Cooler Weather Last Week Stimulated Buying in the Country.

SENSATIONAL DROP IN PRICE OF SUGAR

Wire and Nails Declined Ten Cents and Steel Goods Ten Per Cent, but Dry Goods and Leather Are Very Firm.

The trade situation in Omaha and surrounding territory considerably improved last week. That is, of course, owing to the cool weather, which stimulated the demand all through the country for heavyweight goods. For the last several weeks both retailers and jobbers have been doing considerable complaining owing to the unseasonable weather, but now they are in much better spirits and say that with anything like a normal winter they will easily sell more goods than they ever have before.
According to reports received from traveling men retailers had a good brisk trade last week and the way in which collections picked up go to bear out those statements.
Jobbers, of course, have not experienced any material increase in demand, as there has hardly been time enough for retailers to break their stocks. It will only take a few weeks, though, of good trade in the country to bring in re-orders from every direction. The trade situation in Omaha and sur-

That merchants have considerable confi-That merchants have considerable confidence in future business is evidenced by the manner in which they are buying their spring lines. Local houses all have their men out on the road with spring samples and as they have taken more orders for future delivery than ever before this early in the year they are well pleased with that branch of the trade.

in the year they are well pleased with that branch of the trade.

The markets have shown more fluctuations during the week than they have for some time past. A few lines have taken a drop, but still that does not mean that prices are becoming demoralized. Those who ought to know say that values are on as firm a foundation as they well could be and that the few drops that have taken place are owing to local conditions more than to a lack of demand or of overproduction. It may still be said that the general tendency of prices is upward, as there have been more advances than declines. In a great many lines there is difficulty experienced in getting enough stock to meet perienced in getting enough stock to meet the demand and there is no reason at the present time for predicting any decrease in the consumption.

Sensational Drop in Sugar.

Sensational Drop in Sugar.

On Thursday of last week it was announced that the price of sugar on Friday would be $4.25. This was a drop of about 1c per pound, which is the most radical decline that has taken place in some time. It is claimed that the drop is not justified by conditions, as raws have not suffered a like decline. It is stated that refiners are now selling at a loss. As to how long this price will last jobbers are not in a position to state, but they hardly look for another drop and they would not be surprised to see an advance at most any time. As soon as the $4.25 price was announced local jobbers received orders from every direction and had they sold the amount asked for their supply would have been exhausted in a short time. As it is they are limiting the size of orders, but even then they can secure.

The coffee market is also in an excited condition. Local jobbers received cables grams last week stating that the crop of Santos coffees is more seriously damaged by dry weather than previously reported. As a result the market firmed up rapidly and stimulated buying. It is claimed now that the crop will not go over 7,000,000 bags, while it was formerly estimated at 12,000,000 bags.

In farinaceous goods there is a stronger feeling on rolled oats and prices have addended that the crop will not go over 7,000,000 bags.

In farinaceous goods there is a stronger feeling on rolled oats and prices have advanced 25c per barrel. This, of course, affects the package goods as well as the bulk. Syrups are also advancing owing to the Syrups are also advancing owing to the high price of corn. Since last report prices have gone up about three scales. The market may be said to be in a strong position at the advance and higher prices are predicted for the future.

Canned goods are very firm, with the tendency of prices upward. The only change of the week is a still further advance on termators.

omatoes. The new crop of rice is now being received, and as receipts are quite liberal there is an easier tone to the market. It is freely predicted that higher prices

The most important feature of the hardware market last week was the decline in nalis and wire. The drop amounted to 10c all around. Jobbers, however, say that there has been no change in the factory price, and this decline has been brought about simply through a rate war between the wholesalers of the different cities of the west. Since there has been no change in the factory price the market remains practically unchanged, but at the same time customers of the Omaha market are now receiving their goods at 10c less than they were a week ago. eceiving the good were a week ago.

There was also a decline last week of 10 per cent in steel goods. This was owing to the expiration of the agreement between the different manufacturers. That there is to the expiration of the agreement between the different manufacturers. That there is still an enormous demand for steel is shown by the statements recently made public to the effect that over 1,000,000 tons of steel rails have been sold for 1902 delivery. That is just about one-third the output of the mills for the present year. From that it would appear that there is no lack of de-mand. mand.

So far as the general market is con-cerned jobbers maintain that there is no general weakness, but, on the contrary, that prices are very firm. The declines noted above, they claim, have no effect upon the repores, they claim, have no effect upon the general situation.

The volume of business for last week showed considerable improvement over the previous week, and a good brisk demand is anticipated from this time on for all kinds of cold weather goods.

Dry Goods a Little Quiet.

Dry Goods a Little Quiet.

The dry goods trade in a wholesale way last week was not very brisk. From the country come reports of increased demand owing to the colder weather, but there was not much change in the number of orders feceived by jobbers. It is thought, however, that with seasonable weather in the future the recorded business will improve at a rapid rate, as there is no doubt but what trade in the country will be fully as good as it was a year ago.

Spring orders continue to come in at a rapid rate, and local houses have broken all previous records in the way of advance business. One house, in particular, claims to have sold more spring goods up to the present time than last year up to January I. As soon as retailers begin selling their present stocks at a good, rapid rate they will doubtless be more willing than ever to buy for spring, so that jobbers are counting on taking a good many orders in the market has not changed materially on either cotton or worden goods. Print cloths are still in a very strong position and it is thought by many of the larger buyers that an advance in some of the staple lines of prints will take place at no very distant time. Owing to the big demand for ginghams and wash fabrics it is predicted that desirable lines will be exhausted before the end of the season and jobbers are advising their friends to place their orders as early as possible, so as to be sure of a good assortment to choose from.

Leather Still Advancing.

The leather goods market is still very strong, with the tendency of prices upward. Manufacturers are steadily advancing their lines or putting in cheaper stock and asking the same prices. The advance since October 1 amounts to a good, strong 10 per cent. As to the tuture of the market, fobbers say they see no reason why prices should not remain good and firm for some time to come, as the demand is active all over the country and manufacturers are having no trouble in disposing of all the goods they can turn out.

Locally the trade situation has been fairly satisfactory so far this year. Although weather conditions have been decidedly unfavorable, sales have been fully as large as they were a year ago.

Fruits and Produce.

Fruits and Produce. The demand for fruits and vegetables has

The demand for fruits and vegetables has been of very satisfactory proportions during the week. Prices have not changed materially, but it is to be noticed that a good many lines that were on the market a week or ten days ago are no longer offered. This is owing to the cold weather shutting off the local supply of fresh lines, and then too, the season for peaches, prunes, plums and several kinds of grapes is over. Apples and oranges are now the staples in fruit. The prices at which they are selling will be found in another column.

The supply of poultry last week was none too large for the demand and as a result prices are firm at the quotations.

It is freely predicted that higher prices will rule on laundry soap at no very distant date. This is said to be owing to the fact that the ingredients entering into the inanufacture of soap have been going up for some time past, so that manufacturers are forced to advance these prices. Local jobbers are now selling soap at a lower figure than they can buy, so that they will probably raise their prices as soon as their present supply is exhausted.

SHEEP—There were no fresh arrivals of sheep and lambs today and consequently the market was not tested. The supply for the week shows a decrease as compared with the previous week, but an increase over the corresponding week of last year. But while there was a liberal run there were very few killers on sale, nearly the entire supply being feeders. The most of the sheep that packers did buy were in reality feeders.

Owing to the light receipts sheep and yearlings may be quoted logible higher for the week, while lambs are all the way from 10c to 250 higher. The top for the week on lambs was $1.70, which was paid for a prime bunch of natives. Some ewes from the same feed lot sold at $3.45.

Feeder wethers have held just about steady for the week, but feeder lambs are a little lower owing to a heavy run and to a limited demand.

Quotations: Choice yearlings, $1.20g3.40; choice wethers, $2.20g3.50; fair to good wethers, $1.20g3.50; fair to good ewes, $2.20g3.50; fair to good ewes, $2.20g3.50; fair to good ewes, $1.20g3.50; fair to good ewes, $1.20g3.50; fair to good ewes, $1.20g3.50; feeder lambs, $4.10g $1.30; feeder wethers, $2.20g3.50; feeder lambs, $4.20g4.50.
