They Balked

When the trust held a meeting a few nights ago—and the "soothin" syrup gang" wanted the rural fellows to chip in again—and get a new detective—some druggist out of a job—to find out where we get our goods—the "rurals" kicked and said they wouldn't put up another "sou" for any trust gang. So now there's trouble brewing and they are fighting among themselves like dogs over a bone.

Almost every one hereabouts has heard of the extreme low prices at which the Guarantee Clothing Co., 1516-18 Capitol avenue, sacrificed its summer stock. it's all on account of Bennett's removal to a different part of the town. The bargains given on summer goods wouldn't be marker from what you get the winter goods for. As stated before, lots of merchandise was contracted for long before we were aware of the fact that Bennett would leave our neighborhood. These we were obliged to accept. They are now being unpacked.
