

SOCIETY AND THE GRIDIRON

Smart Folks Take Much Interest in the Foot Ball Warriors.

SAURDAY SPENT WATCHING THE GAME

Levi-Rehfeld Wedding Comes in for an Uncommon Amount of Attention, While the Indoor Affairs Are Many.

Of course the foot ball game was the all-absorbing event of the week and affording a mid-season reunion as it did, it was but natural that it should be so. For a fortnight it has monopolized the attention of the younger set, at least, and to those who went out to see it—and their number included almost everybody who constitutes society—it afforded ample consolation for the horse shows and other kinds of shows that do not appear on the calendar of diversions for Omaha's smart folks. It was truly a gala occasion and called out more coaching parties and tallyho parties than anything that has happened in Omaha—within the experience of the debutantes and college girls—and those who did not go with the driving parties occupied boxes. Society was fairly bedecked with scarlet and cream or orange and black, according to the sympathy of the party, or in some cases, the home of the visiting girls that happened to be the guests of honor, while ever-one of the parties pennants of both colors fluttered in unison with the enthusiasm of their members.

The formal opening of Metropolitan club was chief in importance among the affairs of the week. In fact, the club and the many affairs that have been given there of late, with the prospect of other affairs soon to occur there in honor of the parties of two weddings shortly to occur, is playing an important part in social affairs of late.

Friak and others while refreshments were being served. The party was in the nature of a surprise to young Mr. Miner. He was called home from the house of a neighbor about 8 o'clock and sent on some imaginary errand to the parlor, where, the cue being given, the lights were turned on, revealing the gathering of his friends, gay in holiday attire and smiles. The house was prettily decorated with carnations and smilax, the green and pink color scheme being retained throughout. A large birthday cake was the pie-de-resistance of the supper table and was a pretty sight, glowing under the light of eighteen pink candles. Mr. Miner received several remembrances from his friends and the evening, which ended in card games, was very pleasantly spent.

The woman's prize, a novel picture, was won by Miss Louise Clancy and the gentleman's, a book, by Raymond Beslin.

Women's Suits, Coats, Skirts, Etc.

We enter the joy-end of the year with the acknowledgment that hardly any adverse criticism can be applied to the stock. It is new, big and the fullest selection greets every buyer. It is doubtful if finer or more up-to-date garments ever entered the city. Values are phenomenal. Perhaps it is not easy for you to see how it can be done, but it's done, however. There are importers and manufacturers all over the east that are overstocked—stocks are not moving on account of the continued warm weather—cash is wanted and wanted badly. The cost matters little if a cash sale can be effected. The wide awake merchant with cash settles the price he is to pay. And a store such as this, with a practically unlimited retailing outlet, controls a powerful influence in value making. The great variety of garments that greet the trader is of sufficient influence to keep your cloak and suit money here, but there is more than that—it is just the rightest stock meetable—it is just right as to style—it is just right as to price or on whatever slant fancy may take.

Listen to this! Remember this store does not enter into any scheme to get your money unless you, in return, get your money's worth. We buy no trash, no misfortunes, no sheriff's sales, no riff raff. This store does not enter into flattery, flouting of any kind, only straight, legitimate business is practiced under this roof. You'll find Nebraska cloaks, suits, etc., of the latest style, correctly tailored and correctly priced. Come to the store tomorrow and compare.

"77" BREAKS UP BRONCHIAL COLDS

To diminish excessive sensibility to Cold, says an English writer:

First—Free exposure to open air, daily familiarity with the atmosphere, diminishes the sensibility of the skin, enables the body to resist the invasion of cold.

Second—The morning cold bath, cold sponging over the entire surface of the body, is an invaluable protection against injury from exposure to changes of temperature.

Third—This wise man did not know that a few doses of "77" will prevent, or, taken at the beginning, will "break up" a Cold.
