COLLOQUY WITH HODGSON IS DENIED the matter.

Witness Does Not Recall Any Unfavorable Reference to Texas, His Only Remarks Being Directed Toward Enemy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 .- The long ordeal to which Admiral Schley has been subjected since Monday morning ended this afternoon, when his cross-examination was concluded and he was allowed to leave the finished the cross-examination, shortly after 3 o'clock, the court propounded to the admiral thirty-four questions prepared by the members of the court. These questions touched many points of the campaign of the flying squadron, but mainly sentered about the difficulties encountered in coaling and the reasons for the retro grade movement. Not one of them rey lated to the battle of Santiago.

The judge advocate's examination this afternoon covered the retrograde movement, the reconnaissance of May 27, the loop of Brooklyn and the alleged colloquy with Lieutenant Hodgson about Texas. One of the most interesting features of the day was the development of the fact that the report of the battle written by Ada previous decision, the court today demention the presence of New York.

Glory Enough for All. "I felt that the victory at that time." said Admiral Schley in explaining the mat-"was big enough for all and I made this change out of generosity and because I knew if New York had been present it would have done as good work as anybody elie."

Captain Thomas Borden of the marine corps, who was aboard Brooklyn, will be last witness called for Admiral Schley. After he testifies tomorrow the judge advocate will put on the stand the witnesses in rebuttal, of whom there are understood to be about fifteen, and it is possible that Admiral Schley's counsel will

The first question Captain Lemly asked was whether Iowa was with the flying squadron at Hampton Roads when he gave the captains of the ships the verbal orders as to attacking the enemy's fleet. Admiral Schley replied that it was not. response to questions he said that he first fell in with Iowa off Cienfuegos. Captain Evans was then ill and Commander Rogers was in command. He did not recollect whether he had communicated the verbal orders to the latter. He first saw Captain Evans on May 29. He was then ques tioned as to his conversation with Captain Folger when the latter suggested a circular blockade, such as existed at Wel Hal Wel. The admiral said he thought the fleet at Wei Hai Wei was larger than his and that there were flanking vessels in that fleet. He was asked whether he did not con sider a circular blockade with the vessels pointing in, as mobile as the other form in that the ships could move either way by turning with the helm.

Defends His Tactics. The admiral replied that he thought a circular blockade, where all the vessels charged to the center, would produce confusion and inevitably lead to a different arrangement according as the enemy moved east or west. "The outcome," said he, "could only be more or less confusion, such as did actually occur later.'

The admiral's attention was called to Captain Folger's statement that the latter had advised him to go in closer at Santiago and his own statement-in-chief that on the next day Captain Folger had signaled him that they were within range of the batteries. The admiral in reply changed the date of the signal to a day later. He read Polger's signal: "I think the forts may open at this range." said when Folger made this signal the squadron was in practically the same posttion as on the day Folger testified he had asked the admiral to go in closer. Witness' attention was called to his state ment regarding Santiago, "Nor any vesasked how he knew this. He replied that he only knew it because he never heard of any ship getting in. On the Cuban blockade when a Frenchman succeeded in get ting through the blockade line into Havana the fact had been widely advertised as a great accomplishment. His conclusion, therefore, was that none had entered.

Coming to the reconnoisance on May 31. when the Spanish ship Colon was barded as it lay in the barbor at Santiago, Captain Lemly asked Admiral Schley when he first received notice that the commander-in-chief would be at Santiago. The witness replied that the notice had come in the dispatch brought to him by Cap tain Cotton, which was dated May 29. This telegram was, he said, not received until May 31. Possibly, too, New Orleans might have brought information of the coming of Admiral Sampson.

"Why did you wait two days after the discovery of the presence of the fleet in the harbor before undertaking your reconnoissances ?"

"For the reason that I had used those two days for coaling the fleet for fear the enemy should come out."

Relating the occurrences of the bombardment he recalled that Captain Higginson had asked after he (Schley) went aboard Massachusetts that the bombardment be postponed until after dinner; that he warned some people to get off the turret; that Commander Potts had given notice that they were on the range. He did not recall, he said, the signal to not go in closer, but it was possible that such a signal had been sent and it had not been re corded. It might be that it was with this as with other signals which had not been

HARMONY PREVAILS IN ARMY Officers Are Not So Generally Commended. However, for Thorough Efficiency.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 .- The annual report of Inspector General J. C. Breckenridge says that while there are reports of harmony and good will among the officers of the army, the expression "all officers are thoroughly instructed and efficient" is not heard so frequently as before the Spanish war due no doubt to an influx of young and inexperienced officers. Most reports, however, are favorable. Some lack of attention given by officers to their daily life and duties is noted. The report commends the sagacity and ability of officers who have conducted civil affairs intrusted to them abroad. The class of recruits received is reported generally up to the standard. The discipline of the troops is reported generally good.

Of the post exchange the inspector gen eral says: "The reports show that wherever practicable post exchanges were in operation in the garrisoned posts at the time of the inspector's visits and the prescribed rules and regulations were being folly complied with and that their business was generally satisfactory.

Duerr Said to Have Killed Fetterly After Eeing Fired On.

FARMER PROMPTLY GIVES HIMSELF UP

Two of Prisoner's Bridles Found in Dead Man's Hands-His Companion Takes Flight in the Darkness.

PIERCE, Neb., Oct. 39 .- (Special Telegram.)-A shooting tragedy occurred be tween 2 and 3 o'clock this morning on the farm of Christian Duerr, seven miles south of here, on the road to Hadar. It seems that Goorge Fetterly and a friend who have been buying cattle for Norfolk parties were in town in the evening and after drinking indiscreetly started in a carriage to Norfolk.

Duerr was awakened early in the morning by the barking of his dog. He got up and dressed and went outdoors and called, supposing it was a neighbor. He heard no response and as the dog was still barking. he concluded something was wrong and went into the house and got his doublebarreled shotgun and went down toward the barn, when someone ran out of it. Duerr called to the runner to halt, but the latter turned around and fired a gun at Duerr, the charge going over his shoulder. Duerr lifted his gun and fired, the shot hitting the other man in the head above the eyes and killing him instantly. The man had two bridles belonging to Duerr in his hands when he was shot. Shortly afterward the intruder's pal drove up, but Duerr told him to go on or he also would be shot.

Word was sent to Norfolk and Dr. Holder and Chief of Police Kane drove up and identified the body as that of George Fetterly, Mr. Duerr, accompanied by F. G. Lehman, came to Pierce early this morning to inform the county sheriff and coroner but as the sheriff was out of town and the coroner lived in Plainview, nothing was done until afternoon. The sheriff, coroner and jury drove down to the place and viewed the body and, accompanied by the witnesses, drove back to Pierce, where the testimony was taken at the courthouse this evening.

NORFOLK, Neb,. Oct. 30 .- (Special Telegram.)-About 1 o'clock this morning George Fetterly, a cattle buyer, was killed by Chris Duerr, a Russian farmer, who lives about five miles northwest of Norfolk, one and one-half miles north of Hadar, in Pierce county. Edmund George, who was with Fetterly at the time of the shooting, drove into Norfolk and notified Chief of Police Kane, who, in company with George and Dr. Holden, went out to the Duerr farm, where they found the dead body of Fetterly just as he had fallen, with a bridle belonging to the farmer clutched tightly in his left hand, and partly under his body in his right hand and across his body lay a double-barreled shotgun with one barrel

Judge McMahon Sets It for Saturday of Next Week, Although Attorney Black Objects.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 .- The application by counsel for Roland B. Molineux for the dismissal of the indictment charging him with the murder of Mrs. Katherine Adams came up before Judge McMahon in the court of general sessions today. An application for an adjournment of the argument made by Assistant District Attorney Garvin was denied, the court saying that the defendant's counsel might present its argument this afternoon and that the defendant would be given time in which to make reply.

Attorney Black, for Molineux, urged that this charge be dismissed because of the character of the evivdence presented to the grand jury which found the indictment and also on the ground that the indictment found was on insufficient evidence. At the afternoon session of court Judge McMahon said the argument had been postponed for one week. Ex-Governor Black protested, saying the defendant had been in prison for three years and that his case 'should not be handled about like an ordinary matter of collecting rent." Judge McMahon replied that no injustice would be done the defendant by the adjournment and he then set the hearing for November 7.

No Time to Escape "I had just rached the crossing," he said, and the front wheels of my machine were just touching the first rail, when the locomotive loomed up and I realized that an to reverse the power I gave the handle a quick turn, which moved the front wheels to the right and the crash came.

'The locomotive struck the machine two or three inches behind the left front wheel, throwing it around so that the rear of the automobile was brought against the locomotive. The first thing I remember was somebody calling and asking me if I were dead. I think I was unconscious for about chines. It was of only ten-horse power, very heavy and was built to hold six per

There is no flagman at the crossing, which is hidden by buildings, but an automatic bell is supposed to ring on the approach The members of the party say it did not ring.
