet the public waits in vain. And the heat the dishes on which you set the three-quarters of an hour with two cloves, e small slice of chion and a pleze of hav leaf. When done strain out the seeds and hard part; measure and if you have not a pint of the tomato liquor add a little shot water or clear stock. Put four level table-

Creamy Sauce-Beat to a cream three tablespoonfuls of butter and six of sugar. Add two tablespoonfuls of sherry or crange juice and two tablespoonfuls of cream, beating vigorously. Just before serving warm the white sauce, but after this is laid the, the mixture over het water, but do not allow the butter to become oily.

Oranges, apricots, bananas, peaches prunes and dates are especially adapted to or custard, as the occasion demands and the souffle. Every housekeeper should prothe animating and controlling spirit of the vide herself with little souffle dishes and cases for she will find them the most useful addition to her list of cooking utensils. utilize many materials that would otherwise be impossible to set before a guest

> Mr. G. A. Siliuman, a merchant of Tammeeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians prenounced incurable. I myself am able to Testify to its merits. My face today is a living pleture of health and Foley's Kidney Cure has made it such."

E-senie Knights at Cincinnati.

POISON IN THE POT

For more than fifty years it has been known that tea and coffee contain poleca. The eminent Garman chemist, Lehmana, was one of the first to point out this im-periant fact. He experimented upon sevmonkey much with you." I am disposed to agree with this opinion. For indeed those giant things of nature would seem to have a certain stern resentfulness and Niagara, like the Matterborn, took vengeance on her conquerors at last. But think of that situation: He, B. G. Skittere, of all the men on earth, is forzed by the might of circumstances to shake his head and deny knowledge of a feat as to whose possibility the world is arguing. He has the pneumatic suit all ready for exhi-bition; he has, if he could produce him, the only man alive who ever ana Niagara form a point on the middle of the Horseshoe failt. ral teas and coffees at 1 observ and then not exposed suddenly to cold air or set on a cold dish, or allowed to stand after ceming from the oven, or it will fall heat the dishes on which you set the souffle dishes. Tomato Sauce—Tomato sauce can be made from the fresh fruit er from the canned, or frem the hright rei catsup, the latter, how-ever, being a little extravagant unless you have made it at home Simmer a can or a quart of tomatoes for three-quarters of an hour with two closes.

love or range.

SAN FRANCISCO. Sept. 24.-W. E. Lov-dal. secretary of the State Hop Growers' association, has assued a circular in which he estimates that the crop is short on the Pacific coast between 18.000 and 21.000 hales. He therefore advises growers to hold for bights prices. isher prices.

bling something about green girls who swam, which others may be deduced.

If .It's a "Garland." That's all you need to know about Const Hop Crop Short.

harvest hours are passing.