MERCHANTS' AND MANUFACTURERS' QUIT

sacciation of Several Years' Standing Finds Itself a Valueless Proposition-Commercial Committee Also Lifeless.

The Merchante' and Manufacturers' as sociation, which was organized several years ago to advance the interests of the city, was disbanded at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday morning. For a year or more the association has existed in name only. The members lost all interest in the association and attempts to hold meetings invariably falled for want of

A number of small outstanding bills made it necessary for the executive board to get together yesterday morning to order their payment, there being sufficient funds in the treasury to meet the indebtedness. This being accomplished, the executive committee by unanimous vote decided to disband the organization. Some of the members are in favor of re organizing under a new name, as they realize that the business interests of the city demand an organization of such a character. A proposition which met with favor was the organization of a Commercial club on basis similar to that in Omaha.

The commercial committee appointed some three years ago by the city council has also ceased to exist except in name, and is now practically but a one-man affair, the chairman, E. F. Test, alone taking any

Several members of the family of John B. Schroeder, 123 Grace street, have been suffering from smallpox for the last month and the fact was not made known to the health authorities until yesterday, when the attention of City Physician Jennings was called to the case by a neighbor. In-vestigation developed the fact that the children had had the disease and had kept from school for twenty days, but had been sent back yesterday morning to the Pierce street school, although the mother was still sick with smallpox,

John Schroeder is a bartender employed in Peter Heim's saloon on Broadway and he has continued at his work during the iliness of his family. No physician was called and both Schroeder and his wife stated to the city physician that they were unaware that the disease was smallpox. The house was at once placed under quarantine and Schroeder was sent home from his place of business with instructions from the officers to remain there un til the quarantine was raised. Mrs. Meisner, nurse, living across the street from the Schroeders, who had attended Mrs. Schroeder, was also quarantined. City Physician Jennings characterized the

The situation was thoroughly discussed failed to see how it could assist the city health authorities, in view of the fact that County Attorney Killpack gave it as his opinion that the statutes did not provide county for such purposes.

Supervisor Baker expressed the hope that the legislature at its present session might amend the existing laws so as to provide a way whereby funds could be appropriated to meet such contingencies, and at his suggestion the conference was adjourned until after the close of the session of the state legislature.

Fenerhaken and a "Wild-Eyed For eigner" Seek Justice and Find the Other Man Deserving

The suit of George Feuerbaken, a dealer Avenue J, to recover possession of a team of horses and harness on which he claimed to held a mortgage, from Robert Enewald, resulted yesterday in a jury in Justice Bryant's court not only deciding against him, but in returning a verdict for Enewald for $40 on his counter claim.

The team and harness were formerly the property of Charles McCoy, who mortgaged them to Feuerhaken and subsequently sold them to Enewald. McCoy produced evidence to show that he had satisfied the mortgage, although Feuerhaken had not cleared the record, also that he had Feuerhaken's permission to sell them.

Feuerhaken, it was said, had attempted to take the team forcibly from Mrs. Encwald one day while she was driving about the city. In the petition for the counter claim Enewald alleged that Feuerhaken, in company with "an outlandish looking foreigner of some sort, with big goggle eyes and flerce moustache, and who imperfectly understood the laws of this country and the rules of decency," followed Mrs. Enc. wald and in a rough and threatening manner demanded that she give up the team she was driving. Mrs. Enewald, thoroughly frightened, tried to drive away from them. but they pursued her and the "wild eyed alleged to have jumped into Mrs. Enewald's vehicle, seized the reins and drove to Justice Bryant's court, where he and Feuerhaken attempted to force her to sign a relinquishment of the team. This she refused to do and on the matter being explained to the justice he ordered Feuerhaken and the "wild eyed foreigner"

o molest Mrs. Enewald further. Her experience with the "uncouth for-eigner" made Mrs. Enewald ill with a nervous shock and for this her husband brought counter claim against Feuerbaken for $100.

These ancient people were a strange and interesting race. Their tombs are located in a beautiful region along the stream, showing good judgment, where long years before the white man's advent on Iowa soil these primitive people lived, moved and had their being. The tombs are to be explored and it is believed that such important arch aeological knowledge will be obtained therefrom as will belp unravel the mystery surrounding the human race. The mounds found near this city, Webster says, have yielded up some of the most famous relica of and relating to the lower types of men

ASSESSMENT BILL HAS A HEARING

War Claims of the State to Be Audited This Week - Bride is a Victim of Illuminating

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Feb. 25 .- (Special.)-The lowa legislators today went on record as sustaining the law which requires the teaching of music in all the schools of the state and requires that teachers shall pass examinations in music. When the bill was put through the legislature two years ago many of the members regarded it as a joke and were surprised that it should be seriously considered. But the law has been found to work well and to the great encouragement of music teaching in all the schools of the state. Some opposition arose, however, from the rural districts, where it is found difficult to secure persons competent to teach music. The bill to repeal the law aroused much interest in the house this morning and was debated with much warmth, but it was finally indefinitely postponed by a vote of 53 to 38. The Jenks bill to give the deaf school t Council Bluffs a per capita allowance of $22 a month for support was passed. The Hilsinger bill to fix compensation for appraisers on collateral inheritance tax cases was passed. The Secor bill to require that blanks for permit holders shall be furnished by the county auditors and be numbered, and reguiring that applicants for liquors must sign in ink, was passed.

Reformatory Bill Passed

The Emmert bill to transform the penitentiary at Anamosa into a state reformatory was called up in the senate and passed by vote of 32 to 11. Much opposition to this bill had been apparent when it was proposed, and several amendments were offered intended to change the bill in many particulars or to destroy its usefulness. All of these amendments were voted down and the bill was left as presented, which is a bill patterned after the law under which the New York state reformatory is conducted. If it becomes a law there will be but one penitentiary in Iowa instead of two, and more than half the prisoners will go to the reformatory under indeterminate entences, the State Board of Control having power to change the sentences and is sue pareles and pardons.

No Time-Killing Adjournments. Senator Moffit called up in the senate his resolution to provide for adjournment of both houses from next Thursday until next Tuesday, in order that senators might be home the first of the month to attend to pressing business. This was opposed by a number of members and the declaration was made by one that the legislature had already consumed more time than was necessary and to have another adjournment would affect the date of final adjournment. The resolution was lost, 18 to 19.

A report was received from the governor in relation to the smallpox situation on the Tama Indian reservation, setting forth that something should be done at once to clean up the reservation and pay for the Indians property to be burned. In accordance with peared in court today when the woman this report, Senator Garst introduced a bill A bill was introduced by Senator Ar-

Miss McDonaid was of a very religious turn of mind and was much affected by this breaking off of the engagement with Mr. Gliman. After the breach came she voluntarily deeded back the property to Mr. Gliman. Mr. Gliman's daughter also brought suit for the return of the money given to Miss McDonald. I think the amount sued for was about $5,000 or $4,000. This suit we defended for Miss McDonald and she won it. After that Miss McDonald did not seem to be the same person. Her religious disposition manifested itself more than ever and she retired for a time to a convent. They are really worth $300,000,000 on any estimate or basis which can be made, but unless they are worth that much no increase in assessment should be made. There is a fundamental principle laid down in the constitution, that corporation property must be assessed the same as other property. To adopt some different rule, as for instance the rule proposed in this bill, to assess railroad propviolate the constitution. There are about 1,500 miles of main lines in Iowa and 7,800 miles of branches, and if you should estimate the main lines at $50,000 a mile and the branches at $16,000 a mile you would not have $200,000,000. If you arrive at it in another way you reach the same conclu ston. He cited recent purchases of railroads by the Burlington at prices showing that these lines are now over valued for taxation purposes.
