

PROBOSCIS MONKEY

ANOTHER WIN

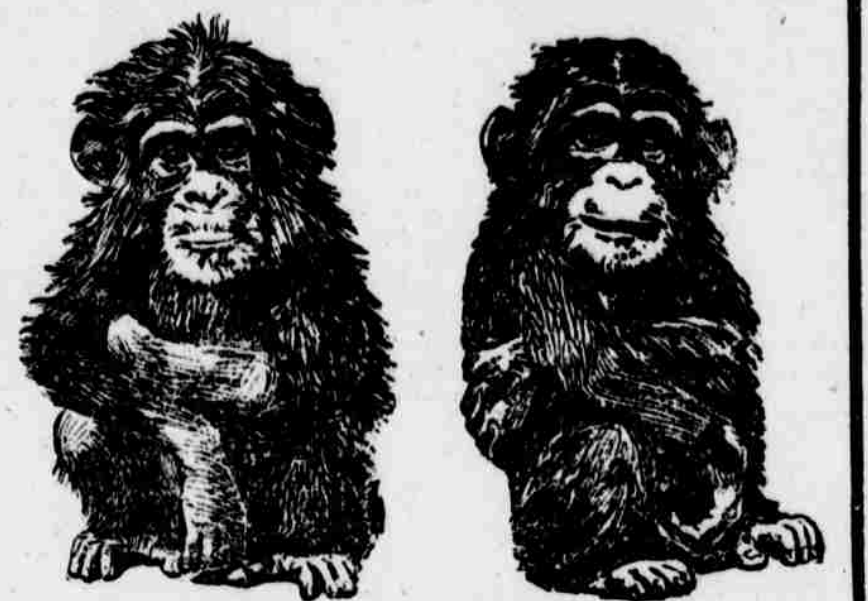

Perseverance, energy and alertness win another success. Hearing that the greatest Natural History ever undertaken was nearing completion, at great expense, and after overcoming many difficulties, we bought the exclusive right of sale in this territory of

The Living Animals of the World

Marvelous Camera Work. The most ferocious animals photographed successfully in forest and jungle.

Over 1,000 Illustrations
Many in Colors 850 Pages

Price
10 cents
Each Section

Young Chimpanzee

The Greatest Authorities

were commissioned to write the articles. The instruction given to the manager of every branch of the work was to get "the best regardless of expense."

No one who reads these ably written pages can fail to be interested, for they contain not only accurate descriptions of the various animals, but also interesting anecdotes and accounts of the adventures of celebrated travelers.

Every Animal Photographed

Every Page Illustrated

These half-tone illustrations were taken direct from the original photographs and every photograph was taken from life.

NOW READY - SECTION 1

Contains: Introduction, Chapter 1—Apes, Monkeys and Lemurs. A complete description of each animal, with many anecdotes and

SIXTY-SEVEN ILLUSTRATIONS

- Colored frontispiece of Gorilla. This huge ape, five feet, five inches high, measures a distance of over eight feet from finger to finger.
 - Full-page photograph of Sea Swallows in flight.
 - East African Giraffe, photographed in the wilds of Africa.
 - Wild Elephants, taken in their African home.
 - Male Gorilla weighing 400 lbs., photographed with group of native African Negroes.
 - Head of Proboscis Monkey; one of the most striking faces in the animal world.
 - Baboons in their jungle home; photographed while looking for food on the ground, under the bamboos and palms, and sixty other remarkable illustrations from life.
- Every Page Illustrated and Colored Frontispiece
Each Section may be bought separately

For less than 2 cts. a day
You can own this magnificently
Illustrated Natural History

Intrepid Travelers

with the camera in one hand and gun in the other, have explored the thickest jungles of India, the vast forests of South America and New Zealand—in fact, no spot where animals exist has been left unvisited.

A fierce man-eating lion, to cite one instance, was photographed at a few yards distance, while the royal beast looked with amazement at the proceeding.

PROCURE THIS GREAT BOOK

It Appeals

to old and young alike. There is no one who will not be delighted to own a copy of this work. Those who have seen the advance copies pronounce it a complete success, and prophesy that the whole edition will be sold immediately after being placed on the market. Each section contains four or five full-page illustrations, one of them in colors, and every reading page includes at least one illustration. The size of the page being 8 x 11 1/4, these reproductions are large enough to give a good view of the subject. There can be absolutely no question regarding the accuracy of these illustrations, because they are not drawings or copies as found in all other natural histories, but direct reproductions of actual photographs. School Teachers are especially invited to examine this unique combination of instruction and entertainment.

Satisfy Yourself

that this is the greatest offer ever made. There will be twenty-four sections with over one thousand illustrations printed on a fine paper made specially for this book; also twenty-four colored plates. The most competent engravers were entrusted with the reproducing of these unique and valuable photographs, and every line and shading is clearly shown. The illustrations alone are worth many times the price charged for the whole book. Each section is bound in a strong, illustrated paper cover, suitable for binding in permanent form. The price of each section will be 10 cents, or by mail 15 cents. We strongly advise you to secure Section 1 at once.

Call to-day at the office of The Omaha Bee. and examine Section 1