COLUMBUS, Neb., Dec. 27 .- (Special.)-Thomas Leffler, who was brought from Walla Walla, Wash., last week by Sheriff Byrnes, was arraigned before Justice Hudson this afternoon on the charge of grand larceny. He waived preliminary examination and was held to the district court in the sum of $300, and went to jail in default of recognizance. Carl Schubert, the sewing machine agent for whom Leffler sold machines last spring, testified to the loss of five machines and his horse and buggy through the operations of Leffler, who decamped after disposing of the conveyance to a Mr. Meyer of Humphrey. Schubert secured the return of all the property but one machine after considerable difficulty in locating the several missing articles, four of the machines having been left on trial at farmhouses, but not sold

Fusion Organ Suspends.

FAIRFIELD, Neb., Dec. 27.-(Special.)-The Fairfield Messenger, which, under the name of the Tribune, the True Light and other titles, and under the guidance of various editors and publishers, has upheld the principles of populism and fusion in Fairfield, has suspended publication. As this corner of Clay county has been considered the stronghold of popufism, the falling away of the support of the party organ is considered significant. Fred Scott, the last publisher and editor, has not made known his plans for the future.

DUSSELDORF IS SENTENCED Motion for Another Trial Raises New

> Question, but Proves Futile.

FREMONT, Dec. 27 .- (Special.)-In the district court this afternoon Judge Hollenbeck overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of the State against Joseph Dusseldorf, who was convicted of manslaughter for the stabbing of Arthur C. Payne at North Bend in June and sentenced him to imprisonment in the penitentiary for four years. The motion for a new trial raised a question of law which is new in the state. Dusseldorf filed affidavits claiming that he did not have a fair trial because Thomas Dorkin, who was arrested with Dusseldorf and who was an eyewitness to the affair. was not called as a witness, and argued that the law required the prosecuting attorney to call an eyewitness when there was one, and that the failure to do so was error.

The state claimed that the county attorney had the right to use his discretion in the matter and that Dorkin had made so many different statements concerning the stabbing that his testimony would not be worthy of belief. Each party cited numerous authorities in support of his position and in the opinion of Judge Hollenbeck the weight of authority was with the state.

Dwinnell, Frank McLaughlin and the estate of the late Colonel William R. Steele will come into $5,000 each. The case was a mining suit, involving the Big Boot claim, next to the Homestake, which is about to be sold to the Belt Development company for $20,000. Dwinnell, McLaughlin and Steele were attorneys for Sands in the case, each receiving a contingent interest of one-fourth. The case has been in the courts ten years and was finally decided in favor of Sands.
