The authorities agree that the keynete of the financial situation last week was the opper situation. Even West Africane, is and a situation. Even West Africane, is and a situation for the financial and Australians fluctuated in sentimental harmony with the American market as it rose or fell in consequence of the arrying lights thrown upon the Anaconda alture to pay the expected dividend. The of the ablest experts draws attention is the utter lack of the sense of proportion which Europe, especially Paris, has exampled by nearly soing panic-stricken over ach an apparently incidental affair as the apper matter. He points out that this errous state, which existed during the creek, was due to a belief very generally lead in Germany and France that the incomity of the Anaconda people to meet exertations was only the premonitory sympom of the collapse of all amalgamations of apital interests in the United States, the xitout and methods of which have always answed the understanding of Old World manciers. It was several days before Europe recognized the falsity of such defactions.

The favorable American railroad receipts authorities agree that the keynote of favorable American railroad receipts The favorable American railrond receipts helped to gradual recoveries not only in the American section, but all around, and, while the closing prices were generally below those that marked the opening of the week, a better feeling prevailed.

With business quiet all sorts of rumors are rive regarding the itnentions of the Amaigamated company, the one most in favor being that the reduction of dividends was due to a plan of the managers to compal the other companies, notably life three and Calumet, to join hands with the Amaigamated company in curtailing amated company in curtailing

MARKET UNSETTLED Henry Clews Recommends Buying Only on the Brenks for

Quick Turns.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 .- (Special.) -- In his weekly review of Wall street Henry Clews, head of the banking firm of Henry Clews &

Co, says:

The stock market seems to be under the influence of a variety of conflicting conditions. The prosperity of the railroads still continues and shows no signs of abatement. In ordinary times this of itself would have afforded the market ample support without the assistance of the big operators, who as a matter of necessity have been obliged to prevent any organized bear campaign. But moetary and crop conditions have forced a gradual liquidation, which has now been in progress for several months. Wall street generally anticipates consequences and will seen be or conditions have forced a gradual adultion, which has now been in progress several months. Wall street generally it lietpates consequences and will soon becarbled discounting the probabilities led. Were it not for the industrial divisition. stock market and financial con Europe many of the best railro might be considered good pa ght be considered good pur-further concessions; but recent drawn attention to develop these two quarters, and their ments in these two quarters, and their outcome will certuinly have to be taken into consideration.

While the boom was in progress the industrials were comparatively neglected and the public fortunately took limited interest in their gyrations. When prosperity was at its height their destiny was left to the future, and the day of reckoning which every one expected ceased to have any terrors; the penalties of excessive capitalization, the problems of management and other perils incidental to an industrial revolution involving billions of capital were almost forgotten. Familiarity with fainger duiled apprehensions, and the risks no these unwieldy combinations from new competition were easily overlooked. Yet the very prosperity which facilitated their birth also created a set of new, vigorous, well equipped, low capitalized rivals, free of heavy obligations, whose operations were likely to be felt with increasing force as time progressed. It was inevitable, therefore, that the industrials would be the first to feel the effects of any trade reaction, particularly in view of the greatly increased capacity for production. Within a short period we have had unsattsfactory annual reports from several of the prominent combinations, the results of which tion; particularly in view of the greatly increased capacity for production. Within a short period we have had unsatisfactory annual reports from several of the promment combinations, the results of which are anything but encouraging to stocknolders. Rumors affecting the management of some of these concerns have added to the disturbance of confidence and prompted hearish attacks. The decline in Amaigamated Copper, which had its foundation in a lessened demand for the product, was a particularly disturbing factor; partly because it suggested trade reaction and partly because it seemed to explain the indifference of important interests toward a bull market at this time. Whether the Standard Oil party is adverse to an upward movement or not, it is evident that the industrials are a weak element in the market just now. Apart from their inherent defects arising from bad financing they are more exposed to sharp fluctuations from trade vicissitudes and speculative management than was ever possible with the railroads. The latter are now reasonably capitalized, honestly managed, and the intelligent investor has no difficulty in ascertaining the essential facts as to their intrinsic value. This much cannot be said of the industrials. Secrecy is still one of the objectionable features in their management, and public opinion is vastly more hostile to them than to the railroads in spite of the great powers of the latter and their tremendous combinations. What the next congress will do with the trusts is an important question that will coon confront us. Some action seems very likely to be taken, and President Roosevelt, conservative as he now may be, has never shown any particular friendliness for these combinations. Publicity of some sort will probably be insisted upon, and this is past what is most needed though least desired by speculative managers.

**CATTLE—There were only a few cattle in the yards today and those were not of the kind to make a fair test of the market. The supply for the week has been of quite liberal proportions, a good gain having open made over the last several weeks, but there is still a decrease as compared with the corresponding week of last year.

**Cornfed steers were in good demand all the week and strong prices were paid for anything at all desirable. As there were nounds, everything was picked up in good season. The best cattle of the season arrived here this week and sold as high as 56.26. About 217 head sold at that price on Friday. 200 of them belonging to one man. The less desirable grades, while not quite as active, sold at fully steady prices, so that the general market was in very satisfactory condition.

The supply of cow stuff was quite liberal all the week. Prices, however, held up until the last of the week, when the medium kinds weakened a trifle. Some salesmen thought that prices declined no more on Friday than they advanced on Monday and Tuesday, while others thought they went a shade lower, particularly the medium kinds and the camers. Strictly choice cows are probably just about steady. There has not been enough change in bulls, caives and stags during the week to be worthy of mention.

Practically nothing but the heavy cattle are in demand for feeders. Cattle weighing from 600 to 500 pounds have been very duil and prices have declined fully 25c. Those of the common quality are practically unsalable, suyers seem to figure that they cannot afford to feed bigs urited every duil and prices have declined fully 25c. Common yearlings are also dull and lower. Stock helfers have declined fully as much as the steers. There is a good demand for stock calves, however, and prices for the week are steady.

Western range steers have been in good demand on the part of killers and the market may be quoted strong. The high price of the week was $5.25. The cow market may be quoted strong. The high price of the week was $5.25. The cow market is close to steady, except on the medium kinds, which are perhaps a trifle lower. Good, heavy feeders are steady, out others are about a quarter lower. Representative sales:

the highest price paid on this market in several days, and the market may be quoted strong. The feeders were also in good demand at strong prices.

For the week the supply of sheep has been quite liberal. A good gain is noted both over the last several weks and also over the corresponding week of last year. The demand on the part of packers has been fairly good, particularly toward the close of the week. Prices are now about logific higher all around than they were at the close of last week and the tone to the market is greatly improved. The last few days the trade has ruled active and packers seemed anxious for supplies. That applies to both sheep and lambs.

The demand for teeders was fully equal to the supply all the week and the market may be quoted strong on both sheep and lambs.

GENERAL MARKET IN HEALTHY CONDITION

Although Fall Business is Still in Full Blast, Jobbers Are Preparing for Spring Trade and a Few Salesmen Have Spring Samples.

OMAHA, SEPT. 28, There was no special attraction hast week to draw merchants to this city such as vas the case the week before, but never theless there were a good many buyers on the market and local jobbers did a very nice business. There were in fact a great many more retailers in town than they anticipated, as they imagined that practically all who were counting on coming here at about this time came in during the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities it seems, how ever, that a great many waited until after the carnival was over in order to avoid the rush. It is very evident from the talk and actions of jobbers in practically all lines that they are more pleased with the way that they are more pleased with the way fail business is going and are very conndent regarding the future.

The general market is also in a most satisfactory condition. Prices are not fliatuating to any extent so as to make buyers cautious, 'ut on the contrary values seem to be on a good solid foundation, with every prospect of their remaining that way for some little time to come. That fact gives buyers an opportunity to anticipate their wants to a considerable extent and makes the total volume of business much larger than it would otherwise be.

Active Demand for Groceries.

Wholesale grocers report trade as being exceptionally heavy for this time of year. Their traveling men are all meeting with good success and find merchants more willing than usual to place liberal orders for all staple lines. Since last report there have been a few ups and downs, our nothing very startling has taken place.

Sugar is quoted a trifle easier than it was a week ago, owing probably to the fact that the period of heavy consumption is rapidly approaching an end. The refless market is about the same as it was a week ago. t heese has taken another upward move cheese has taken another upward movement owing to the increased buying, but for home and forcign trade. Then, too, the season when the buik of the cheese is made is about closed. The advance for the week amounts to a full by cent per pound and the market is now strong and active and higher prices at any time would cause no surprise.

The rope market also advanced last work Surprise.

The rope market also advanced last week because of the higher prices ruling on the raw fibre. Sisal advanced I cent per pound and Manila about 19 cent per pound.

In canned goods there is also a tendency toward higher prices. This is particularly true of tomatoes, which are 25/35 cents per dozen higher than they were a week ago.

The frosts which were experienced from September 18 to 20 did considerable damage and of course, the dry weather, which insted several weeks in the producing sections of Maryland and Delaware, salso cut down the yield. The pack for those reasons is rather short. Corn and practically the entire line of canned goods is in a very strong position and those who are posted on the situation are predicting higher prices as soon as the period of heavy consumption sets in. prices as soon as the period of the sumption sets in.

Dried fruits, farinaceous goods and most other staple lines not mentioned above, are quoted just about the same as they were a week ago.

Fall Goods Moving Freely.

Fall goods with hardware jobbers are Fall goods with hardware jobbers are now moving out at a rapid rate. All such lines as stoves, stove boards, coal scuttles, elbows, stovepipe, and in fact all kinds of lines that come under the head of cold weather goods are in active demand. Traveling men find that merchants have not any great amount of that stock on hand and as a result they find it comparatively easy to land good liberal orders. In making comparisons with this time last year it is found that business is considerably heavier than it was then, which is saying a good deal.

no advances of much neither have there been neither have there been any declines, so the market may be said to be in a good, healthy condition. Those who ough! to know are very confident that prices will be maintained at their present level for some time to come, unless something out of the ordinary happens to change conditions ma-terially.

Getting Ready for Spring.

Although fall business with dry goods jobbers is still in full swing, they are nevertheless getting ready for spring business. They have already started out several of their special men with spring lines and expect to land a nice bunch of advance orders. Men's shirts and women's shirtwaists, in particular, are being offered to the trade at the present time. It will not be long new before all the traveling men will be out with spring goods.

Immediate business is still in a most satisfactory condition. The city was full of buyers last week and a great many heavy orders were placed. A number of large opening stocks were also bought. The has been the most satisfactory, as well as the largest, fall trade that wholesalers have ever experienced and very naturally they are greatly pleased.

There is no market news this week worthy of mention, as prices on nearly all lines are they were at

Spring Footwear Now Ready

Leather goods jobbers are also preparing for their spring trade. Their samples have arrived and merchants will be given an opportunity to place their advance ordered in the near future. In looking over the lines offered, it is seen at once that fancy lines will take an important place this coming season. Red soles on both blacks and tans are one of the noveliles that are being offered. Fancy stitches in different colors on the uppers are also to be used to a considerable extent. Black shoes, and particularly the shiny shoes, will be the most popular, it is thought, but still jobbers are looking for quite a demand for light tans and also for oxbloods in shapes there there is to be very flittle change from the enow being worn, as the present styles are meeting with such popular approval that manufacturers are afraid to make a change. As regards the demand for fall and winter lines, wholesalers say they can find no fault. Merchants are coming in and are placing heavy orders and traveling men are also doing a big business. Sales are running considerably ahead of hast vear's record and everything at the present time points to a continued heavy demand throughout the fall and winter.

The rubber goods trade is also very satisfactory. There is of course nothing very rushing in footwear, as orders are mostly placed, but there is an excellent trade in mackintoshes and rubber clothing of all varieties. The rains of the last few weeks have stirred up the trade on that class of goods in good shape and the amount of stock gold has gone far ahead of expectations.

Fruits and Produce.

While there has been no special feature to the demand for fruits and froduce during the last few days, there has been a good, active trade on nearly all seasonable lines. Price fluctuations have been rather scarce, as a comparison of the quotations given in another column with those of a week ago will show. It will be noticed that potatoes are still selling at a high fluire and that both Salt Lakes and Calorados are quoted.

Good enting apples are now ready sellers and are worth from $2 to $3.50 per barrel, Peaches, pears, plums and grapes are also in good request at about the same prices that were quoted a week ago.

The supply of poultry has been very liberal and particularly is that true of spring chickens, which are now only a triffs higher than old hear. The demand for eggs is sufficient to take what is coming and prices are firm. Butter is quite a little higher, creamery now being worth the contract.

Cysters are arriving on the market more freely than they were at the opening of the season and prices have eased off a
