Greelan Currants Are Here. The first carload shipment of Grecian currants arrived on the Omaha market yesterday and most of the lot was sold before it was received. There has been some trouble in getting good stock from this source lately and the price has been very high, but with the present receipts it has declined, with a prospect for lower prices in the future. The Grecian crop of currants arrives in the country just at the opening of the holiday trade and is eagerly sought as it is usually the best that is shipped

Wholesa's District Thronged with Buyers fer the Yuletide Season. VARIOUS LINES ARE RUSHED WITH ORDERS

Indications Point to a Better Volume of Holiday Business Than Omaha Has Ever Known Before-Extension of Territory.

The holiday season has opened in the wholesale district and from now until the end of November the orders received by local jobbers will have a direct bearing upon the Christmas time.

For a week or more the orders have been after November 1, when the retail merchants will have made room for the stocks. Representatives of eastern houses at this time of the year make visits to the western centers to display those goods which are not carried locally, and the sample rooms of all of the hotels are now filled with these samples. The trade is not confined to any one line, as every retail dealer makes some preparations for the holiday trade. The wholesale druggist displays such goods as' are carried in retail drug stores, and for the time the sale of combs, brushes and papeterie takes rank over the sale of staples In the dry goods stores specialties of various sorts are shown and eagerly demanded

The wholesale grocer knows that Christmas is coming by the increased demand for nuts and preserved fruits. Omaha is a center for the nut trade of the west. One firm of grocers makes a specialty of select, chelled nuts and its sales cover a wide scope of territory. The other houses handle staple nuts, their sales during this

Use Smith's Green Mountain Man, Logan county, West Virginia. Several Renovator.

That's What the Manager of Drug Department, Boston Store, Remarked the Other Day.

He Ought to Know, and From Reports About Town, He is Undoubtedly Right.

This popular gentleman is not given to puffing up proprietary remedies, but when he made this remark to one of his customers the other day, he also said: "This is a medicine we know. We know its history, cures that it has made, and the splendid reputation of the big concern in Vermont who own the formula. For people who are sick and run down it simply can't be beaten as a blood renovator, nerve and muscle strengthener. Try it. We guarantee it." Drug Department, Boston Store, have the sole agency and are one of many reputable pharmacists in the United States controlling the sale of this preparation.

BULLET STRIKES WRONG MAN ime of year aggregating 750,000 pounds of the various sorts exclusive of peanuts, of which at least 750,000 pounds are sold.

It is in the wholesale candy and confectionery houses that the opening of the holiday season causes the greatest change. Advance orders are received in these houses as early as September 1, but it is a month later before the great rush comes. Today active and experienced chocolate dippers

Even the commission houses are affected by the Christmas season. The poultry and game houses are shut out of a large part his spine. Although he has recovered of their usual trade this season by the operation of the new state law, but already they are placing in cold storage the finest specimens of turkeys, chickens and other poultry to be consigned to the retail dealers about Thanksgiving. The Christmas turkeys and other poultry will be selected immediately after that time. In the cold storage houses there are barrels of apples. crates of grapes and other fruit marked extra select. They are being saved by the wholesale fruit dealers and commission men to be sold to the best trade during the holiday season. The dealers are making preparations for much larger demands this year than ever before and the stocks sent out from Omaha will be better in quality than usual, for, while the crops were generally small, the quality was high.
