Hal Reid's latest and best play. "A Homespun Heart," will be seen at the Dohany theater tonight. In this, Mr. Reid's masterpiece, is skillfully blended humor and pathos, combined with intense heart interest. It tells of the life and love of a young couple in the rural districts of central Ohio and of the wrongs done by a miserly old money lender, who is assisted by a heartless adventuress, who for a time almost part the hero and heroine.

John Haley, the discharged soldier who got into so much trouble on his way to Roston from San Francisco, is still being cared for at the cify jail. The police have recovered his overcoat, but his blowe, with his tleket and money, is still missing. It develops now that Haley had the trouble on a Burlington and not a Rock Island train. The officials of the Burlington have interested themselves and are endeavoring to secure some trace of the missing blouse and Haley's other effects.

Alderman Hammer's Incistence Hangs Up the Preposition.

STANDS UP FOR STONE ABUTMENTS

Iron Bridge on Steel Cylinders is Proposed, but Meets with Determined Opposition from One Member.

Alderman Hammer's insistence at the meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon to have plans drawn and bids submitted on a structure with stone abuttments will cause a delay of several weeks in awarding the contract for the bridge over Inthe committee on bridges and city property, favored a bridge on stone abuttments. although the city engineer explained that the cost of such a bridge would be nearly double of that planned by him.

The plan suggested by Mr. Etnyre is for a bridge on a skew of about fifty degrees, eighty feet in length, with five panels, each sixteen feet, with eighteen-foot roadway and six-foot sidewalks, the piling to be driven in steel cylinders, filled with concrete. According to the city engineer, the bidders were to submit detailed plans, but George Wise, who had submitted a proposal to build the bridge for $3,300, stated that he for one would refuse to bid if he was to be put to the expense of $100 to $150 in making these detailed drawings, with the chance of not securing the contract.

Alderman McDonald was in favor of the council adopting the general plan submitted by the city engineer, but after much discussion, during which Alderman Hammer advocated the stone abuttment bridge, the city engineer was instructed to prepare general plans and specifications for a bridge with stone abuttments in addition to those submitted and to have them ready for the council at its meeting on January 6.

During the discussion E. A. Wickham volunteered the statement that a bridge such as contemplated by Alderman Hammer would cost $6,000. Alderman Huber suggested that hard-burned brick would be in the future. Many useful and valuable Association of Spiritualists. The executive This brought from Alderman McDonald a declaration to the effect that while it was so difficult to obtain hard-burned brick for the paving ordered no such brick would be used on bridge abuttments if he could help it. It was decided that only the successful bidder should be required to furnish detailed plans and drawings.

E. A. Wickham asked for and obtained an extension asked for.

E. A. Wickham called attention to the fact that the council was imposing so much work upon the city engineer's office that he was unable to get the estimates made on the paving which he had completed. The delay, he said, was working a hardship on him, but the aldermen declined to move in the matter.

The request for an arc light at Turley and Clark avenues was rejected and action on the petition for one at Sixth avenue and Twelfth avenue was deferred until it is ascertained whether the railroad company will maintain a light there or not.

The aldermen drove over the grading recently completed on Avenue H and approved the assessment schedule. They also inspected the curbing laid by Wickham and approved the assessment

Time at Its First Auniversary.

The eagle was a bird of prominence in Council Bluffs last night. It soured to a lofty height and had good reason to flap its wings with pride when it looked down upon the crowd that filled Royal Arcanum hall. The occasion which made the eagle eye gleam with pride and pleasure was the first anniversary of Council Bluffs aerie No. 104, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and it is estimated that 500 of the winged flock and their friends were present to celebrate the auspicious event.

Owing to the fact that no hall large enough could be obtained in the city the banquet had to be served in the adjoining hall, while the program of toasts, interorchestra, was carried out in the Royal Arcanum hall proper. President John Lindt of the serie acted as toastmaster and master of ceremonies, ably assisted by A. Elwell, chairman, and W. C. Bobhart, E. Renard, C. W. Nichols, Dan Graham, Captain Denny, Al Wells and S. H. Connor, members of the committee in charge of the entertainment. The speakers and their subjects were: W H. Ware, "The Objects and Tenets of the order;" Judge E. E. Aylesworth, "Duties of the Members to the Public;" City Solicitor S. B. Wadsworth, "Origin of the Order;" Hon. Emmet Tinley, "The Eagle and His Family." A colored quartet rendered several pleasing selections between the toasts. Brother Renard served the banquet and this was a sufficient guarantee of its excellence. Following the banquet a general social time was had with the cigars. Among the visitors were members of the Omaha, South Omaha, Sioux City and other aeries. In its one year of existence the Council as Half a Million Dollars.

The will of George Keeline was filed for probate yesterday. Mr. Keeline was reputed to be the wealthiest man in Council Bluffs, but the will, which is dated December 5, 1900, conveys no information as to the extent of his wealth.

He names as his executors without bond and compensation, and with authority to make transfer of real estate and personal property without order of court, his widow, Mrs. Sophia Keeline, and his six children, George A., William S., Oscar, Harry, Mrs. Josie K. Smith and Mrs. Cora M. Felt.

The homestead of thirty acres, with the mansion house and all the furniture and fixtures are given to the widow, who will also receive an annuity of $4,000 during her dian creek, at the junction of Mynster life. The children are to share and North Main streets. City Engineer and share alike in the estate. To his son George he wills all his equity in the real property owned by the firm of Keeline & Son in Wyoming for services rendered and to be rendered. Advances made by the testator during his lifetime of $18,000 to each of his children are not to be taken into account. The grandson, John Beresheim Keeline, having been provided for with a bequest of $18,000 during the lifetime of the testator, is to receive nothing from the estate.

The value of the estate left by Mr. Keeline is variously estimated from $300,000 to upward of half a million dollars.

Going After Regnttn. Des Moines sportsmen are preparing to organize a strong boat and outing club and to go after the state rowing regatta of next year. There was some effort made to do so this year, but the organization could not be effected in time. It is now planned to organite a boat club to build a boat house and direct the course of sports on the water. The city has recently acquired valuable land lying along the river, which will be used for park purposes and be improved during the next year. This will make the course on the Des Moines river a desirable one for the state regattas.

Byers Will Hold Over. Adjutant General Byers has formally acepted the tender of Gevernor-elect Cummins of the position of adjutant general in the new administration. General Byers, who is a resident of Genwood, has been at the head of the state militia the past four years under Governor Shaw. He had during his administration the work of getting the four regiments of the guard transformed into four regiments of volunteers for the war with Spain and the additional task of getting them reorganized again as or even guard companies. In fact, this latter work is not entirely finished as yet. His retention in the place means that there will be no change in his office force, that Thomas L.
