ILLINOIS CENTRAL LOOKS AT RIGHT-OF-WAY

May Purchase for Sake of Impraving Its Advantages and Shutting Out New Competition-Annulment Clauses in Contract.

Despite the fact that it has expended nearly $280,000 in the purchase of property for its right-of-way and terminals in Council Bluffs, it is now reported that there is not only a possibility, but a strong probability of the Great Western not building into Council Bluffs. This rumor originated from New York, where meetings have been held, it is said, and at which the questio of the absorption of the Great Western by the Harriman syndicate was discussed. Local activity on the part of officials of the Illinois Central railroad, lends color to the

It is known that an official of the Illineis Central, where headquarters are in Chicago, was in Council Bluffs Monday and not only secured copies of the right-of-way and vacation ordinances recently passed by the city council in the interest of the Mason City & Fort Dodge railroad, but also carefully looked over all the property purchased by the Great Western for its rightof-way and terminals in this city. Before leaving Council Bluffs this official secured a list of all the parcels of ground bough by the Great Western and the prices paid for them. This, taken in connection with the report from the east that the Harriman syndicate was figuring on purchasing the Great Western, and thus preventing another competing line from entering the Bluffs is regarded as significant.

Illinois Central Could Absorb. Up to date the Great Western, through its local agents, the firm of Greenshields & Everent, has paid out about $175,000 for property in Council Bluffs, and contracts coming due call for about $75,000 more, making $250,000 in all that the Great Western will have paid for its right-ofway and location for its terminals. Of this property, a large amount could be resold a small loss, while much of it could be utilized by the Illinois Central. The Illinois Central's freight depot, the ne erected by the Omaha Bridge and Terminal Railway company, at Ninth street and Broadway, Council Bluffs, is not centrally situated and for this reason the Illinois Central loses a great deal of trade from the large implement houses on South Main street. In the event of the Illinois Central's buying out the Great Western, it could use its property on Ninth avenue, as ontemplated by the Great Western for a freight depot, and this location would be accessible to the large implement trade in section of the city.

All of the grading contracts made by the Great Western for its line from the Bluffs to Fort Dodge contain an annulment clause, which provided that it can discontinue the work at any time if it so desires and be responsible only for such work as may have been done up to that time. This annulment clause also provides that the Great Western will ship free to Chicago the outfit of the grading contractor.

Resists Vacation Ordinance. Up to date the Great Western has no filed its acceptance of the vacation ordinance passed by the Council Bluffs city council, and it was stated yesterday by a Mr. Kyle to show his qualifications as an representative of the railroad that it was Under the vacation ordinance the Great tracks and South avenue. This is where the Great Western objects to the ordinance. Chief Engineer Marston was in Council Bluffs yesterday morning and said the officials at Fort Dodge were much disappointed over the provision and on its account would probably refuse to accept the measure. Mr. Marston said the railroad had purchased the ground along South avenue at a great expense for the specific purpose of building there its storage tracks. As to the clause compelling the railroad to maintain lights at the Tostevin street and Tenth avenue crossings, Mr. Marston said that was a minor consideration, and did not come within the province of the con-operating department had to deal with.

The refusal of the Council Bluffs city council to allow the storage tracks between the main tracks and South avenue on the property purchased by the railroad, Engineer Marston said, had upset all the plans and confronted the company with a proposition which the officers had not expected. Asked as to the report that Illinois Cen-tral was figuring on buying out the Great Western, Mr. Marston said he had no advices and that he had orders to go shead laying out the work of construction

WORDS MAKE A DIFFERENCE Why Interlineations Innocently Pat Into Restraining Order Were

When the temporary injunction granted by Judge Keysor enjoining the passing of the subway ordinance, came to the clerk of the district court yesterday there were two interlineations that had been marked off with a pen after the preparation of the cument and that are supposed by some to have presaged an effect to rush the or-dinance through at last night's council Erased.

The following is the order filed yesterday by Judge Keysor and the words in parenthesis are the ones that were written in and then scratched off:

and then scratched off:

It is ordered and adjudged and decreed that the council members severally and collectively be enjoined and restrained from passing an ordinance (as the same is) how pending before the city council, entitled "An ordinance requiring all electric and all other wires when used for electric light, heat, power and other commercial purposes excepting those used for propelling street cars and telegraph and telephone wires, to be placed under ground in a portion of the city of Omaha," which said ordinance is in the petition herein more particularly described and set forth. That Frank E. Moores mayor of the city of Omaha, be likewise enjoined and restrained from approving said ordinance (as the same is now pending).

After Judge Keysor gave out his opinion Monday afternoon sustaining the motion of the plaintiff, the latter's attorney, who is the attorney for the street railway many, wrote out the injunction order and aubmitted it for Judge Keysor's signsfure. The judge presented it to Attorney W. W. Moreman, who had argued the case for the telephone company. Mr. Morsman told the judge that it might be desired to pass the ordinance after simply striking out section 5 relative to the wires for beating purposes, which was the section to which the court had excepted. The judge, with a view to expediting any legitimate purpose of the council, wrote in the words that appear in parenthesis, but followed his cusom of sending the paper back to the attorney for the plaintiff to learn if he had ob jections. The reply was that he very emphatically did have objections, as he suspected that the plan was to strike out, not section 5, but some other words that would be immaterial, and then rush the ordinance through.

Judge Keysor does not believe that Mr. Morsman intended to or would abuse any courtesy or confidence of the court, but romptly ran his pen through the interlineations that there might be no temptation to others after the matter passed beyoud Mr. Moreman.

Nathan Hale is a name to conjure with even in these degenerate days. His story been told every American child since that far-off day when he gave his own life for liberty, regretting it was but one.

Americans have revered his memory as a hero scarcely below that of Washington, and still think with love on the patriotism that moved him to so great a sacrifice. It is a theme about which even a tyro might weave cago to attend the funeral. He said notha fabric of words and call it a play. Clyde ing as to whom would be appointed to fill Fitch can hardly be called a tyro. After the vacancy, but the belief is that Assistant having done so much in the way of word- Taylor will be the man. spinning as is credited to his pen, yet it may be questioned if the too sad story of the young school teacher, who took up arms and died a true martyr in his country's cause, has gained any by reason of the Fitch manner of telling it. It falls short, far short of greatness, and were it not for the saving grace of the name it might easily fall short of the popularity it has attained.

The company which gave the Fitch play of "Nathan Hale" at the Boyd theater last night is an excellent one in every re-The play abounds in true melodramatic climaxes, which are carefully worked up, each act ending with a vivid stage picture, the play, of course, culminat- studying law in his spare hours. Later he ng in the death of the devoted. American captain. These intensely thrilling situations give the players much opportunity to display their art. Mr. Howard Kyle is a very capable actor, ill-fated young man whose character he portrays. He is given in the second act the intensely difficult choice between the woman he loves and the country he serves. Naturally, for stage purposes, at least, he chooses his country, and wins applause, while his betrothed wife faints away. However hackneyed this topic, the method of treating it affords a splendid chance for actor, and it is no mean tribute to say he does well. Indeed, he does well all through.

Miss Florence Smyth as Alice Adams, the Western is not permitted to place more betrethed of Nathan Hale, is quite as clever son and manner, and art to make the most of these attractive qualities. Her interpretation of a trying role is all the most exacting could reasonably expect. Other parts of the east are quite ac-ceptably assumed, and the settings of the several scenes are not only historically accurate, but artistically pleasing. A matinee and evening performance will be given today.

A Night Alarm.

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the brassy cough of croup, which sounds like the children's death knell, and it means death unless something is done quickly. Foley's Honey and Tar never falls to give instant relief and quickly cures the worst forms of croup. Mrs. P. L. Cordler of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My 3-year-old girl had a severe case of croup; the doctor said she could not live. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar; the first dose gave quick relief and saved her life." Refuse substitutes.

PRISONER TRIES SUICIDE

C. Jacobson, Arrested on Charge of Forgery, Vainly Aims Revolver at Heart.

H. C. Jacobson, a prisoner on a charge of forgery, formerly in the employ of the Nebraska Clothing company, and who lives at the Barker hotel, shot himself in the right breast at the police station at 9:15 o'clock last night, with a 22-caliber revolver. When Turnkey Glover ran to him Jacobson said: "I have disgraced myself. Let me die."

He was taken to the Clarkson hospital where Dr. J. E. Somers and Dr. Ludington made an incision and discovered that the ball had penetrated a rib, lodging on the inner side. The ball was not removed. The wound is not serious.

About two hours after Jacobson was placed in a cell, a man named S. J. Chyma Transit company, died here today, aged of Plattsmouth, whose business is the enlarging of photographs, was arrested on a participation in the management of the charge of drunkenness and was placed in stock yards two years ago, after half a the cell with Jacobson. Chyma, according to the statement made by Jacobson, took off his coat and shirt, disclosing a belt and revolver. He loosened the belt and when he laid it on the floor near Jacobson the grip. At B o'clock Chyma was removed to another cell. Jacobson then, according to his own story, shot himself.

Jacobson was arrested at 5:30 o'clock yes terday afternoon on a charge of forgery preferred by the Nebraska Clothing company. The amount involved was $38. He left that company's employment to become traveling agent for an indiana scale com-pany. Later he accepted an offer from the W. R. Bennett company to take charge of their men's furnishing department, and in tended going to work when that company occupied its new building. Jacobson was married January 8 to Miss Kate Lewis of Fremont and continued to live at the Barker hotel.

This is the second instance of the kind that has occurred in the police station. About nine years ago a woman named Flora Aubrey, familiarly known as "Omaha Jack, shot herself in the old Jackson street sta-tion and died in half an hour.

-Fraternal Lodges in Attendance-Successor is Not Named.

HURON, S. D., Feb. 25 .- (Special Telegram.)—The funeral of the late Attorney Beneral John L. Pyle took place today at 2 clock from the Presbyterian church. Governor Herreld, with his staff in full unlform, and all the state officials, were present at the services.

The South Dakota National guard acted as an escort to the body as it was moved to the church from the residence and to the cemetery. At 2 o'clock an immense throng of people gathered and the crush was so great that many persons could not get near the church doors.

In the church the governor and his staff occupied the front seats. The services were opened by choir singing and were conducted by Rev. Vandertas, who preached the funeral sermon. After the services the crowd was permitted to view the remains The funeral cortege to Riverside cemetery was one of the most imposing and largest in the history of the state. The state militis marched at tht front, followed by fraternal lodges and the hearse. Then came carriages bearing the family and state officers, among whom were the governor, ex-Secretary of State Roddle, Secretary of State Berg, State Auditor Reeves, Land Commissioner Eastman, Court Reporter Horner, Justice Haney, Adjutant General Conklyn, Insurance Commissioner Shober. The military companies marching in the procession were from Pierre, Cavalry, Volga, Aberdeen and Clark. These were followed by a long line of carriages.

Sketch of Pyle's Career.

John L. Pyle, attorney general of South Dakota, who died at his home in Huron Friday night from typhoid pneumonia, was born at Cole Run, O., on May 3, 1860, of English parentage, his father, Dr. Pyle, being a practicing physician. Besides securing a common school education he atended the Westfield (III.) college. Upon leaving the parental roof at the age of 19, and political history. John Pyle went to Montana, where he worked in the mines and at other manual labor. In 1882 he went to Hand county South Dakota, where he worked as farm hand, carpenter and other outdoor work, was admitted to practice.

He was married to Miss Mamie I. Shields. at Miller, S. D., in 1887, where they lived until moving to Huron in 1889. He leaves a wife and four children, a son, aged 14 and bears himself quite as must have that and three daughters, May, aged 13, Nellie aged 12 and Gladys aged 11, to mourn his untimely death. Beside his wife and children five sisters survive him., Mrs. Perkey of Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Ada Dawson of Butte, Mont., Mrs. John Rubush of Macomb, Ill., Mrs. John Hansen of Hughes county, S. D., Mrs. A. J. Bick of this city.

His parents are dead. Mr. Pyle was a member of the Pennsylvanla church of this city. He belonged to Huron Home lodge No. 17, Ancient Order of United Workmen, to James River lodge No. 32, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and his membership in all was active and earnest. During his earlier years in Huron Mr. Pyle and Alva E. Taylor were asso clated as attorneys for the Dakota Farm Mortgage company, from 1889 to 1892. In I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which the latter year the mortgage company withdrew from business here. Mr. Pyle and Mr. Taylor worked together to a more or less extent after this, and when the former was chosen attorney general a law partnership was formed under the firm same of Pyle & Taylor. Mr. Pyle's first nomination for attorney general came almost without opposition. Beadle county headed the campaign for his nomination, being closely seconded by the old home county, Hand. In the second campaign he was renominated by the republicans without a dissenting vote and received a flattering majority at the general election. He was judge advocate of the South Dakota militia. Mr. Pyle was a delegate to several republican conventions and his face was a familiar one at all state gatherings. He was a plain but forceful orator and his services were always in demand in the campaigns for his party.
