

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

The difference of cost between a good and a poor baking powder would not amount for a family's supply to one dollar a year. The poor powder would cause doctors' bills many times this.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the most economical in the end, because it goes further in leavening and insures perfect, wholesome food.

Used always in making the biscuit and cake it saves both health and money. Made from pure, grape cream of tartar, most healthful of fruit acids.

NOTE.—You cannot, if you value good health, afford to use cheap, low-grade baking powders. They are mostly, in spite of the pure food laws, made from alum, which endangers the health. All physicians will tell you that such powders in food are injurious.

FREIGHT TRAINS MEET IN FOG

Yard Foreman is Fatally Crushed in Early Morning Collision.

SIX OPERATIVES ESCAPE WITHOUT INJUR

Long String of Flat Cars Are Freighted—Stated Upon Collision in Front Occupied by Sleeping Employees of the Road.

W. L. Stewart, a yard foreman, was instantly killed in a collision in the Burlington yards at 6:30 yesterday morning by being crushed under a car. Meanwhile six trainmen were in two ways, which were smashed into kindling wood by five flat-cars falling on them from above, yet all six alive and none seriously hurt.

A dense fog prevailed at the time of the accident, engine headlights not being visible more than a car length away, and this fact is blamed for the collision. The accident occurred at the north end of the yards, where the track runs east and west, about at the foot of Hickory street, seventy-five yards from the Missouri river bank and in front of Boyd's old packing house.

Two tracks, the one on which the train was running, and Boyd's siding, to the south of it, were blocked by the debris, but by 7 o'clock the siding was cleared and traffic went around it, causing no delay. Meanwhile the main track was cleared and opened for work at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Only seven cars were concerned in the wreck.

The accident was one of many peculiar features. A train of fourteen cars was being pulled down to Gibson from the lower yards by engine No. 182. The train was in charge of Yard Foreman J. F. Bryant. Another train of thirty cars was being pushed in from Gibson by engine No. 169. Yard Foreman Stewart was in charge. Each train consisted of loaded and empty cars.

Two waycars headed Stewart's train. Behind were five empty flatcars. Away down at the other end was the engine, pushing Stewart was standing on the front waycar. His train was moving about eight miles an hour, as was the one coming from the opposite direction.

The fog rendered Stewart's lantern, the waycar light and the engine headlight all invisible, so neither Stewart nor the oncoming engineer knew anything of the other's proximity till just the moment before the accident.

Stewart Caught Under Car.

When the headlight finally loomed up through the fog Stewart frantically waved his lantern and then jumped off into the darkness. The crash followed immediately. The car from which Stewart jumped rolled by before it struck the engine and fell beyond him, but the second waycar toppled

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Troop of Cavalry Organized for the Nebraska National Guard.

W. L. HOLLAND IS CHOSEN AS CAPTAIN

Several Veterans of First Nebraska Infantry in New Organization and Drilling Will Be Begun Soon.

A troop of cavalry to be mustered into the Nebraska National Guard was organized last night. W. L. Holland, is captain, Bruce McCulloch is first lieutenant and Harry Tagg is second lieutenant. Dr. Tische is the surgeon of the troop. The meeting was held in the council chamber and was well attended. About fifty young men enrolled their names on the lists and a dozen more who will sign sent word that they were unable to attend on account of previous engagements.

The formation of this troop was talked of last summer, but for some reason action was deferred until now. It is understood that the state will muster the troop in as soon as the officers qualify.

By action of those present the commissioned officers were authorized to appoint the non-commissioned officers and this will be done at a meeting to be held in the council chamber on Monday night.

The selection of a drill master came up and it was agreed that some cavalry officer would be secured to instruct the troop in the drills pertaining to this arm of the service.

All of the officers of the troop are well and favorably known here, and the fact that the election went off without any far showed that the choice was unanimous. Several veterans of the First Nebraska have enlisted and more than likely will be given positions as non-commissioned officers.

Arrangements are to be made at once regarding the use of a hall and drills will be held twice a week until the troop is mustered in, which will be, so it is stated, within the next thirty days.

Captain Holland says that he is going to push the troop right along and in this he is seconded by his two lieutenants.

Agitating Improvements.

If the East Side Improvement club has its way, the promised boulevard from the eastern part of the town through Sydnate park from there on to Omaha will have been fully completed by the time the picknickers of the county begin to look for favorable sites in which to hold meetings. This club maintains that Sydnate park is the finest natural park in this part of the state and that there is no reason why it cannot be made into a popular pleasure resort. It further contends that if this proposed boulevard is ever really constructed it will be a great advertising medium for the part of the town in which the park is located.

There seems no doubt but that the South Omaha Land company will do just as it has promised the improvement club. It was a long time before it would give the club any definite answer to its proposition of having the boulevard extended through the park. The club did not receive a reply, it was to the effect that everything requested by it would be done. In addition to this the land company volunteered to do some other improvement work. Now the improvement club is waiting for the land company to commence the work it has promised.

Claims Individual Liability.

The claims of Superintendent McLean as to the operation of the resolution of the Board of Health, which ordered the vaccination in the schools, caused no end of talk in South Omaha yesterday. Several of the health board were seen and when the subject was broached to them they feigningly referred to the provisions of the ordinance. By the terms of the health ordinance it is stated that teachers are individually liable for allowing pupils who have not been vaccinated to enter the schools. The ordinance does not seem to relate to the Board of Education, but deals directly with the teachers. One member of the health board said that it was not the intention of the resolution passed by the board, he was in favor of causing the arrest of every teacher in the city. The Board of Health says that it is not necessary for the Board of Education to do anything in regard to the resolution, but that it takes effect whether they desire it or not.

Closing Up Saloons.

It is said that the police have notified several of the saloons of the city to quit business at once or be closed. Complaints have been numerous lately about alleged crooked work being carried on in several saloons and the police say that every complaint is being investigated, and as soon as any ground is found for the lodging of the protest, the place complained of will be closed. The matter is under consideration and the council asked to revoke the license. As a result several saloons have suddenly gone out of business.

Council to Print Ordinances.

It is said that the council now contemplates the printing of the ordinances of the city as compiled some months ago. At the time of the compilation the manuscript was bound in substantial manner and has since been used in this form. However, it is thought a good plan to have them printed in pamphlet form, and to distribute them about the city. Since the compilation of the ordinances several important ones have been passed and many of those included within the compilation amended or repealed.

Streets Are icy.

Several minor accidents occurred yesterday by reason of the icy condition of the streets and sidewalks. Complaints were along Twenty-fourth and N streets were notified during the day to clean their sidewalks, but up to last evening they were quite a few that presented the appearance of a well-glazed skating rink. The streets, however, are in a worse condition than the walks, and horses were seen to fall upon the pavement frequently during the day. The shade from the business houses on the south side of the street prevented this part from melting at all, and it was in a bad condition all day.

Babcock Wants Money.

W. S. Babcock, formerly police judge of South Omaha, has filed a claim for three months' back salary and the finance committee now has the matter under consideration. Mr. Babcock asserts that he is entitled to his wages for his term of office, which was for two years. Owing to some change in the law Judge King appeared as a candidate, and so did Babcock, with the result that the latter was defeated. Whether the matter is to be argued or not rests with the finance committee and the city attorney. A report will be made to the council on this matter at the first meeting in February.

Magie City Gossip.

C. A. Melcher is under the doctor's care on account of an affection of the liver. There will be a meeting of the Anti-Saloon league at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday night.

of their actions have been open and above board.

At tonight's meeting of the Eastern Star a number of candidates will be initiated. The body of Mrs. J. B. Slater will be forwarded to St. Louis for interment. Patrick Martin is on the sick list and his physician says he is threatened with an attack of appendicitis.

BRIDE SEES UNFORTUNATES

Soon Satisfied to Drag Her Husband Away from Study of Prisoners.

A couple, evidently newly married, went into the police station last night on a sight-seeing tour, and though refused admittance to the cell room at that hour, saw enough sights in twenty minutes to satisfy them for the remainder of their lives, according to the manner in which the bride dragged her husband from the room.

The man walked up to Desk Sergeant Hudson and with an air of superior wisdom, said: "Sergeant, my wife has not seen much of city life and desires to be shown some of the unfortunates." He was informed that as it was too late to go into the cell room, it would be better to come back in the morning. "Well, that's too bad," said the bride, "I did want to see them tonight"—and see them they did.

As the disappointed couple were about to leave the station the patrol wagon returned bringing a woman under the influence of liquor. When the woman entered the room she jerked off her hat, giving it a sail through the air and it took the bride-groom square in the face. "You are a lovely brute," she yelled. Before the face of the bride had regained its color a masculine drunk was brought in. As he passed the bride an unsteady hand was reached out in her direction and he remarked: "We all get you, don't we honey; but what's this got you for?"

The indignant bride drew away from the drunken man she almost ran into Officer Shields bringing in Boston Green, who was a little drunker than usual and swore a little louder and with less attention to harmony. In less than two minutes after being placed in the cell Boston had every prisoner swearing as loud as he could, the female prisoners joining in the chorus.

While the concert was at its height one man was brought in with delirium tremens, another woman was jailed who was too drunk to create a disturbance, four men had applied for something and something was wrong with the apparatus set for fire going sounding. As the bride dragged her husband from the room, she saw Officer Taylor bringing in two women charged with fighting, and each expressing her opinion of the other in tones that could be heard a block away. The couple remained in the station not more than twenty minutes, "and it wasn't a good night for sights, either," remarked one of the officers.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S CARRIAGE

It Now Graces the Scrap Heap in a Montana Town.

In the scrap heap in the back yard of an old stable in the southern part of Butte, says the Montana Record, lie the rusted and decaying remains of a carriage that once upon a time used to trundle through the broad streets of Salt Lake City, conveying Brigham Young and as many of his wives as could be conveniently crowded into it to church or out to the suburbs after air. It was a very fine hack and the envy of all in the city of Zion. It came to Butte in 1822 with a load of rummage that Charles Palmer of Salt Lake City sent up here to be disposed of.

Charles Palmer mounted the box one day down in front of Dolman's feedstore, in Park street, where the Curtis block now stands, and sold the hack to the highest bidder. There were several men of wealth who wanted the hack, but their limit was from $500 to $600. Finally J. A. Murray took it for $675. "Fat Jack," the veteran of all the hack drivers of Butte, and Tom Mays, then a hack driver, now a millionaire, at once opened a spirited contest for the temporary possession of the coveted hack. Mays was willing to pay $100 a month for the use of it, but Jack outbid him, and he offered to give Mr. Murray $5 in gold every day for the use of it, which offer was accepted.

Jack paid $5 a day for it for six years, or, in all, $10,950, which, it will be noted at a glance, was a pretty good return on an investment of $675.

Tom Mays then rented the hack that Fat Jack had turned into a gold mine for the owner, and for many months "Uncle Tom Mays" sat upon the low seat under the roof of the pioneer cab and collected many, many fares.

The hack was made at Brigham Young's order in 1861 in the east and cost $5,000. It was carried across the plains from Chicago in sections on freight wagons, and its arrival at the Young residence was marked by much grateful expression on the part of Meadames Young, who had been walking all the years since 1860 to the church and to market. It was one of the first hacks, if it will be closed in the city, and it was the first piece of junk that Charles Palmer sold at auction in Butte.

INSANITY LEADS TO SUICIDE

M. H. Simon Escapes from Hospital and Takes Acid and Strychnine.

LEAVES RAMBLING MESSAGE BEHIND

Tells of Long-Endured Mental and Physical Sufferings, Which Prompted Him to End His Earthly Existence.

Mathias Henry Simon, 37 years old, formerly engaged with his father in the hardware business at Cedar Rapids, Boone county, Neb., committed suicide at 10 o'clock yesterday by swallowing three ounces of carbolic acid and one-eighth of an ounce of strychnine at the Metropolitan hotel. The body is now in the undertaking rooms of the coroner.

Since last July Mr. Simon had been an inmate of the St. Bernard hospital in Council Bluffs, where for two months he was confined to the insane ward. After that time, as he had shown signs of decided improvement, he was given the freedom of the grounds. He was considered harmless, but as he was physically as well as mentally sick, he continued to undergo treatment at the institution.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning he came took advantage of the freedom allowed him to escape from the grounds and come to Omaha. Early in the evening he entered the office of the Metropolitan hotel, Twelfth and Douglas streets, and said he wanted a room. The clerk assigned him to room 36, and Simon signed the register as "Ray Marquette."

"From that time on," said the clerk, "he acted very nervous, constantly running up and downstairs and making repeated demands for writing paper and messenger boys. He didn't talk much, however, and it never occurred to me to question his sanity."

Talking to Himself.

The night clerk says Simon did not go to bed at all during the night, but could be heard walking the floor and talking to himself. About 8 yesterday morning he came downstairs and went out without breakfast. Returning twenty minutes later, he went to his room. At 10 o'clock a chambermaid heard a sound as of a heavy body falling to the floor in room 36; she notified the clerk that something was wrong there. This led to an investigation and to the forcing of the door, which was locked on the inside.

Simon was lying on the floor unconscious, his arms and legs "flexed," which, to physicians, is a sign of the convulsions attending strychnine poisoning. Dr. Borglum, the police surgeon, was called at once, but the patient was dying when he arrived.

On the floor beside him were two bottles, one of which had contained three ounces of carbolic acid purchased of a Council Bluffs pharmacist, the other was a one-eighth ounce phial and was labeled "strychnine." This was from an Omaha drug store. Both were empty. On the washstand were two letters, one addressed to The Omaha Bee and the other to the Council Bluffs Non-Parrel.

Leaves Rambling Message.

The writing in The Bee envelope was rambling and incoherent, consisting principally of prayers and references to the "torments" and "excruciating pains" he had suffered. There were five sheets of note paper in all, and on each his name and address, "M. H. Simon, Cedar Rapids, Boone county, Neb.," were written several times. One paragraph read: "My sister, Mrs. Lucy Andrews, lives at Nineteenth and Eleventh streets, Omaha. It is supposed that he meant Nineteenth and Leavenworth streets. Another paragraph read as follows: "Our Father who art in heaven will certainly succor the invalid, Henry, who has been tortured close to death. O God, O God, O God! How I have suffered the excruciating pains of death, and could see no end. I have been a martyr, and am certainly going to heaven. God bless mother and sisters."

The coroner has notified the father of the deceased at Cedar Rapids, also the sister, Mrs. Andrews. It is not likely that there will be an inquest.
