

VISIT TO EASTERN CITIES

Three Councilmen Will Investigate Market Houses Built in Streets.

CAPITOL AVENUE PARTIES PAY FREIGHT

Messrs. Zimman, Lobeck and Hoye Will Visit Chicago, Cleveland, Baltimore and Washington During Forthcoming Week.

Councilmen Zimman, Lobeck and Hoye will spend $500 investigating the market houses located in the streets of Baltimore, Cleveland, Washington and Chicago. They will travel for a week at the expense of persons who are interested in having the Omaha market house located in Capitol avenue between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets.

A petition signed by C. F. Manderson and a number of other citizens who are members of an organization known as the Taxpayers' league, urging that the Capitol avenue site be selected, was filed with the city clerk and is now in the hands of the committee on buildings and property, of which Councilman Lobeck is chairman.

Councilman Zimman Talks.

"The erection of a market house in Capitol avenue seems more feasible than any other plan now under discussion," said Councilman Zimman. "The ground can be had here without expense and the cost of constructing a temporary market house forty feet wide through the center of Capitol avenue for two blocks will not be great. The income from such a building will pay for it in a very short time. By this means the city can have a market place with very slight expenditure. We have been told that Baltimore, Cleveland and Washington all have market houses erected in streets and that such houses are the source of considerable income to those cities. We will make a thorough investigation of the plans those cities have adopted in conducting their markets."

"Capitol avenue is eighty feet wide from curb to curb. Granting that a market house forty feet wide were constructed in the center of this wide avenue, there would still be twenty feet on each side of the street for driveways and traffic would not be hindered materially. However, we will be able to talk intelligently about market houses located in streets after we return from Baltimore and Washington."

It is urged by men who have sites to sell the city that the charter will not permit the erection of a building in a public street. Advocates of the Capitol avenue location maintain, however, that there is nothing in the charter which will prevent the city from making such use of a street.

REDUCES SMOKE NUISANCE

Successful Test of Three Federal Building Boilers with Down Draft Grates.

A test is being made of the three boilers at the federal building that have been equipped with down draft grates. Engineer Charles Baxter is much pleased with the result, for the stacks are emitting a comparatively clear smoke, light and clean even when the boilers are fresh coaled. The secret of the success of the grate is that the black smoke, which is a gas, is burned in passing down through the bed of coals and all that goes out into the stack is almost clean. It is said that with all boilers equipped with these grates the smoke nuisance that prevails in every city where soft coal is burned extensively could practically be done away with.

NEW CAVALRY TROOP ELECTS

William S. Greenleaf is Captain, A. F. Borshelm First Lieutenant and E. L. Bradley Second.

The following officers were elected by the new troop of cavalry organized Thursday evening: Captain, William S. Greenleaf; first lieutenant, A. F. Borshelm; second lieutenant, E. L. Bradley; A. F. Borshelm was selected as recruiting officer, with headquarters at the bank. William S. Greenleaf, who organized the troop, was formerly a member of the Seventh United States cavalry. He was assisted in the work by Captain Baughman of the Millard Rifles. Thirty-five members have already enlisted in the troop. It is the purpose of the organizers to have the troop made a part of the Nebraska National guard.

GENERAL BATES GOES EAST

Colonel G. B. Rodney of Fort Riley Assumes Command During the General's Absence.

General John C. Bates and his aid, Captain McClintock left last evening for New York and Washington, to be gone from two to three weeks. During the general's absence Colonel George B. Rodney of the artillery corps, Fort Riley, next senior officer of the department, will assume command of the Department of the Missouri. It has not been arranged definitely as yet whether Colonel Rodney will come to Omaha or exercise his new duties from Fort Riley.

BEARDEWEEL STILL AT LARGE

Sheriff McAvoy of Sarpy County Convicted that He Had the Wrong Man.

After the little flurry of excitement in the Assyrion colony Thursday afternoon, caused by the report that Joe Beardweel, alleged murderer of Najeb Saily, had been seen on a country road near South Omaha by a cousin of the deceased, conditions have relaxed to their wonted calm and to all appearances there is no more reason now to hope for the capture of the suspect than there was a month ago.

Sheriff McAvoy of Sarpy county arrested a man supposed to be Beardweel Thursday afternoon, but after holding him at Papillion a few hours, released him. As no member of the Omaha Assyrion colony had a chance to see the suspect before he was liberated, the Saily family is highly indignant at the sheriff's action, and it will probably never be known now whether the Papillion suspect and the man whom Heedrah Saily grappled with on the country road are one and the same.

Sheriff McAvoy, in a message to the Omaha police, explains that he was satisfied after having a talk with the suspect that he was not the man wanted. He answered the description of Beardweel in a general way, but he had no sign of a wound on his forehead. He represented himself as a butcher.

When Heedrah Saily reported to the Omaha police through an interpreter Thursday afternoon that he had seen Beardweel near South Omaha, Detective Johnson was sent to investigate the matter. He went to Papillion and had a talk with the sheriff, who promised to do what he could to aid in the capture. The detective then returned, stopping on the way to report the matter to the South Omaha police. It is understood that he had left Papillion less than a half hour when the arrest was made.

INVITED AT FIVE PER PLATE

State Bar Association Sends Bids to All Members of Local Organization.

Judge Roscoe Pound, secretary of the Nebraska State Bar association, has issued invitations to each member of the Omaha Bar association to attend all of the meetings of the state organization and the banquet which will follow. The price of tickets for the banquet does not appear on the invitation. It is $5 a plate. Ralph Breckenridge requests all persons receiving invitations to respond as soon as possible.

The banquet will be held in the Commercial club rooms, as previously announced, but all other sessions will be held at court room No. 1 in the county court house.

The Geysers

Of California are of wonderful interest, and among the most readily accessible of California's natural curiosities. They are about 100 miles north of San Francisco. Though the altitude of the Geysers is about 2,000 feet, the distance from the sea makes the days dry and warm, and the nights cool.

Those who contemplate a visit to these wonderful sights should remember that "The Overland Route" is the only natural route, and is the pleasantest, shortest and quickest.

The Union Pacific is the only line running through trains to San Francisco from Omaha.

HAYDEN BROS.

SUPPOSE

President Roosevelt should proclaim that after January 1, 1902, the water in the Missouri should run north instead of south, would that be so? Suppose there is one in OMAHA who is not acting in VERY BAD FAITH WITH HIS SUBJECTS when he advertises for the TRUST from buying patent medicines? Because we are the only druggist in town which does not belong to the trust? WE DEFEAT ANY ONE OF THEM TO CONTRADICT THIS. We proclaim again that were it not for this drug store full prices would prevail in the Omaha drug store.
