GREAT MINING SUIT IS ON

James Doyle Asks the Court to Award Him $620,000 or More.

PORTLAND GOLD COMPANY RESISTS CLAIM

Mining Experts and Legal Lights of Colorado Assemble to Participate in Battle-Details of the Case.

suit of James Doyle against James F. Burns. president of the Portland Gold Mining company of Colorado, in the district court. yesterday was not accomplished until late in the afternoon, when there was only time left for counsel to make their opening statements before an adjournment was taken to this morning when the introduction of evidence will begin. The case is attracting much attention and the court room was crowded all day. The trial is expected to last possibly two weeks, as there is a large number of witnesses on both sides.

The plaintiff is represented by Wright & Baldwin of this city and Scott Ashton of Victor, Colo., a prominent mining attorney of that state. Burns' interests are being looked after by Ross & Ross of this city. State Senator T. M. Patterson of Denver. former Governor Charles S. Thomas of Colorado and Judge A. T. Gunnell of Colorado Springs. The opening statement for Doyle was made by John N. Baldwin, while Mr. Thomas made that for the defense.

James Doyle, the plaintiff, is 33 years of age, with hair as black as the raven's wing. For upholstering, repairing, mattress while James F. Burns, the defendant, is work, feather renovating, Ostimoor felt mattresses go to Morgan & Kiein's, 122 snow white.

Jurors Impaneled.

These are the jurors impaneled: J. M. Hart, William Darrington, Joseph Lidget, I. Covalt, G. W. Spencer, D. P. Howes, J. A. Vernon, V. B. Perry, Peter Johnson, Forrest Smith, J. N. Wolf, W. F. Sherratt. In 1891 Doyle and Burns, with others, prospected together in the famous Cripple of the Portland Gold Mining company. Doyle sues for $620,000 and interest, which he asserts to be the value of certain shares of stock in the Portland company, and dividends paid on these shares, which by right, he alleges, belong to him, but are being unlawfully held by Burns.

Shares in Rich Mines.

Doyle and his associates located a number of mines which later turned out to be most valuable properties. He claims that in 1891 he entered into an agreement with Burns. John D. O'Haire and Jeremiah Driscoll to prospect for claims in the Cripple Creek district, each bearing a portion of the expenses. During the pendency of this agreement Doyle claims he located four claims. the Portland, the Tidal Wave, the Devil's Own and the Bob Tail No. 2, the certificates for which, however, were made out in the name of Burns. By the terms of a second In payment he gave a check for $18 on the agreement entered into at the close of the prospecting agreement Doyle asserts he was entitled to an undivided half interest in all of these claims. On behalf of Doyle it is alleged that in March, 1894, when the claims were paying properties. Burns sold them to the Portland Gold Mining company, of which he is now president and of which Doyle was formerly a director. Burns is said to have received in consideration 150,000 shares in he company of the par value of $1, but which are now said to be worth $3 a share. Doyle claims that he should have 75,000 of these shares of stock. It is also alleged by Doyle that Burns received 44 cents on the dollar in the shape of dividends, half of which should have been his. It is fur-136 feet above the river bed. Work has ther contended by Doyle that Burns is been begun upon the concrete foundations withholding his shares of stock in the Portland company received in consideration for the sale of four other claims in which Doyle claims he was entitled to a half interest by reason of the agreement entered into between him and Burns at the close of the prospecting contract. Colorado Injunction Appears.

The suit was begun in February, 1838. when service was obtained on Burns while he was attending the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Portland company in this city, the company being organized under the laws of Iowa. On his return to Colorado Burns secured an injunction in the courts of that state restraining Doyle from bringing or continuing the suit in this state. Paying no attention to the injunction issued by the Colorado court, Doyle went ahead with his suit and on November 22, 1898, before Judge Green of the district court, secured a judgment for $717.025 against Burns.

On his return to Colorado Doyle was, or December 19, 1898, found guilty of contempt of court and was given three days in which to comply with the order of the court and vacate the judgment. This he refused to do and was thrown into jail. where he remained for some months. On January 5, 1899, Burns filed a motion in the court here to have the judgment set aside, basing his application on the grounds that he had entered no defense before, relying on the restraining order issued by the Colorado court. Judge Thornell, before whom the motion was argued, decided in favor of Burns and ordered the judgment set aside and the case tried on its merits.

J. B. Stratton, the multo-millionaire and owner of the famous Independence mine, is expected here as a witness for Doyle. Davis sells paint.
