More than 1,000 persons gathered Boyd's theater yesterday morning to join with the Omaha lodge of Elks in its memorial services. Before 10 o'clock the theater was crowded and when the ceremonies began bundreds of people were standing in the foyer and sisles.

The stage of the theater was artistically decorated. Near the footlights was a lectern draped with an American fiag, upon which rested an open, bible and a silver elk's head. Palms were banked about the lectern and at the sides of the prosceptum

At the back of the stage stood a great frame, in which the names of deceased members of the order were outlined with incandescent lights of white and purple. Above the names the following words were | and Miss Kittle Cummins of Plattsmouth. traced in white asters: "Our Absent Brothers." These words were surmounted by two great elks' heads, which were brilliant with white and purple lights. There was nothing somber in the decorations. Dunean M. Vinsophaler, exalted ruler of the local lodge, presided at the ceremonies. The other men seated on the stage were: John L. Webster, Ed P. Smith and Frederick Warde, orators: A. Elliott Mil-Clinton Miller, Walter C. Nelson, J. V. at the Murray. Elks' quartet.

After the playing of "Auld Lang Syne" called the members of the order to their feet. The names of the deceased members were then read by the secretary and as were then read by the secretary and as each was pronounced it faded from the roll of the dead. All the lights in the theater were turned off during this part of the ceremony and when the reading was completed only the purple and white lights in the frame which surrounded the roll were visible.

"Lead, Kindly Light," was sung by the Eiks' quartet. The singers were black robes with white lace overdresses, which were attractive in contrast with the bright colors which prevailed in the stage decorations. At the conclusion of their first number the quartet led the audience in singing the following ode to the air of "Auld Lang

Bad for a Cough as Coughing The poorest doctor in town will tell you that. The best one will tell you he prescribes Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for all throat and lung troubles. We send doctors the formula for this medicine. They know it's a splendid prescription for colds, bronchitis, hoarseness, and even for consumption itself.

"I coughed terribly after having a hard attack of la grippe. If it had not been for Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I do not believe I could possibly have pulled through."
