SILVER TO WEIGHT HIM DOWN

Crack man's Heavy Haul at Sherman-McConnell Drug Store.

BREAKS INTO SAFE IN BASEMENT

Opens the Strong Box Without Interruption in Early Morning Hours and Makes Get-A-Way Like an Old-Timer.

A safe in the basement of Sherman & McConnell's drug store, Sixteenth and Dodge streets, was forced by a crackman early yesterday and robbed of $24 in silver. A few hours later, when the store was opened for business, the bookkeeper found the safe door open and the contents of the strong box scattered on the floor. Close examination showed that the steel plate which protects the lock mechanism had been drilled and that the crackman had inserted a wire to lift the tumblers.

All of his tools used in drilling, including a forty-pound sledge, a brace, an auger, a steel bar and ten inches of telegraph wire, were left behind. These have been taken by the police in the hope that they will furnish a clue to the identity of the burglar, but no such clue has come to light as yet and the police thus far are baffled.

The amount stolen represents the entire cash receipts of the store for twenty-six working hours, or from the time the banks closed Saturday until the robbery. Several drafts and checks which were in the safe were not taken.

A better time than that of Sunday night could not have been chosen for such a job, as rain was falling almost constantly; there was no moon or starlight, and few people were upon the street. An Italian fruit vendor, Fresco Greck, runs a stand within twenty feet of the spot where the burglary took place. The basement and ordinarily keeps open all night, but Sunday night on account of the storm he closed at 11 o'clock. This left the locality unguarded for about eight hours. The patrolman on the beat didn't know there was a safe in the basement.

Other conditions favorable to the robbery were that the safe is of an old-fashioned type and that it stood in a dark room, so that anyone passing could not have seen the crackman at work.

It is supposed that there were two men in the job and that one of them remained on the outside by means of a panel door, which the clerk in closing the night before had forgotten to lock. However, it would have offered but slight resistance to a determined housebreaker, as an ordinary man could have torn it from its hinges with a single push.

VELIED PROPHET ARRIVES

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—His mystic majesty, the Velied Prophet and his train of jolly fellows, arrived in St. Louis today by the chosen route, the Mississippi river, on their twenty-fourth annual visit to the city and with appropriate ceremony the keys of the city were handed the Prophet and the head of the caravan, who will preside at the ball at the Merchants' exchange.

Pretty

Is an adjective which seems to have become monopolized by the young lady of the typewriter. It is astonishing what an array of beautiful women are found in stores and offices. In fact, the typical American beauty will be found sitting at the typewriter rather than loitering in a carriage in the park.

Amusements

A Royal Family

A comedy of romance in three acts by R. Marshall, produced at Boyd's theater for the first time in Omaha Monday night by Annie Russell and company.

THE CAST

- Louis VII, King of Arcaea. Lawrence D'Orsay. Prince Charles Ferdinand, his son. Donald Gallagher. Prince Victor Constantine, Gerin Johnson. The Countess Casanova, W. H. Thompson. The Countess Casanova, Harry Rose. Baron Holdensleben, Charles W. Butler. The Cardinal Casanova, W. H. Thompson. Father Anselm, his secretary. Richard Bennett. Lord Herbert Wyndham Stapleton. Mrs. Vanderlyke, G. Cobb. H. L. Forbes. Lord Chamberlain, John Randolph. The Queen Ferdinand, Mother of Louis. The Queen Margaret, Eleanor Sanford. The Countess Casanova, Gretna Hillier. The Princess Alesandre, Victorine Anselm. The Princess Alesandre, Annie Russell.

The prediction made in this department some weeks ago to the effect that the presentation of another play possessing the romance and company as uniformly during the season was improbable, seems in the face of current events to have been rather premature and a much safer declaration may be ventured in the positive assertion that such a splendid play, so complete a production in every detail and a performance and company as uniformly excellent has not been offered Omaha theater-goers in years as that seen at the Boyd Monday night. The audience, which made up in quality what was lacking in quantity, left the theater at the close of the performance with plaudits and evidence of satisfaction upon the faces of the artist which has sat through a performance at the Boyd for a long time.

Annie Russell is known by Omaha theater-goers chiefly through what has been said of her work in eastern papers and magazines, she having been seen in support of the play "The King of Arcaea," which she played in 1894, when she played in support of Nat Goodwin in "Ambition," so it is not surprising that the theater was not filled Monday night. It is a reasonably assured fact, however, that those who saw her splendid performance will spread their praises of her work broadcast and that she will leave the city well established in the affections of the theater-goers. While it is unfair to compare her style to that of any of the other actresses with whom Omahans are more familiar, since she possesses marked individuality and a style wholly her own, it may be said that the daintiness and finish of her work are not unlike that of Julia Marlowe. Her voice rings with a sympathetic sweetness that is charming, while her dainty mannerisms, marked with intelligent reading and satisfactory portrayals of a girl who wins for her the admiration of her every auditor.

The play itself is an excellent bit of work, which reflects much credit upon Mr. Marshall, its author. It is fittingly termed "A Royal Family," as it tells the story of the life of a prince and princess, who are the children of a king and queen, and who are the subjects of a love story. The plot is simple and direct, and the action is rapid and interesting. The play is a highly educated nineteenth century girl and a prince, who are the children of a king and queen, and who are the subjects of a love story.

The feature of last night's meeting of the Board of Education was the presentation by the Taxpayers' league of a number of petitions. The first petition read by Hon. David Anderson, who represents the league, was a demand for the immediate resignation of Theodore Schroeder. The petition was signed by Mr. Anderson and filed with the board as follows:

It has come to the knowledge of our petitioners that on September 10, 1901, a member of the Board of Education in and of the city of Omaha, has entered into contracts for the laying of sidewalks and the erection of a building for the school district, in violation of section 26 of the compiled statutes for 1901, which is as follows: "It shall be unlawful for any member of the Board of Education to have any pecuniary interest in any contract for the erection of school houses or for warming, ventilating, furnishing or repairing the same, or in any manner connected with the furnishing of supplies for the maintenance of the schools."

MAYOR SAYS SUCH ABUSE MUST STOP

Board of Education Also Has a Lively Session—Taxpayers Demand Resignation of Schroeder—Magic City News in General.

A decidedly interesting meeting of the city council was held last night and it looked at one time as if there was going to be a real genuine knock down and drag out. The fuss started when Johnston brought up the matter of printing bills. In the first place, Johnston had brought up from the city jail the prisoners' record and by comparison with former years he showed that enough bound records were on hand to last the city for fifteen years. Miller, as chairman of the printing committee, had ordered two jail records at a cost of $500 when the present record of 500 pages is not only needed up. The Johnston showed that at the rate prisoners are booked at the city jail the books now on hand will last for a decade and a half. He then brought up the text book receipts and showed where Miller had paid $97.50 for books which could have been bought for $150. Other alleged extravagances on the part of Miller were aired much to the amusement of those present. In his own behalf Mr. Miller stated that he had been tricked by Chief Mitchell in the purchase of jail records. He asserted that the chief had given him to understand that a new 1,000-page record was needed on his book in use was nearly filled. Miller further stated that Mitchell showed him a book, purporting to be the jail record, which was nearly filled. As one book of 1,000 pages was too cumbersome he had ordered two books of 500 pages each.

At the conclusion of the talk between Johnston and Miller the former secured the passage of a motion making it the business of two members of the printing committee to sign all orders for work and this only after heads of departments had submitted a requisition showing the number of books or the amount of money on hand.

This little spat did not end the fight between the two councilmen from the old Fourth ward. A little later on Miller sent a motion to the clerk's desk requesting the council to deduct $138 from the salary of Councilman Johnston, alleging that Johnston and the taxpayers, this amount. The Johnston, on his part, rose and roared Miller until the "fearless little giant," as he calls himself, became decidedly nervous.

Johnston said Miller posed as a friend of the taxpayers, but his personal opinion was different. He made an aspersions against the officers of the city, that any applied with an imputation upon his veracity, and it looked for a moment as if there was going to be something done. Mayor Kelly, who occupied the chair, prevented hostilities by threatening to send for an officer.

Then Johnston went on to say that Miller had accused the council of having had business to transact in the city hall. This statement made Miller angry and he tried hard to get recognition from the chair in order to reply, but Mayor Kelly declared him out of order.

At the conclusion of the second round Mayor Kelly introduced a little lecture in which he said that in the future he would not permit one member to slander another. "It is hard enough," said the mayor, "to hold office in South Omaha without having one member of the council abuse another in open session." With this talk the incident closed.

Dan Hanson was awarded the contract for grading E street from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth street at 1 1/2 cents per cubic yard. Johnston wanted the city attorney directed to proceed at once with a suit to recover $100,000 from the Omaha Gas company and the Schlitz Brewing company. He specified the damages cases of Elfeldner, Burke and Schlegel against the gas company and the Mary Johnson case against the Schlitz Brewing company.

City Attorney Lambert was present and stated that he now had seventy-nine cases against the municipality pending in the district court. He asserted that he would get around to the matter as soon as possible. Acting on a suggestion from the city attorney a committee of the council will make some provision for temporary assistance in the legal department.

John Ruthjen wants the city to pay him $250 damages by reason of the grading of Twelfth street near J street. Councilman Adams stated that the work of opening a road to the river was commenced, and he talked with Ruthjen and the latter favored the cutting down of the hill. Now that the work has been done Ruthjen wants damages. The claim will be investigated by the city engineer and finance committee.

Quite a lot of street bills were ordered and some bills allowed. The council then adjourned for one week.

Demand Schroeder's Resignation.

The feature of last night's meeting of the Board of Education was the presentation by the Taxpayers' league of a number of petitions. The first petition read by Hon. David Anderson, who represents the league, was a demand for the immediate resignation of Theodore Schroeder. The petition was signed by Mr. Anderson and filed with the board as follows: It has come to the knowledge of our petitioners that on September 10, 1901, a member of the Board of Education in and of the city of Omaha, has entered into contracts for the laying of sidewalks and the erection of a building for the school district, in violation of section 26 of the compiled statutes for 1901, which is as follows: "It shall be unlawful for any member of the Board of Education to have any pecuniary interest in any contract for the erection of school houses or for warming, ventilating, furnishing or repairing the same, or in any manner connected with the furnishing of supplies for the maintenance of the schools."

she possesses a certificate from the county auditor and also from the county clerk. Upon this showing the members of the Taxpayers' league withdrew their objections to her teaching in the schools here.

When Mr. Anderson referred to the position of music teacher and again requested that Miss O'Connor, who holds that position, be dismissed a long discussion ensued upon the proposition that the board has no legal authority to employ a supervisor of music. Mr. Anderson's contention was that nothing in the school law provides for a special teacher of music. He said further that his first objection was to the qualifications of the present incumbent. President Bulla asserted his belief in the employment of a teacher of music in the city schools and immediately wrote a motion providing for the employment of a music teacher. This motion prevailed, although Kubat and Lott voted against it.

The balance of the session was taken up with the transaction of routine business. Republican Ratification Meeting. On Wednesday evening the Young Men's Republican club and the South Omaha Republican club will hold a joint session in the hall over the city offices for the purpose of ratifying the nominations made by the republican county convention. It is understood that a number of well known speakers have been invited to deliver short addresses. At this joint meeting two vice presidents from each ward representing both of the clubs have been designated. They are: Mayor A. R. Kelly, O. K. Padlock, J. A. Adams, Henry C. Murphy, Frank Koutsky, John F. Schultz, John McIntire, E. L. Howe, Jeff Cooley, E. Mabery, T. B. Knight, David Anderson. This meeting is intended to be the opening of the fall campaign and all republicans and others interested in good government are invited to attend.

Exchange Names Delegates. At a meeting of the South Omaha Live Stock exchange held yesterday afternoon delegates were named to attend the annual convention of the National Live Stock exchange, which will be held at St. Joseph, Mo., on October 25 and 26. These are the delegates: C. C. Daly, E. S. Harrell, H. E. Tagg, W. B. Cheek, M. R. Murphy, Alexander Garrow and Bruce McCulloch.

Another German Club. From the streets reports it appears that there is some discussion among the members of the German club, which has its headquarters at Oetel's hall, Twentieth and Missouri avenue. On account of the lack of harmony John Henry Loechner proposes to organize a German democratic club, taking in only those Germans who live west of the Union Pacific tracks. A meeting was held Sunday to perfect this proposed organization.

German-American Inducted. SOUTH OMAHA, Oct. 7.—To the Editor of The Bee: It seems queer that a stout democrat seeks the columns of a republican newspaper to help the good cause of his political party. Last week appeared in your paper a letter regarding the South Omaha German-American Democratic club, which the officers of the club, the president and secretary were accused of unbecoming conduct toward the club members. Though the letter did not bear a signature it was by no means of an anonymous character. To the club members the writer frankly admitted his authorship, but to the public in general he said that he did not seek notoriety, but honorable actions among and toward democrats.

At the last club meeting the letter writer was called to the carpet. I introduced myself to the club as an American citizen of German (foreign) birth, a stout democrat and a good member of the club, with principles not tolerating me to assist corruption. The proceedings were fierce. I was dumbfounded to learn that the stars, as intriguers, had a chorus of supporters in tow, consequently my case became identical with the famous Captain Dreyfus case, the innocent was denounced a traitor and found guilty, and the innocent party was found not guilty, but they were branded, and so they are here. I was requested to resign as a member, which I promptly did.

Now, every fair-minded person must observe that the publication of this and the former letter neither benefits the republican cause nor the democratic party. It is a pure and simple stand-off, but it means to prevent a certain clique, that acts different behind the scenes than on the stage, from grabbing undeserved laurels in case of victory. Yours truly, AN EX-MEMBER OF THE SOUTH OMAHA GERMAN-AMERICAN DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

CLOT OF BLOOD ON BRAIN

Autopsy Discloses This Condition in the Case of Nellie Bertelsen.

An autopsy was held at Undertaker Dodder's rooms yesterday afternoon upon the body of Nellie Bertelsen, who died Sunday night after having, it is alleged, received injuries the day previous at the hands of Fred Schwanz. It was found that a blood clot had formed at the base of the brain and that the brain, the kidneys and other organs had deteriorated as a result of old age.

The conclusions of the physicians performing the autopsy, Dr. Lavender and Dr. Porter, will not be made public until inquest, which will be held at the coroner's office at 2 p. m. today.

OPENING OF DISTRICT COURT

October Term is in Session with a Heavy Ridget of Business.

FEW IMPORTANT CASES, HOWEVER

Callahan Perjury Charge is to Be Taken Up Next Saturday—Long Line of Jurors Seeking to Be Excused.

"Hear ye hear ye. The district court of Douglas county is now in session." So called Sheriff Power in court room No. 1 yesterday morning, and the wheels of justice were put into motion after a rest of several months. The October term opened with a heavy docket, but there is an unusual absence of big civil and criminal cases on it. The most interesting case is probably that of James Callahan, the alleged Cudahy kidnaper, who will be tried on the charge of having committed perjury at his former trial, unless he secures a dismissal on a plea in bar.

Judge Baker was busy yesterday forenoon hearing excuses from men who wanted to be released from service on the petit jury. One hundred and twenty petit jurors had been subpoenaed and about one-fourth of them asked to be excused. A. Hald was among the first to offer an excuse. He said he might lose his job if required to serve on the jury, and while waiting for the court's reply put in the additional plea that he had been called as a juror at last term.

"I was on the special venire called for the Callahan case, but I didn't go on the panel."

"If you had served on that case," answered the judge, "we would never want you again. The fact that you were called, however, lets you off this time."

Lesson in Patriotism.

Nels Miller told the judge that he was not an American citizen and had not even taken out his first papers.

"If you have not taken out your first papers you couldn't serve on the jury if you wanted to," said the court.

"I'm glad of that," remarked Miller, with an elated expression.

"Oh, you needn't be so glad," put in the judge. "If you don't get out your first papers maybe you'll send you back where you came from."

A South Omaha commission man said his business was of such a confidential nature the court couldn't trust it to an employe while he served on the jury.

"I'm something like a lawyer," he added. "Well," quickly responded the judge, "if you're anything like a lawyer we don't want you."

The next man up was a coal dealer. This was the season of the year, he explained, when he reaped his harvest, and he wouldn't have time to serve on the jury.

"Better keep you here to prevent you from raising the price of coal," suggested the judge.

After the work of excusing jurors had been completely done Judge Baker called upon the county attorney to present his business. The county attorney said he was ready to arraign Callahan in the perjury case, but the lawyers for the defendant announced that they would enter a plea in bar for the dismissal of the case on the ground that Callahan had already been tried on practically the same charge. County Attorney Shields said he would demur to the plea in bar and so the court fixed next Saturday morning as the time for hearing arguments.

Several Are Arraigned.

Malachi McGregor, charged with stabbing with intent to wound; Joseph Dalton, charged with assault; William Chadcock, charged with battery, and Harry Burke, charged with stabbing with intent to kill.

FOG TOO THICK TO PROCEED

Sailors' Lamps Bewildered by Thickness of Atmosphere They Create in Omaha.

William Johnson and James B. Murphy, sailors from the U. S. S. Concord, enroute from San Francisco to the Brooklyn navy yard to be discharged, and Sergeant John Wood, returning from the Philippines, will proceed with their journey when released from the Omaha city jail. They got into trouble and then into jail by getting too drunk to navigate without a pilot while making a short trip ashore in the port of Omaha. Tom Ekigston, a candy butcher, who seemed to be acting as a "steerer" for the party, was also arrested by Detectives Heifelt and Donahue and Sergeant Davis. He is suspected of having stolen a watch belonging to one of the sailors.

Mansfeld in "Beauteur" is a Hit.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The most notable event in Philadelphia's dramatic history was the dedication tonight of the Carick theater under the management of Frank Howe. Richard Mansfeld dedicated the playhouse, appearing for the first time on any stage in his creation of the princely barber in "Beauteur," an original comedy written by Booth Tarkington, and Evelyn Greenleaf Southland. Mansfeld and Howe were generous. The general verdict was that "Beauteur" made an unqualified hit.
