COMMENDS STATE SCHOOLS Secretaary Wilson, Upon Invitation, Talks on Education to Legislature.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, March 5.—(Special.)—Secretary James Wilson was in the city today and as he appeared in the house of representatives he was introduced and The request of Mrs. H. L. Lindt, wife of made a few pertinent remarks. He spoke Attorney John Lindt, that her school fund of the gratification it was to him to be introduced anywhere as a resident of lows He spoke of the advancement of our nation in agriculture and manufacturing and of the work which had been done to give Iowa a foremost position through its great educational work at the university, state bers Bullis and Kerney a committee to college and normal school. He had visited many state colleges and experiment sta-tions and he had found none in advance of that of Iowa and he commended that institution to its members of the legisla-

What has made the United States the great power it is in the world today is education. The common schools, the high schools the agricultural college, the normal schools and the state university all are helping. In looking back over my career I cannot find that anybody ever found fault with me for helping take care of the lowa educational institutions. I can recall where fault was found with members for their little economics along these lines. I am proud to meet you here today, proud to see the faces of the men who are taking good care of the future of the state. I have no doubt as to the result, and I do not fear for the educational institutions of lows. Iowa would not have the distinction among other states that if has now were it not for its sducational advantages, I am sure that this legislature will act and work for the best interests of all and that the future welfare of the state will be owing to you. ture. Among other things he said: probably either at Albia or Oskaloosa, and

When the special order was reached in the senate Ball called up the bill to give the State university a special one-fifth of 1 mill tax levy for the building fund, the sum to be expended by the trustees as they see He presented the needs of the university. Senators Porter and Trewin opposed the tax and the former especially called attention to the report made by the university trustees on the expenditure of the money already given, and to the fact that it was impossible to learn from the report what had actually been done with the money. Senator Junkin warmly defended the university and advocated liberality toward all the state educational institutions. At the hour of adjournment the consideration of the bill had not been finished.

Contest Case Walting. The Bruce-Emmert contest bids fair to go before the senate judiciary committee before it is decided. The impression that this action will be taken is becoming more general. The friends of Senator J. M. Emmert will insist upon this course on the ground that the contest hinges entirely upon a legal point which should have the careful consideration of the best lawyers in the upper body. They insist that yesterday by Judge Thornell of the district | if the question is submitted to careful concourt. This is the third term for Hess sideration of the lawyers of the judiciary and Underwood and the second for Arnd. committee they will abide by the decision of the latter. Nothing has been accomplished as yet by the special contest committee since the report submitted to the senate last week was recommitted. It is understood, however, that the majority of the committee, favoring the seating of James E. Bruce, republican, is getting another reday, March 13, and that the grand and petit port under way, in which it will outline jurors to be notified to that effect. No facts and figures to bear up its conclusions. The minority report, favoring Senator Emmert, the incumbent, is expected to come back to the senate in the same form as it was submitted previously. It then remains to be seen whether or not the egnate will take action on the reports or send the matter to the judiciary committee. The whole case hinges upon the question of whether or not the ballots cast in Pleasant township, Cass county, should have been counted or thrown out. were counted by the judges in the Cass-

Shelby district. Bruce receiving a majority of fifty-nine in the township. Including this township the special contest committee found that James E. Bruce had a majority of fifteen votes in the district. The democratic minority of the committee holds that the opportunity existed to tamper with these ballots between the time they were cast and the time they were counted and recorded by the judges, and therefore they should not have been considered to determine the final vote, thus leaving an approximate majority for Emmert of forty-four. To Finish the State Capitol.

The senate committee on appropriations this morning made a report favorable to the bill to authorize the expenditure of $250,000 in the completion of the state capitol in accordance with plans and suggestions of a committee especially appointed to consider the matter. The work will con-2,400 sist largely of decoration of the interior, and conlacing the fact the temporary work of repairs and the fome needs regilding in of good quality and will be replaced by different kind. The plans also include a great change in the ornamentation of the capitol grounds. The bill provides that only half of the appropriation shall be used in the next biennial period and the work will likely take five or six years. The same committee recommended postponement of the bill to continue work on the state historical building, as it was believed this can wait a few years without detriment.

Supreme Court Bill.

The bill to change the terms of the supreme court and provide for a salary commensurate with the work is now in the hands of a senate committee and there will be a hearing on Thursday of delegations of lawyers on this bill. It is understood a strong delegation representing the Pottawattamie county bar will come from Council Bluffs, and many other lawyers will be present. The bill was completely cut to places by the house and nothing left of it but a slight incresse in salary. The senate, which contains a larger proportion of lawyers, is disposed to insist on having left in the bill the provision for practically con tinuous sessions of the supreme court and it is believed that if the bill is sent back to the house in this form and with the prestige of the senate having approved it the bill can be passed.

The Tri-City Telephane company of Clinton gave notice of an increase of capital to $135,000.
