PECK'S STORY HELPS DOYLE

Admits Identity of

"Ferguson."

Frank G. Peck, treasurer and secretary of the Portland Gold Mining company and brother-in-law of James F. Burns, proved a valuable witness yesterday for "Jimmy" Doyle, plaintiff in the Doyle-Burns suit The books of the company showed that a large amount of the stock, to recover his thare of which Doyle is suing Burns, had been issued to "James Ferguson." During his examination Monday Peck had testifled that he was not acquainted with the writing or signature of Ferguson and yesterday counsel for Doyle repeatedly tried o make him admit that James Ferguson was no less a person than James Ferguson

Burns, the defendant. Peck declined to make this admission at first, but admitted that Burns' front name was James Ferguson. Counsel Baldwin was determined to force the admission if possible and kept hammering away at the ness until finally, after he said to him, "Now, don't you know, Mr. Peck, that James P. Burns and James Ferguson are one and the same person?" came the answer that counsel had so long looked for. This admission on the part of the witness created quite a sensation

This phase of the examination of Secretary and Treasurer Peck was due to the attempt of Doyle's counsel to prove by the books of the company that Burns had manipulated the stock records by having the certificates made out in the names of James Ferguson, his sisters and brother-in-law in order to hide his large holdings. This stock, it was shown by the witness, is that which was issued for the Bobtail No. 2. the Devil's Own and the Tidal Wave claims the half of which Doyle sues to recover. Another important point in favor of Doyle was also brought out yesterday during Peck's examination. The witness testified as to 301,000 shares of stock being sent to Doyle along with a receipt releasing Kate Burns from all claims, that Doyle returned the receipt unsigned, because, as he stated in a letter to the witness, he was entitled to still more and demanded that t be sent him.

Peck testified that on the receipt of this letter he wrote to Doyle, saying that Burns was away, but that as soon as he came back he would call his attention to t. This piece of testimony was entirely unlooked for by Doyle's counsel and at came as a surprise to them as corroborating Doyle's contention that he had on more than one occasion demanded the stock which he claimed belonged to him. The letter in which Doyle made this demand was produced by Peck and introduced in evidence.

After the close of Peek's cross-evamination Doyle went on the stand, but court adjourned for the day before he had proceeded at any length with his story.

Doyle related the circumstances attendtheir blankets and other supplies, in contravention of the assertion of the defense Colorado Springs as a witness in a case and how on his return after a few days he rought with him more money, an outfit of mining tools, which he purchased himself, and supplies sent by O'Haire. He told of assisting in building the cabin in which he, Burns and O'Driscoll "batched" and of the locating by them of the Portland lode. At this point in his testimony court ad-

Paying for New High School.

Little but routine business was transacted at the meeting of the Board of Education last night. On the report of the architects Contractor Hughes was allowed an estimate of $3,640 on his High school building contract, being nearly the full amount due him. The final estimate of the architects showed that the amount due under the contract to Hughes was $62,188.60. which included extras amounting to close upon $2,000. The heating plant cost upward of $10,000, making the total cost of the new High school about $75,000. Stephan Bros. were allowed $2,000 on the contract for the heating and ventilating plant. The finance committee reported that it had checked out formed Treasurer Haverstock and checked in the new treasurer, T. H. James. Disagreement of Committeemen Keeps Iowans' Purses Closed.

LOCATION IS THE POINT OF DIFFERENCE

Some Members Wish State's Contribution to Go to the Shaft at McKinley's Home, but Others Favor Capital Project.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Nov. 19 .- (Special.)-One week ago there was a meeting of the committee appointed by Governor Shaw to organiza lowa assistance for the national memorial to President McKinley. There was not a large attendance of members. The governor had appointed on the committee the members of congress, former Governor Jackson, Governor-elect Cummins and the editors of daily newspapers of the state. At the first meeting a difference arose as to whether Iowa should make contributions to the proposed memorial at Canton or to the one suggested for Washington. The committee could not agree. Governor Shaw had appointed the committee originally to co-operate with those who were trying to raise funds for the memorial in Ohio. Adjournment was taken to give time for consideration. Today there was to have been another meeting, but not one member of the committee from outside the city came to the meeting and only one of the local members attended. The governor is of the opinion that what killed the movement was the disagreement as to which memorial should be favored and the illtimed effort to secure favor for two separate memorials. Some other plan will now adopted for getting Iowa interested in

Board of Health in Session.

The State Board of Health and Board of Medical Examiners held a quarterly meeting today. A report was received from Agent Malin, in charge of the Indians in Tama county, Iowa, as to the probable origin of the smallpox epidemic which is prevailing there. Malin reports that the origin is not clearly traceable, but inasmuch as some of the Indians had visited those in northeastern Nebraska it is possible the smallpox was received from there. A great deal of trouble is being experienced in confining the Indians to the reservation. The board has not decided what action will be taken.

Defends the State College

The criticism of the State Board of Control on the management of the lowa State college at Ames is creating a great deal of interest. The board criticised the college management for paying among other things $200 for the expenses of members of the faculty in attending the last session of the legislature. Prof. E. W. Stanton, secretary of the college board, says that nearly all this expense was incurred by reason of committees of the legislature sending fo members of the faculty to appear before said committees to present information for the latter's guidance. This is done with all the state educational institutions and is regarded as necessary for the intelligent action of the legislature. Prof. Stantor declares that the college was never in better condition than now and never better managed and that the legislature has only to deal liberally with it and it will become one of the powerful institutions of the country. The total enrollment this year will probably be 1,200 to 1,300.

Fraternals to Meet. The Iowa Fraternal congress will be held n this city December 10. The congress expects to select a capable legislative comnittee to watch the coming session and see that no bills go through that will hazard the business of the fraternal societies do ing business in this state. It is said that they do not so much fear the campaign by old line insurance as that of the National Fraternal congress, which seeks to have bill passed making fraternal rates uniform all over the country in 1905. The Iowa companies say they will not agree to this, as it will be placing the newer and more popular companies in the same list as the old ones, whose systems are not so equitable. They fear that if the legislature tackles the rate question this winter it will mean a revision every two years.

Falls from Sixth Floor.

Oscar Henderson, bricklayer, fell from he sixth floor of the new Citizens' bank building to the basement and sustained infuries which will without doubt prove fatal. The accident was caused by a brick falling from the seventh floor, striking him on the head and causing him to lose his balance while standing on an unprotected runway. His fall was broken to some extent by striking scaffolding, but when picked up he was found to be suffering with concussion of the brain and it is believed his spine is broken.
