

Enthusiastic Converts

There Are Thousands of Them Who Believe as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says:

had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good natural appetite.

"I was troubled with gas in stomach causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms.

"Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it, and I would still be a sufferer had I not in sheer desperation decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I knew they were an advertised remedy and I didn't believe anything I read about them as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister living in Pittsburgh wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her little daughters of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer.

"I bought a fifty-cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart I took one of the small tablets and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I had never known what stomach trouble was.

"I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's treatment."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, bloating after meals, sympathetic heart trouble.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a cheap cathartic but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused, overworked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

SOMEWHAT SHY ON GINGER

Lincoln Medics Too Slow to Measure Up with Creightons.

SEVENTEEN TO NOTHING IS THE SCORE

Callahan Makes Touchdown After Phenomenal Eighty-Five Yard Run Against the Bulky Visitors—Big Crowd at Game.

The terrible medicine men from Lincoln didn't take enough Jamaica ginger yesterday afternoon to enable them to do much with the Creighton university foot ball team. The Medics had the beef, but were a bit shy on brain. John A. Creighton's proteges may be found lacking when they might be the made up of the deficiency yesterday afternoon by displaying a knowledge of foot ball which sent the visitors home with a gooseegg and chalked seventeen points up to the credit of the Omahas.

Among the Lincolns were several good players, but the team did not pull together and the individual work of the members was not strong enough to make any showing against the Creighton boys.

Callahan was the star of the Omaha team. He distinguished himself by making a touchdown after a fierce eighty-five yard run, which half a dozen Medics tried to block.

Callahan's phenomenal run came in the middle of the second half. The Lincoln team secured the ball on a fumble. After two unsuccessful attempts at advancing the piekin Stewart, the fullback for the doctors, punted the ball well down toward Creighton's goal. Callahan caught the ball and began a wild dash for the Medics' goal. One by one the bulky visitors tried to land Callahan, but he was too quick for them. Welch ran ahead of him and succeeded in upsetting several ambitious doctors. Ten yards from the goal Smith made a try for Callahan. He recovered his senses in time to feel Welch's elbow in his stomach and to see Callahan streaking over the goal with the coveted oval under his arm.

The game was rather slow throughout and consisted chiefly of mass plays on center. There were few runs around the ends and most of the gains were made by old-fashioned, sledge-hammer playing. At the end of the first half Creighton's score was 17. The local team entered the second half with the expectation of piling up a score, but six additional points were all the collegians succeeded in landing.

Creighton began a series of quarterback plays which proved good ones. The ball advanced the ball after making a fake pass to give one of the backs an opportunity to touch the piekin. During much of the first half the little quarterback did most of the playing and forged through the Medics' line for good gains. He managed to pull out one thirty-yard run.

Welch, the right halfback of the local team, proved to be a ground gainer and made some good runs around the ends. Shortly before the first half ended he went through the Medics for a touchdown, but failed to kick goal. The half ended with eleven points to Creighton's credit. At no time during the half was Creighton's goal in danger.

Shortly after the opening of the second half Welch went around the visitors' right end for forty yards. Campbell failed to stop the forty yard dash and Stewart finally landed him. The teams struggled in the middle of the field for a few minutes, then the Creighton team forged toward the Lincoln goal and was in a fair way to score when the ball was lost on a fumble. The Medics were unable to make their yards and then came the punt which landed the piekin in Callahan's arms and gave him an opportunity to score a phenomenal eighty-five yard run. Creighton kicked goal and brought the score up to 17. During the rest of the game the ball was in Lincoln's territory all the time, but the Creighton boys were unable to get through the heavy doctors for anything but small gains. Lineup:

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 16.—The foot ball game between Northwestern University and Beloit college ended in a tie, the final figure being 11 to 11. During the first half the ball was in Beloit's territory most of the time. Hollett, a famous tandem formation, was responsible for much of Northwestern's gain.

Engelhardt took the place of Marsh and Marsh took the place of Montgomery, who retired. Engelhardt kicked off to the association's twenty-five yard line, where it was stopped. It went to the High school on fumbles and by Lettner's kicking in the same the ball was carried down to the ten-yard line. The High school lost the ball on downs. IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 16.—(Special Telegram.)—The Hawkeyes' varsity football team secured the championship by defeating Grinnell 13 to 11. Iowa struggled in the first half to start the scoring, but the fast team of scarlet and black held them down to six points. The visitors had 900 rosters on the ground and for some time it looked like Grinnell would win. Both teams were tired and forced to punt. The wind in its favor, Iowa gained. A cold wind swept the field and both sides were forced to punt. The Iowa team ran to the rubbing room between the halves. After the ball was kicked off in the second half, Iowa showed better renewed vigor, but Iowa showed better endurance and in the last few minutes completely ran over the Grinnell team. Iowa lost on fumbles or off-side play. Grinnell got its first chance and made a place kick early in the second half by a terrific line bucking. Burrier was sent through for a touchdown and in a few minutes Grinnell tied the score by an end run by Fish to a touchdown. Iowa missed goal and Grinnell kicked goal. OLD FASHIONED GAME WINS

Yale Defeats Princeton by Simple Endurance and Team Work.

ELF'S SONS ARE IN THE PINK OF CONDITION

Tigers on other Hand Frequently go Lame, Seven Substitutes Being Used—Yale's Goal Line is Not Once Endangered.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16.—Yale defeated Princeton in the annual foot ball contest on Yale field this afternoon by the score of 12 to 0. The score, according to the experts who witnessed the game, represents accurately the superiority of the sons of Eli over the Tigers of old Nassau. Aside from the general excellence of the Yale team, the feature of the play was to be found in the entire absence of unfair tactics during the game, lasting nearly two hours, including the intermission and the time taken out by delays resulting from injuries, but two penalties were imposed, the rival teams being equally guilty.

On two occasions players were warned by the umpire for tactics unnecessarily rough, but on these occasions as in the instances of off-side play, the dishonors were even and Princeton and Yale were alike guilty, once each.

The game was won by Yale as a result of the simpler kind of old-fashioned foot ball, rendered effective by entire consistency in team play and a physical condition which enabled the sons of Eli to "last" through a grueling contest. Princeton, on the other hand, displayed a tendency to go pieces a number of times throughout the game its men required frequent nursing.

Yale played throughout the seventy minutes with a single change, when Captain Kuntzing of the varsity back crew took the place of Goss at left tackle. Princeton tried to break the Yale line by a series of touchdowns, one in each half, and each of these scores were converted cleverly into a goal by Olofin.

Yale's touchdown came as a result of a superbly developed system of line plunging in which the famous tackle back formations in all their variations netted the greatest gains. Yale's backs, assisted by as sprightly a set of forwards as could be asked for, found holes in the Princeton line which enabled them to make gains which were never exceeded. Their pace, and the fact that the Yale backs were in touchdowns were inevitable, but the instant teamwork displayed by Yale when the occasion demanded it.

Yale's first touchdown was made after fifteen minutes of play. A fumble by Princeton at the center of the field gave Yale its chance and setting the ball on the thirty-yard line, Yale scored two touchdowns, one in each half, and each of these scores were converted cleverly into a goal by Olofin.

Honors were evenly divided as to kicking. Desautels, the little Yale quarterback, holding his own amazingly well with De Witt. In the handling of kicks Princeton excelled a trifle. In the matter of scrimmages, however, Yale's play was impressively cleaner. Princeton time and again losing the ball on deplorable fumbles. Throughout the game the play was largely in Princeton's territory.

From the kickoff at the start of the game Yale did not let up until the first touchdown had been made. Then it resorted to the kicking game and the scrimmage were confined to the middle of the field. In the second half the New Haven boys clung to the ball amazingly, confining the play to the Tigers' territory until another six points had been added to the Yale score.

When the score was 12 to 0 against them the Princetonians disclosed that never-say-die spirit which so often won victories in the past, and gave a superb exhibition of last-ditch fighting. Unquestionably beaten, and with seven elements of their team substituted, the heroes of old Nassau went at it and fairly lifted the Yale men from their feet.

Then it was in the second half for the first time that the Princeton men forced the play into Yale territory. The Yale men decided in the last fifteen minutes of the game Yale was decidedly on the defensive. Barndor holes were torn in the hitherto invincible Yale line and immense distances were gained by the New Haven players. The Yale men came too late, however, and time was called for the end of the game.

No Player is Injured. No player was seriously injured and there seemed to be no disposition on the part of the Princeton men to question Yale's all-around superiority. Lineup:

HARVARD BARELY ABLE TO WIN Crimson Eleven Continues Many Substitutes, Who Allow Dartmouth to Make Ample Gains.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 16.—Harvard defeated Dartmouth 27 to 12 today with a team half composed of substitutes and without Captain Campbell. Dartmouth scored a touchdown in each half, after blocking punts by Harvard. Dartmouth was slow in getting the ball off and the substitute lineups allowed Dartmouth to reach the twenty-five yard line. Griffin of the Harvard eleven kicked two field goals in the first half, but in each case the ball fell short. Harvard's play was ragged, especially in the line. Harvard's center, Crawford, was injured and Harvard's left halfback, Clark, was injured. Lineup:
