

MEANS LITTLE TO THIS CITY

Most Bids Opened Here Will Be Sent On to Chicago.

WINDY CITY PACKERS ARE IN CONTROL

Omaha Commercial Club, So Says an Army Officer, is Shooting in the Dark on Commissary Supply Proposition.

The information given out in regard to the opening of bids at Omaha for supplying meats for the Philippine islands was incorrect in one or two details. The bids will be opened at Omaha today and the lowest bid will be sent to Chicago for a recommendation by the commissary officer at Omaha.

In the opinion of representatives of the commissary department there is too much importance attached to the opening of bids in Omaha for this class of material. "You see," said he, "that the largest packing houses at South Omaha are managed by men who are also interested in Chicago. In that city they have all arrangements made for the special work required on this class of meat. It will be easy for them to keep the work in Chicago by arranging their bids so that the Chicago house will have the lowest one."

"The Commercial club seems to be shooting in the dark on the question of commissary supplies in Omaha. What would do the jobbers more good than anything else would be to have restored to this city the purchase of stores previously bought at this point."

"A short time ago we bought all of the commissary stores required in the department at Omaha and also purchased for some of the posts in other departments. Now we only buy in Omaha for Forts Crook, Meade, Niobrara and Robinson. The supplies for Forts Riley and Leavenworth, the two largest posts in the department, and for Forts Reno, Sill and Logan H. Roots are purchased either at Kansas City or St. Louis. It may be well that this is done for these cities, however the post at Omaha has no such excuse for another change which has been made. We used to buy supplies in Omaha for Forts D. A. Russell and Douglas. Today they are bought in Chicago and shipped through Omaha to their destination. We now buy for only two posts at Omaha, where we formerly bought for nine, and this is the business which the Commercial club should look after, it seems to me. The packers will take care of the meat. If they can get them out cheaper in South Omaha than in Chicago they will probably do it, and if the award is made for Omaha it would not be surprising to see the meat prepared in the Chicago houses and shipped to this city."

OMAHA MAKES A GOOD HIT

M. Paul Men Highly Pleased with Reception Given Them in This City.

Omaha hospitality is marked high in St. Paul, while Kansas City has been put down in the Minnesota capital as a very shilly proposition. Upon the return of the committee of the St. Paul Commercial club from its trip to Kansas City and Omaha the St. Paul Dispatch reports:

The committee was treated better by far in Omaha than in Kansas City, though their stay was longer in the Missouri town. It is not surprising that the committee and entertainment offered in the two cities that this conclusion is reached, but in the warmth and cordiality of entertainers in making visitors feel at home.

The newspaper then goes on to relate the chilly reception given the visitors at Kansas City, and adds:

Things were different in Omaha. The train was expected at 6 o'clock in the morning and a deluge of half a dozen leading men was waiting at the depot as it pulled in. The same men and as many more gave a breakfast in the Minnesota capital at a first-class hotel. Omaha business men gave a breakfast in an auditorium. More than that, some fifty of them sat down to lunch with the visitors at the Commercial club. They were prominent business leaders and men of affairs, including Charles F. Dickerson, president of the Paxton-Gallagher company, Thomas Fry, manager of the Commercial club, and Mr. Weller, of the Richardson Drug company; Mr. Hector, of the Victor-Wilhelmy company; George Kelley, G. D. Klippenberg, Ferdinand Haarmann and J. A. Sunderland. Most painstaking of the Omaha people was President F. B. Stenbock of the auditorium board of directors; G. W. Hoobler, secretary of the Commercial club, and Frank Carpenter, its president, were also eager to show good will.

INSPECTS ELECTRICAL WIRING

City Electrician Selvig Asserts that Provisions of Ordinances Are Strictly Enforced.

OMAHA, Feb. 13.—To the Editor of The Bee: Replying to a suggestion made in The Bee relative to strict enforcement of the electrical ordinances, insofar as the inspection of wiring is concerned, I wish to advise that this is being done by the electrical department. No building placing wires or electrical appliances therein can be supplied with current without a thorough inspection of such appliances and wiring. In fact, during the period of construction an inspector is kept constantly on the ground.

BIG OAK FROM LITTLE ACORN

Claim for Less Than Eight Dollars Countered by One for Fifteen Thousand.

A bill of $7.50 has brought into existence a counter claim for $15,000, the latter in the guise of a claim for damages. Robert Botha has sued George A. Hoagland for that amount because, he alleges, Hoagland had reported him to the Credit, Reference and Trust company as a defaulter and dishonestly refusing to pay a bill for the amount first mentioned and thereby prevented his getting a large building contract later. Judge Estelle has dismissed the case for lack of evidence that Hoagland is really a party to the suit.

The prevention of consumption is entirely a question of commencing the proper treatment in time. Nothing is so well adapted to ward off fatal lung troubles as Foley's Honey and Tar.

LEWIS' TRIFT, FEB. 15, HOOD'S THEATER

AERONAUT'S MIND AFFECTED

King Murphy Tells Insanity Board He Has Ascended Close to God.

On an insanity warrant sworn out by his wife, Charles K. Murphy, more generally known as "King" Murphy, which name he used in advertising his daily balloon ascensions at Manawa last summer and at South Omaha on New Year's day, was taken before Dr. Tilden and the insanity board yesterday. The board after examination was inclined to believe that the warrant was justified, but gave Murphy into the custody of his brother and mother, who asked the privilege of caring for him at their home in South Omaha and who will send him to a sanitarium for a time if possible.

The aeronaut has conceived the idea that his ascensions have taken him near to God and that now God has become a special guardian of his person and given him the power to rule his balloon by the simple exercise of his mind. The doctor's board that his aerial trips may have proved too great a nervous strain and aided his derangement.

LIVING ANIMALS OF THE WORLD.

A Popular Work on Natural History Containing a Thousand Photographs from Nature.

Once upon a time geographers and books of natural history were illustrated with pictures of wild beasts that never were on sea or land. They bore the names of actual animals, but were evolved—like the German professor's elephant—from the artist's inner consciousness. When museums of natural history came into being, the grotesque fancy sketches gave place to pictures made from stuffed specimens, which were less interesting than the old wood cuts, but truer to the life—as true to life as the pictures of a dead beast could possibly be. Then came the camera, which is a hunter also, and could draw a wolf, for instance, that the wolf's family would praise for its likeness and critics who had never seen a wolf would admire as a spirited work of art. Witness the rise of the camera and the vogue of Wild Animals I Have Known. But now comes the photographer with his kodak and the snapshot, showing the stag at bay, the wildcat leaping, the rattlesnake coiled to strike, birds fair to supplant, for practical purposes, the handwork of the cleverest artist. So mightily honored and praised Roosevelt has come out in favor of the hunter who hunts with the camera only, especially in the United States, where the big game that was once abundant is now on the highroad to extermination.

It is the unique value that gives its great artistic value to "Living Animals of the World," a popular work on natural history, of which Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. have just begun the publication. The text of this elaborate work, though scientifically accurate, is written in a thoroughly popular style, but its artistic value is dwarfed by the extraordinary attractive-ness of the illustrations. Each of the twenty-four sections is to have a colored cover and frontispiece, several full-page, half-tone plates and many smaller pictures, all reproducing photographs taken direct from the birds, beasts and fishes they portray. To have filled a volume with pictures of domestic animals only would have been a simple task, but many members of the cat family, of the dog family and of other subdivisions of the animal kingdom exist only in a wild state and have had to be tracked to their respective lairs. The South Sea islands, the interior of the Australian continent, the jungles of India, the wilds of South America, the plains and mountains of the United States and the desolate wastes of Arctic America have been visited by the devotees of science and sport, who have returned laden not only with pelts and carcasses, but with plates and films.

The supply of photographic material drawn upon for this monumental work was virtually unlimited. The district of Bedford was among the most liberal contributors to it and so was Hon. Walter Rothschild, for whom photographs have been made in all parts of the world. One of the pictures shows Mr. Rothschild himself with a silk hat on his head, riding one of his enormous tortoises; another shows his four-in-hand of zebras broken to harness. Several of the views of wild animals taken by Lord Delamere in Africa with a telephoto lens gives vivid glimpses of life in the jungle.

There is something new and startling in the sight of lions, leopards, baboons, giraffes, rhinoceroses and zebras caught in the act, as it were, in the heart of their native wilds. Not the least curious and valuable of the pictures are those of fishes in their natural surroundings, actually taken from water, in sea and stream. For these the editor is indebted to Dr. R. W. Shufeldt of Washington.

Some of the best plates were made at the New York "zoo"; others at the English and continental zoological gardens, while others still were obtained from the owners of private game preserves and from the directors of the public collections of Europe. An element of humor appears in the pictures of Carl Hagenbeck's trained animals performing their feats and of orang-outangs and other apes at play. Though the strength of the work may be said to lie in its presentation of wild animals photographed in their habitat, the editor has not disdained to introduce museum specimens where pictures of living creatures were desired to be had. In this way the work has a completeness which otherwise could not have been obtained. At it stands it is an unrivaled portrait gallery of furred, finned and feathered animals. The illustrious number 1,900 and fill, with the text, 550 quarto pages.

The work will be issued in twenty-four weekly parts at the nominal price of 10 cents per section, or 15 cents by mail. Parts 1, 2 and 3 now ready at the office of The Omaha Bee.

CITY'S ANSWER IN TAX CASE

Attorney Connell Will File in Supreme Court Next Tuesday.

WILL BE SIMILAR TO NUJUNCTION SUIT

Councilman Hascall Announces His Intention of Going to Lincoln to Hear the Argument in the Mandamus Proceedings.

City Attorney Connell is engaged in preparing his answer to the application of two members of the Real Estate exchange for an alternative writ of mandamus requiring the city council to either reconvene as a board of equalization or show cause why it should not do so.

"The answer will be similar in matter to the answer I made to the injunction proceeding before Judge Dickinson, but different in form," said he. "It will probably be presented before next Tuesday, February 18, as that is the day set for arguing the motion in the supreme court. Nothing would be gained by filing it before, because the court wouldn't take it up before that time. I shall go to Lincoln for this purpose Monday."

Councilman Hascall has also signified his intention of going to Lincoln, to be present during the argument of the case.

REDELL HEARING NEXT WEEK

Fire and Police Commissioners Set Next Wednesday as Date for Trial.

The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners met yesterday morning and set the time for hearing the John Redell case for Wednesday, February 19, at 10 a. m. Mayor Moore, Commissioners Frank A. Kennedy and M. H. Collins, City Attorney Connell and Clerk Kierstead were present. Commissioner Kennedy introduced a resolution to the effect that the charges against Redell, as chief of the fire department, be heard on the above date, and mentioned "the complaints made and filed with this board by John W. Bruder, and also the charges and specifications made and filed against him as such chief by Fred J. Bugbee, and also the charges made and filed against him by Martin J. Dineen and about eighty-one other firemen," as the indictments which will be heard and investigated on that date.

The clerk was instructed to serve written notice upon Redell and his three attorneys. The board was informed that, at last accounts, Redell was out of the city, having gone to New York to attend the funeral of a brother. The hearing will be held whether or not Redell is present.

The attorneys for Redell are undecided as to their future course in the matter of the hearing. C. C. Wright, one of the attorneys, said: "Mr. Redell is in Chicago, but we expect him to return today or tomorrow. We will then decide what to do. For my part, I do not see what we can gain by going before the board. However, Mr. Redell's desire and the advice of counsel will govern the matter."

Doing Good.

A great deal of good is being done in all parts of the country by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The most flattering testimonials have been received, giving accounts of its good work, of aggravating and persistent coughs that have yielded to its soothing effect, of severe colds that have been broken up by its use, of threatened attacks of pneumonia that have been warded off and of dangerous cases of croup that it has cured. The great popularity and extensive sale of this great preparation cannot be a surprise to anyone who is acquainted with its good qualities. Use it when you have need of such a remedy and it will do you good. For sale by all druggists.

Announcements of the Theaters.

Innes and his band will be seen at the Boyd Sunday matinee and night and Monday matinee and night. A special program has been arranged for Omaha by Mr. Innes because of his close relationship to Omaha public gained during the late exposition. Innes and his program are scenes (not in costume) from popular grand operas. Miss Borjden and Signorina Borghi are still soloists with the band, as are Zeri and Kryl, the cornetist. The annual chorus is a big feature. "Old Glory," by Beethoven, a long composition, will be given during the engagement.
