Erection of Apartment Houses and Other Factors Shift School Population of Omaha to Embarrassing Degree.

n the Omaha schools than the buildings will ommodate and the members of the Board of Education are forced to make some provision for the accommodation of these pupils. At the Park and Saratoga schools the first grades have been divided and the children are allowed to attend school only half

At the Lake school and several other buildings many of the rooms are filled beyoud their capacity and relief must be afforded at once. The school population has shifted to such a degree from year to year that the members of the board are unwilling to erect permanent additions to school buildings until they know whether the increased attendance in the crowded districts will be permanent.

They Come From the Fints.

The greatest increase in attendance is in board teel that an annex must be provided. A hall will probably be secured to accommodate the kindergarten at Saratoga school. School Population Shifts.

"Other cities have the same trouble in providing for the shifting school population," said Superintendent Pearse. "Milwankee, Kansas City and other western cities have been forced to erect movable annexes. Boston and other large cities in the east have the same perplexing problem to face. Some years the erection of a large number of apartment houses or flats in a certain district increases the school population to such a degree that all our plans are upset and an annex is a necessity at once. "There are half a dozen schools in the center of the city which have grown to such a degree that permanent additions must be erected. Such schools as Kellom Lake, Farnam and Central are located in thickly populated districts, where it is ensonable to suppose the increase in population will be steady. There is no rebu at Central school for an addition. Consequently another building must be provided to accommodate the increase in that district. At the other schools named there is plenty of ground for additions and within a year or two additional rooms must be
