Seven miles of brick sidewalk are to be let by the city council tonight, the bids for which were opened at the meeting of the council last week and referred to the city engineer for tabulation. This tabulation shows that L. C. Besley is low on the six grading into consideration, John P. Weaver is low on the four-foot walks west of Eighth street and Besley low on the four-foot walks east of that dividing line.

Of the four-foot walks there are six and a half miles to be laid, of which four and a half miles are west of Eighth street and two miles east. Thus if the council in awarding the bids takes the grading into consideration Besley will secure by far the that the appeal was not taken within twenty days from the adjournment of the county board as required by statute. One of the leading femocrats said yesterday: "Mr. Phillips will not make any speech while here. I believe, as he is no talker, but he is a great handshaker. His visit here is simply to meet the leaders of the party in Pottawattamle county and arrange for the campatgn."

A story to the effect that $10,000 in gold hidden in an old tin teapot had been found by a workman while cleaning out the cellar of the old Officer & Pusey bank building, went the rounds of the city yesterday, but was without foundation.

As the story went, the workman, who was employed by Colonel Charles R. Digging deeper, the workman uncovered an old tin teapot and was much surprised at its weight. #### LIGHTNING CALCULATORS.

Extraordinary Aptitude Displayed by West Indian Children.

"One of the oddest things I came across in my wanderings," said a traveler recently returned from the West Indies, to a New York Tribune man, "was the extraordinary aptitude of negro children for mental arithmetic. I visited a good many of the public schools and saw some astonishing exhibitions of this faculty, which is probably the last with which one would credit the grand children of African savages, as many of the West Indian negro children are. The currency of the islands is, of course, British, so that calculations of any sort are more complicated than with us. Yet an inspector and consequently the prices quoted for this or visitor can ask a school full of ragged part of the work will, it is expected, cut urchins what would be the cost of seven gross of handkerchiefs at 5 pence 3 farthings apiece and receive the answer almost as soon as the words are out of his mouth. and doubtless long before he had himself worked it out. This can be kept up all day, to the great enjoyment of the children, who regard that sort of thing as

The same children, when confronted with a reader, may make sad work of it and seem certainly little above the everage. Even when made to do sums on a slate they are not brighter than most white children. Perhaps that statement should be qualified, for there is no doubt that the children of pure-blooded Africans develop phenomenally for the first five or six years of their lives and, indeed, until 12 or 13 years old. are fully the equals, intellectually of white children. I have never seen white babies as intelligent as some of these negro infants at the same age. But when past 12 their minds seem full grown and is is not easy to teach them except in cases here and there. All these observations, however, apply to children of negroes whose parents or grandparents were brought from Africa when full grown. There are many West Indian negroes who do not speak English and there are large societies named according to the part of Africa from which the members or their parents came. A Nangobar, for instance, would not think of joining a Congo society. Se they all stand much nearer to Africa than do our negroes, which makes the observation of their characteristics very interesting. Unfortunately, they do not seem to retain to any marked degree this faculty for rapid caulculation when they reach manhood. And even if they did they would be so backward in other respects that their value as clerks would be slight.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES Sept. 29 - (Special.) - The people of Des Moines have taken a new tack in regard to the numerous ratiroad projects, which have been exploited of late. The matter was brought to a head when the projectors of the Des Moines & North ern lowa railroad asked for a franchise through one of the city parks and for right of way through a well settled residence section of the east side. Little had been heard of the railroad project for a long time and it was surprised that the sudden revival of the project was not in good faith. A mass meeting of the residents of the east side was held and committees were appointed to fight the proposition to permit the road to go through the city park. This was followed by the appointment of J. Cunningham, H. Pardey, F. Searle, Ben a committee to make a thorough investigation of the business of the company and Coolness of a Kentucky Girl Under Distressing Circumstances.

'One of the most curious of Kentucky stories, and one that never reached the ears of the newspapers," gossipped a Louisville visitor to a Brooklyn Eagle man, "occurred some years ago in our city. A promising young man had come to the city, had done well, was of a respectable country family and had won the love of one of the finest young women in the city. "An only child and motherless, she lived with her father in one of the rambling mansions in the outskirts of the city. As will be held Wednesday and Thursday, in is the custom in many southern places, the servants lived in a small building in the rear of the large plot of land surrounding the house. Late one afternoon the father told his daughter that she had better ar A feature of the convention will be the range to spend the night with one of her opening of an open board and the buying friends, as he expected to leave the city on a business trip and would be gone over

> She told him that she would not be afraid to stay in the house alone. She expected to go out to the theater that evening with her fiance. When they returned she would ask him to see that all the win dows were securely fastened and she would feel perfectly secure after he had gone.

It seemed a peculiarly happy evening to the young They returned to the house in due time. At her request her flance examined all the windows and doors to see that they were fastened. Just before getting into bed and while standing in front of her mirror, combing her hair at a dresser just opposite the door to the room and over which was a transom, she saw reflected from the transom the face of a man. A closer look showed that it was the man she had just left at the door "Being of a cool temperament and not possessed of 'nerves,' she made no sign of her observation, but calmly turned out the gas and retired. She lay awake, waiting to see what would happen. In about half an hour she was horrified to see the figure of this same individual climbing through the transom. He got into th room, walked to her dresser, took the jewels from it, including gifts he himself had made to her; ransacked the little treasure boxes she had and then stealthily returned through the transom. With eyes half closed the young woman watched the whole per

She begged him not to create any scandal about it and as the young woman was nearly crazed with distress he respected her wishes. It was finally agreed that she should write to the young man, telling him that she had seen it all, asking him to return her jewelry and requesting him never to lot her see his face again. "The father took this note to the young man, who promptly delivered the valuables he had scolen. Several years ago, says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger, I was unwittingly the instrument of sending an intelligent Frenchman to the house of correction on a three months' sentence. It happened in this way:

With several newspaper men I was sitting in the Central police station when there entered a rather genteelly dressed man, who did not seem to understand a word of English. He addressed the magistrate it French and that official immediately asked 'Anyone here who speaks French?" One of the "boys" said, jokingly, "The Tattler does." "Do you?" asked the judge. I replied that I understood a little of the language, "Well," he said, "see what the gentleman wants." I turned to him and said: "Que voulez vous?" In reply he rat-

It was then the winter season and nothing more was thought of the matter, as it was not unmitted to the institution

I learned afterward that the man took his commitment to the correction and was immediately attired in one of the striped suits and placed in a cell. He offered no partic ular epposition, but thought that the procedure was one of the regulations. His friends missed him, however, and a general alarm was sent out that night to all the police stations. The next marning he was served with breakfast along with the other inmates and seemed to enjoy the experience. The magistrate at the Central was asked whether he knew anything about the case and he recalled having sent to the correction the previous day a man who answered the description.
