

FLOOD FOLLOWS FIRE

Water Submerges Flame-Swept Sections of Paterson, New Jersey.

LOSS UP IN THE MILLIONS

Property Damage from Flood is Immense, Besides Heavy Death Rate.

SNOWSLIDES BURY MINERS

Two More Avalanches Sweep Down the Colorado Mountains.

TILLMAN SCORES COUNTRY

Repeats His Charge of Plunketism and Aching Foreign Nobility.

BURGLAR SURRENDERS TOOLS

Writes to Chief Donahue that He Has Resolved to Reform.

CONDITION OF THE WEATHER

Forecast for Nebraska—Cloudy Monday; Probably Rain; Warmer in East Portion; Tuesday, Fair, Colder in West Portion; Variable Winds.

DIXIE HAILS PRINCE

Warm-Hearted Southerner Great Royal German with Enthusiasm.

EVENTFUL TRIP IN THE SOUTHLAND

Principal Cities in Tennessee and Kentucky Tender Heroic Overtures.

PRINCE SCALES LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN

Views with Interest Scenes of Thrilling Battles of Civil War.

CORDIALLY ENTERTAINED BY HOOSIERS

From Indiana's Capital City the Distinguished Tourist Departs for His Visit in St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 2.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout Mountain today and after viewing the ground where the Union and confederate soldiers met in conflict and hearing fresh story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west.

Views with Interest Scenes of Thrilling Battles of Civil War.

His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to have a long talk with the prince and was greatly pleased by the experience. It was the Glee club of Fisk university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people gave the prince a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis.

At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans, as well, and at several points they had seen and cheered the prince the people called to the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour, and as he was leaving Nashville said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner and I deeply appreciate it. I wish they might know how thankful I am."

Guided by a pilot engine the royal spectacle made a rapid run from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. Tired from his exertions of the day, the prince retired after leaving Cincinnati, but his slumbers were disturbed by the clamorous calls made for him at some of the Kentucky and Tennessee stations. He was awakened by the sound of beating on the windows of his apartment called upon him to appear. He did not know that it was simply an act of hoodlums and said when he arose that he would have shown himself if he had been dressed.

Chattanooga Lookout Mountain.

It was 8 p. m. when the special pulled into the depot at Chattanooga, and the prince's reception committee, headed by Newell Sanders and accompanied by Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and General H. V. Boynton, came forward to formally greet the prince. There was a great throng in and about the depot and the special train was quickly made into a mass. As the prince reached the crest of the mountain the sun broke through the grayish clouds and for a short time the view was excellent. Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain, the great mountain range that runs along the Tennessee river could be traced in its meanderings for miles.

General Boynton, who participated in the Chattanooga operations with Sherman's army, and is chairman of the Chickamauga National Park association, accompanied the prince down along the ridge and the progress of the battle and briefly related the story of the campaign. He pointed out to the Cumberland mountains, beyond which Rosecrans began the movement, traced out the route to doozer Bragg, brought it up to the command of Grant and then graphically told the story of Chickamauga and the assault on Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

Prince Henry followed the recital with the keenest interest, and with map before him, studied out the strategy and progress of the fight. He asked numerous questions, and at his direction his aide, Lieutenant Commander von Egidy, noted down figures as to the number of men engaged, the losses on either side and other information as to the battles and campaigns. As Prince Henry stood at Rock Point and looked across the valley of the Tennessee he exclaimed:

"Never Saw Such a Sight."

"This is magnificent. There is nothing in all Europe that is finer. I have never seen such a battlefield."

While the party was at Rock Point a snow squall blew up and the picture changed in a moment. Dark clouds of the storm rolled in around the peaks, the sky blackened and snow began falling. Through the storm the recital went on and the young prince and the gray-haired veterans, who talked of a day nearly forty years gone, and the uniformed staffs standing about, made an impressive group. The party was photographed at the peak, and one of the photographers, a local man, was sharply rebuked by the prince. The photographer did not like the way the prince stood, and in rather loud tones repeatedly asked him to change. The prince changed position several times, but finally said:

"I have changed five times, I think you will take me right here, if you care to. You have had several photographs already."

Serdy He Got Mad.

Later the prince told one of the president's delegates that he was sorry he had

MOST OF MEN ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Worst Slide of Series is Predicted as the Impending Danger at the Pandora Pass.

TILLMAN SCORES COUNTRY

Repeats His Charge of Plunketism and Aching Foreign Nobility.

BURGLAR SURRENDERS TOOLS

Writes to Chief Donahue that He Has Resolved to Reform.

CONDITION OF THE WEATHER

Forecast for Nebraska—Cloudy Monday; Probably Rain; Warmer in East Portion; Tuesday, Fair, Colder in West Portion; Variable Winds.

DIXIE HAILS PRINCE

Warm-Hearted Southerner Great Royal German with Enthusiasm.

EVENTFUL TRIP IN THE SOUTHLAND

Principal Cities in Tennessee and Kentucky Tender Heroic Overtures.

PRINCE SCALES LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN

Views with Interest Scenes of Thrilling Battles of Civil War.

CORDIALLY ENTERTAINED BY HOOSIERS

From Indiana's Capital City the Distinguished Tourist Departs for His Visit in St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 2.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout Mountain today and after viewing the ground where the Union and confederate soldiers met in conflict and hearing fresh story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west.

His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to have a long talk with the prince and was greatly pleased by the experience. It was the Glee club of Fisk university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people gave the prince a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis.

At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans, as well, and at several points they had seen and cheered the prince the people called to the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour, and as he was leaving Nashville said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner and I deeply appreciate it. I wish they might know how thankful I am."

Guided by a pilot engine the royal spectacle made a rapid run from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. Tired from his exertions of the day, the prince retired after leaving Cincinnati, but his slumbers were disturbed by the clamorous calls made for him at some of the Kentucky and Tennessee stations. He was awakened by the sound of beating on the windows of his apartment called upon him to appear. He did not know that it was simply an act of hoodlums and said when he arose that he would have shown himself if he had been dressed.

Chattanooga Lookout Mountain.

It was 8 p. m. when the special pulled into the depot at Chattanooga, and the prince's reception committee, headed by Newell Sanders and accompanied by Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and General H. V. Boynton, came forward to formally greet the prince. There was a great throng in and about the depot and the special train was quickly made into a mass. As the prince reached the crest of the mountain the sun broke through the grayish clouds and for a short time the view was excellent. Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain, the great mountain range that runs along the Tennessee river could be traced in its meanderings for miles.

General Boynton, who participated in the Chattanooga operations with Sherman's army, and is chairman of the Chickamauga National Park association, accompanied the prince down along the ridge and the progress of the battle and briefly related the story of the campaign. He pointed out to the Cumberland mountains, beyond which Rosecrans began the movement, traced out the route to doozer Bragg, brought it up to the command of Grant and then graphically told the story of Chickamauga and the assault on Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

Prince Henry followed the recital with the keenest interest, and with map before him, studied out the strategy and progress of the fight. He asked numerous questions, and at his direction his aide, Lieutenant Commander von Egidy, noted down figures as to the number of men engaged, the losses on either side and other information as to the battles and campaigns. As Prince Henry stood at Rock Point and looked across the valley of the Tennessee he exclaimed:

"Never Saw Such a Sight."

"This is magnificent. There is nothing in all Europe that is finer. I have never seen such a battlefield."

While the party was at Rock Point a snow squall blew up and the picture changed in a moment. Dark clouds of the storm rolled in around the peaks, the sky blackened and snow began falling. Through the storm the recital went on and the young prince and the gray-haired veterans, who talked of a day nearly forty years gone, and the uniformed staffs standing about, made an impressive group. The party was photographed at the peak, and one of the photographers, a local man, was sharply rebuked by the prince. The photographer did not like the way the prince stood, and in rather loud tones repeatedly asked him to change. The prince changed position several times, but finally said:

"I have changed five times, I think you will take me right here, if you care to. You have had several photographs already."

Serdy He Got Mad.

Later the prince told one of the president's delegates that he was sorry he had

LOSS UP IN THE MILLIONS

Property Damage from Flood is Immense, Besides Heavy Death Rate.

SNOWSLIDES BURY MINERS

Two More Avalanches Sweep Down the Colorado Mountains.

TILLMAN SCORES COUNTRY

Repeats His Charge of Plunketism and Aching Foreign Nobility.

BURGLAR SURRENDERS TOOLS

Writes to Chief Donahue that He Has Resolved to Reform.

CONDITION OF THE WEATHER

Forecast for Nebraska—Cloudy Monday; Probably Rain; Warmer in East Portion; Tuesday, Fair, Colder in West Portion; Variable Winds.

DIXIE HAILS PRINCE

Warm-Hearted Southerner Great Royal German with Enthusiasm.

EVENTFUL TRIP IN THE SOUTHLAND

Principal Cities in Tennessee and Kentucky Tender Heroic Overtures.

PRINCE SCALES LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN

Views with Interest Scenes of Thrilling Battles of Civil War.

CORDIALLY ENTERTAINED BY HOOSIERS

From Indiana's Capital City the Distinguished Tourist Departs for His Visit in St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 2.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout Mountain today and after viewing the ground where the Union and confederate soldiers met in conflict and hearing fresh story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west.

His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to have a long talk with the prince and was greatly pleased by the experience. It was the Glee club of Fisk university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people gave the prince a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis.

At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans, as well, and at several points they had seen and cheered the prince the people called to the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour, and as he was leaving Nashville said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner and I deeply appreciate it. I wish they might know how thankful I am."

Guided by a pilot engine the royal spectacle made a rapid run from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. Tired from his exertions of the day, the prince retired after leaving Cincinnati, but his slumbers were disturbed by the clamorous calls made for him at some of the Kentucky and Tennessee stations. He was awakened by the sound of beating on the windows of his apartment called upon him to appear. He did not know that it was simply an act of hoodlums and said when he arose that he would have shown himself if he had been dressed.

Chattanooga Lookout Mountain.

It was 8 p. m. when the special pulled into the depot at Chattanooga, and the prince's reception committee, headed by Newell Sanders and accompanied by Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and General H. V. Boynton, came forward to formally greet the prince. There was a great throng in and about the depot and the special train was quickly made into a mass. As the prince reached the crest of the mountain the sun broke through the grayish clouds and for a short time the view was excellent. Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain, the great mountain range that runs along the Tennessee river could be traced in its meanderings for miles.

General Boynton, who participated in the Chattanooga operations with Sherman's army, and is chairman of the Chickamauga National Park association, accompanied the prince down along the ridge and the progress of the battle and briefly related the story of the campaign. He pointed out to the Cumberland mountains, beyond which Rosecrans began the movement, traced out the route to doozer Bragg, brought it up to the command of Grant and then graphically told the story of Chickamauga and the assault on Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

Prince Henry followed the recital with the keenest interest, and with map before him, studied out the strategy and progress of the fight. He asked numerous questions, and at his direction his aide, Lieutenant Commander von Egidy, noted down figures as to the number of men engaged, the losses on either side and other information as to the battles and campaigns. As Prince Henry stood at Rock Point and looked across the valley of the Tennessee he exclaimed:

"Never Saw Such a Sight."

"This is magnificent. There is nothing in all Europe that is finer. I have never seen such a battlefield."

While the party was at Rock Point a snow squall blew up and the picture changed in a moment. Dark clouds of the storm rolled in around the peaks, the sky blackened and snow began falling. Through the storm the recital went on and the young prince and the gray-haired veterans, who talked of a day nearly forty years gone, and the uniformed staffs standing about, made an impressive group. The party was photographed at the peak, and one of the photographers, a local man, was sharply rebuked by the prince. The photographer did not like the way the prince stood, and in rather loud tones repeatedly asked him to change. The prince changed position several times, but finally said:

"I have changed five times, I think you will take me right here, if you care to. You have had several photographs already."

Serdy He Got Mad.

Later the prince told one of the president's delegates that he was sorry he had

LOSS UP IN THE MILLIONS

Property Damage from Flood is Immense, Besides Heavy Death Rate.

SNOWSLIDES BURY MINERS

Two More Avalanches Sweep Down the Colorado Mountains.

TILLMAN SCORES COUNTRY

Repeats His Charge of Plunketism and Aching Foreign Nobility.

BURGLAR SURRENDERS TOOLS

Writes to Chief Donahue that He Has Resolved to Reform.

CONDITION OF THE WEATHER

Forecast for Nebraska—Cloudy Monday; Probably Rain; Warmer in East Portion; Tuesday, Fair, Colder in West Portion; Variable Winds.

DIXIE HAILS PRINCE

Warm-Hearted Southerner Great Royal German with Enthusiasm.

EVENTFUL TRIP IN THE SOUTHLAND

Principal Cities in Tennessee and Kentucky Tender Heroic Overtures.

PRINCE SCALES LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN

Views with Interest Scenes of Thrilling Battles of Civil War.

CORDIALLY ENTERTAINED BY HOOSIERS

From Indiana's Capital City the Distinguished Tourist Departs for His Visit in St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 2.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout Mountain today and after viewing the ground where the Union and confederate soldiers met in conflict and hearing fresh story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west.

His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to have a long talk with the prince and was greatly pleased by the experience. It was the Glee club of Fisk university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people gave the prince a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis.

At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans, as well, and at several points they had seen and cheered the prince the people called to the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour, and as he was leaving Nashville said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner and I deeply appreciate it. I wish they might know how thankful I am."

Guided by a pilot engine the royal spectacle made a rapid run from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. Tired from his exertions of the day, the prince retired after leaving Cincinnati, but his slumbers were disturbed by the clamorous calls made for him at some of the Kentucky and Tennessee stations. He was awakened by the sound of beating on the windows of his apartment called upon him to appear. He did not know that it was simply an act of hoodlums and said when he arose that he would have shown himself if he had been dressed.

Chattanooga Lookout Mountain.

It was 8 p. m. when the special pulled into the depot at Chattanooga, and the prince's reception committee, headed by Newell Sanders and accompanied by Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and General H. V. Boynton, came forward to formally greet the prince. There was a great throng in and about the depot and the special train was quickly made into a mass. As the prince reached the crest of the mountain the sun broke through the grayish clouds and for a short time the view was excellent. Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain, the great mountain range that runs along the Tennessee river could be traced in its meanderings for miles.

General Boynton, who participated in the Chattanooga operations with Sherman's army, and is chairman of the Chickamauga National Park association, accompanied the prince down along the ridge and the progress of the battle and briefly related the story of the campaign. He pointed out to the Cumberland mountains, beyond which Rosecrans began the movement, traced out the route to doozer Bragg, brought it up to the command of Grant and then graphically told the story of Chickamauga and the assault on Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

Prince Henry followed the recital with the keenest interest, and with map before him, studied out the strategy and progress of the fight. He asked numerous questions, and at his direction his aide, Lieutenant Commander von Egidy, noted down figures as to the number of men engaged, the losses on either side and other information as to the battles and campaigns. As Prince Henry stood at Rock Point and looked across the valley of the Tennessee he exclaimed:

"Never Saw Such a Sight."

"This is magnificent. There is nothing in all Europe that is finer. I have never seen such a battlefield."

While the party was at Rock Point a snow squall blew up and the picture changed in a moment. Dark clouds of the storm rolled in around the peaks, the sky blackened and snow began falling. Through the storm the recital went on and the young prince and the gray-haired veterans, who talked of a day nearly forty years gone, and the uniformed staffs standing about, made an impressive group. The party was photographed at the peak, and one of the photographers, a local man, was sharply rebuked by the prince. The photographer did not like the way the prince stood, and in rather loud tones repeatedly asked him to change. The prince changed position several times, but finally said:

"I have changed five times, I think you will take me right here, if you care to. You have had several photographs already."

Serdy He Got Mad.

Later the prince told one of the president's delegates that he was sorry he had

LOSS UP IN THE MILLIONS

Property Damage from Flood is Immense, Besides Heavy Death Rate.

SNOWSLIDES BURY MINERS

Two More Avalanches Sweep Down the Colorado Mountains.

TILLMAN SCORES COUNTRY

Repeats His Charge of Plunketism and Aching Foreign Nobility.

BURGLAR SURRENDERS TOOLS

Writes to Chief Donahue that He Has Resolved to Reform.

CONDITION OF THE WEATHER

Forecast for Nebraska—Cloudy Monday; Probably Rain; Warmer in East Portion; Tuesday, Fair, Colder in West Portion; Variable Winds.

DIXIE HAILS PRINCE

Warm-Hearted Southerner Great Royal German with Enthusiasm.

EVENTFUL TRIP IN THE SOUTHLAND

Principal Cities in Tennessee and Kentucky Tender Heroic Overtures.

PRINCE SCALES LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN

Views with Interest Scenes of Thrilling Battles of Civil War.

CORDIALLY ENTERTAINED BY HOOSIERS

From Indiana's Capital City the Distinguished Tourist Departs for His Visit in St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 2.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout Mountain today and after viewing the ground where the Union and confederate soldiers met in conflict and hearing fresh story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west.

His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to have a long talk with the prince and was greatly pleased by the experience. It was the Glee club of Fisk university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people gave the prince a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis.

At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans, as well, and at several points they had seen and cheered the prince the people called to the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour, and as he was leaving Nashville said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner and I deeply appreciate it. I wish they might know how thankful I am."

Guided by a pilot engine the royal spectacle made a rapid run from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. Tired from his exertions of the day, the prince retired after leaving Cincinnati, but his slumbers were disturbed by the clamorous calls made for him at some of the Kentucky and Tennessee stations. He was awakened by the sound of beating on the windows of his apartment called upon him to appear. He did not know that it was simply an act of hoodlums and said when he arose that he would have shown himself if he had been dressed.

Chattanooga Lookout Mountain.

It was 8 p. m. when the special pulled into the depot at Chattanooga, and the prince's reception committee, headed by Newell Sanders and accompanied by Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and General H. V. Boynton, came forward to formally greet the prince. There was a great throng in and about the depot and the special train was quickly made into a mass. As the prince reached the crest of the mountain the sun broke through the grayish clouds and for a short time the view was excellent. Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain, the great mountain range that runs along the Tennessee river could be traced in its meanderings for miles.

General Boynton, who participated in the Chattanooga operations with Sherman's army, and is chairman of the Chickamauga National Park association, accompanied the prince down along the ridge and the progress of the battle and briefly related the story of the campaign. He pointed out to the Cumberland mountains, beyond which Rosecrans began the movement, traced out the route to doozer Bragg, brought it up to the command of Grant and then graphically told the story of Chickamauga and the assault on Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

Prince Henry followed the recital with the keenest interest, and with map before him, studied out the strategy and progress of the fight. He asked numerous questions, and at his direction his aide, Lieutenant Commander von Egidy, noted down figures as to the number of men engaged, the losses on either side and other information as to the battles and campaigns. As Prince Henry stood at Rock Point and looked across the valley of the Tennessee he exclaimed:

"Never Saw Such a Sight."

"This is magnificent. There is nothing in all Europe that is finer. I have never seen such a battlefield."

While the party was at Rock Point a snow squall blew up and the picture changed in a moment. Dark clouds of the storm rolled in around the peaks, the sky blackened and snow began falling. Through the storm the recital went on and the young prince and the gray-haired veterans, who talked of a day nearly forty years gone, and the uniformed staffs standing about, made an impressive group. The party was photographed at the peak, and one of the photographers, a local man, was sharply rebuked by the prince. The photographer did not like the way the prince stood, and in rather loud tones repeatedly asked him to change. The prince changed position several times, but finally said:

"I have changed five times, I think you will take me right here, if you care to. You have had several photographs already."

Serdy He Got Mad.

Later the prince told one of the president's delegates that he was sorry he had

LOSS UP IN THE MILLIONS

Property Damage from Flood is Immense, Besides Heavy Death Rate.

SNOWSLIDES BURY MINERS

Two More Avalanches Sweep Down the Colorado Mountains.

TILLMAN SCORES COUNTRY