

BROTHER HENRY DROPS OUT

M. R. Killian and Fred C. Gross Will Control St. Louis.

MILWAUKEE IS NOT CONSIDERED GOOD

Henry Killian on This Grand Quits the Deal-American Association Will Prohibit Betting by Spectators.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—M. R. Killian and Fred C. Gross will control the St. Louis club of the American League. Henry Killian, who held the majority stock in the Milwaukee club, disposes of his interest in these two and the formal transfer of the franchise was announced late tonight when the league adjourned to meet March 8 at Detroit for the schedule meeting.

Henry Killian took a firm stand against continuing in base ball if Milwaukee was dropped from the league, a step considered advisable by a majority of the managers. He wished his brother, who has been in poor health to do likewise and retire from base ball. That was the program originally outlined. But M. R. Killian showed a marked antipathy to retiring and as a result his brother Henry, who had not previously attended the meeting, came from Milwaukee on an afternoon train. Both brothers felt strongly on the subject, but M. R. Killian has always been connected with the club in Milwaukee, refused to give up his holdings. Accordingly, Henry said he would sell his interest as Milwaukee was in home town and he did not wish to be interested elsewhere. The terms of the sale were not made public. M. R. Killian will make St. Louis his headquarters during the playing season and McAleer will continue as manager, as planned.

Besides discussing the various phases of the St. Louis question, the league took a firm stand on the question of betting on the result of games by spectators. This was reported to have grown almost to a practice in some cities, notably Boston. At the close of the meeting President Johnson announced that every effort would be made to suppress the evil and that spectators caught in the act would be led to the gates and their money refunded.

President Johnson admitted that he had received a letter from Manager Collins of Boston asking that Dineen's name be taken from the Black Sox. Johnson said he was willing to do so and that if Collins wanted Dineen he would be free to sign him. He explained his action by stating that he had the highest regard for Collins, who had been offered a large salary by the Boston National League club to jump his American League contract, but had remained steadfast. Therefore Johnson argued that he was entitled to consideration and as Boston was the club from which Dineen jumped back to the National League, he was willing to forgive him if Collins did.

Hedrick and Wallace Explain. It is understood that Baltimore has offered Boston the choice of either Nops or Foreman gratis. Managers Mack and McAleer were in conference the greater part of the afternoon and it is supposed a sale was likely, but nothing was accomplished. It is said the two managers agreed upon what players to go after and divided the list. Comiskey stated positively today that he had signed a third baseman for the coming season, but declined to give the name. The excuse of Hedrick and Wallace for their desertion of Comiskey last year became known today. They asserted that Griffith was to keep the matter a secret, as at the time Hedrick had signed a regular contract and Wallace an option, such action being contrary to the rules of the players' association. Accordingly the pledge of secrecy was imposed. The story became known and both men repudiated their Chicago alliance. Efforts were made to patch up the affair by shifting them to other American League cities, but Comiskey is said to have stood for a fulfillment of his option and contract. The statement by one of the managers of the Boston National League team that he would go out after all American League players if Dineen was taken back was treated as a joke by many of the managers.

HICKEY SMILES AND IS MUM Van Brunt Has a Stuffed Club Handy and Expects to Use It Soon.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 3.—(Special Telegram.)—President W. T. Van Brunt, St. Joseph base ball magnate, tonight is confident this city will have first-class base ball next season and that it will not be in a minor league. A meeting is to be held here tomorrow, to be attended by representatives of all the cities in the Western league.

President Hickey smiled when asked tonight if he feared that his new association would meet with opposition. "I have no fears," said he. "That the claims of the American League to Toledo and Columbus will be contested."

Asked for an expression concerning the change of heart that Manager Rourke of Omaha is said to have undergone, President Hickey contracted his lips and indicated that this was the season of "mums" by pointing to a gorgeous specimen of that flower.

President W. T. Van Brunt of the St. Joseph club looked as happy as a man might who is carrying a stuffed club for the other
