Seasonable Fashions.

Child's French Dress, No. 404—The long-waisted dress known as the French model, suits little girls to a nicety and is in the height of present styles. The very pretty example shown is made of nainsook with yoke and trimming of fine needlework, and is worn with a ribbon sash, but all washable materials are equally appropriate, while cashmere, henriettes, abbees and simple silks are all in vogue for the heavier frocks. The waist is made over a fitted lining onto which the yoke is faced, but which can be cut away to yoke depth when a transparent dress is desired. The full portion is gathered at both upper and lower edges, but the waist and lining close together at the center back. The sleeves are in bishop style with pointed cuffs, and over the shoulder, finishing the edge of the yoke, is a pointed band, thus the outfit childish dress admirably well. At the neck is a standing collar. The skirt is circular and flares freely and gracefully at the lower portion, while the upper edge is joined to the skirt, the seam being concealed by the sash. To suit the order to get any pattern of any size, give name and address of pattern wanted and bust measure.
