

NO FORTY PER CENT BASIS

Mr. McIntosh Strikes it Out in His Amended Petition.

WANTS BOARD TO ASCERTAIN STANDARD

In Resuming Argument Real Estate Exchange's Lawyer Cites Case Where Mandamus Reversed an Election Board.

Attorney J. H. McIntosh, who appears for realtors and mortgagees in the tax mandamus case, has amended his application for the writ. In the amendment the words "40 per cent basis" do not appear. The supreme court is asked to compel the city council to reconvene a board of equalization to "ascertain what the standard of valuation is" and then make the assessment of the corporations conform to such standard. The amended petition follows:

"That from the evidence before you you determine the fair cash value as of the date of such 1902 assessment for taxation for the city of Omaha of all the personal property and franchises of each of the corporations within said city of Omaha and subject to taxation thereof for said 1902 city taxes, and that you also ascertain the standard of valuation adopted and employed by the last commissioners of franchises and the Board of Review of said city in making the assessment of the personal property within said city for said 1902 taxes, and bring the amount of the several assessments of property within said city to conform to the standard of valuation adopted and employed by the last commissioners of franchises and the Board of Review of said city in making the assessment of the personal property within said city for said 1902 taxes, and certify the respective amounts so ascertained to the commissioner of said city as the corrected and equalized assessment."

"This," said Mr. McIntosh, "is the same in spirit as the original petition, but the change in its position; the only difference is that in the amendment the language is less specific. It amounts to the same in the end."

McIntosh Resumes Argument.

The hearing before Referee Ryan was resumed at 9:30 yesterday morning, at which time Mr. McIntosh took up his address at the point where he left off Friday evening. The six attorneys representing the city and the five public service corporations were present. The spectators' benches were well filled.

Mr. McIntosh cited a St. Louis case, wherein a committee of property owners was denied the right of hearing before the election board of the Board of Education of that city. The purpose of the hearing asked for was to protest against the appointment of a "solid republican board," whereas the charter provided that the board should comprise an equal number of democrats and republicans. The property owners applied for a writ of mandamus, compelling the election board to reconvene and correct its finding, and the writ was granted.

"In this report," said the speaker, "we find the counsel for the respondents interposing the same ancient technicalities as the counsel for the respondents in the case now before your honor. A writ of mandamus can't lie in a case where the appointment is already made; the relators had their remedy in other proceedings than mandamus; a mandamus cannot be resorted to to control judicial discretion, etc. etc. It's the same set of technicalities that is built up here by these respondents. The objections are ancient, and given little or no weight by courts nowadays. This is especially true of federal courts. If a right exists, the court will find a way to grant it."

"The value of these cases cited outside of the state," said Referee Ryan, "is merely to enable us to get the advantage of the reasoning, and the steps by which the courts reached their decisions. You don't expect me to be governed by them."

Cases Strikingly Parallel.

"Certainly," answered Mr. McIntosh, "such cases are not precedents, but merely authorities, and they are strikingly parallel, and so they may be compared with advantage. In the Missouri case the court not only revoked the work already done by the election board, but ordered it to reconvene and to appoint a board to comprise an equal number of democrats and republicans."

"Was not that controlling judicial discretion?" asked Referee Ryan.

"It might have been, your honor," was the answer. "Could I ask this court to go so far in its recommendation, as the fendency of the Missouri decision is to show that the court would not permit strict rules of law to stand in the way of justice?"

"Hard cases make bad precedents," said the referee. "Could I ask this court just as well have commanded the election board to appoint all democrats or all republicans?"

"Perhaps it would work out that way logically, but that would have been a most flagrant control of judicial discretion. As it stands the court merely said, 'Meet and do your duty,' and then pointed out what that duty was."

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The stomach is the vital center of the body. It is the organ from which all other organs derive their strength. A weak stomach means a weak man. There never was a strong man with a weak stomach. What is called "weak stomach" is in general a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion, which prevents the proper digestion of the food which is taken into the stomach, and so reduces the nutrition of the body. When all food is taken away the body starves. When the food eaten is only digested and assimilated in part it only nourishes the body in part, and so the body is partly starved. And this starvation is felt in every organ of the body dependent on the blood which is made from food.

WANTS TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

County Attorney Shields Gets Into Race with Dunn and Ransom.

MESERVE ANXIOUS TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Omaha Populist Insists that Democrats Have No Right Even to Ask for Top Place on Fusion Ticket.

The latest aspirant for congressional honors in this district is County Attorney George W. Shields, whose friends have just announced his willingness to take the fusion nomination. The candidacy of Mr. Shields, if it is in good faith and there is no reason to doubt that it is, will probably make the position of Mr. Dunn, the deputy county attorney, somewhat embarrassing, for it has been known for some time that Dunn's eyes have seriously wandered in the direction of a congressional seat. Whether Dunn's candidacy is in the interest of Shields or vice versa cannot be stated with authority, but if such is the case the cordial relations that have heretofore existed between the county attorney and his chief deputy may not be disturbed.

Shields' friends assert that he is really in the contest to win the nomination, and not to throw any strength that he may gather to Dunn or anyone else. Having served a term as county judge and nearing the end of a second term as county attorney, Mr. Shields is said to be in contemplation of a very brilliant political career which he is depicted in the act of separating himself from a public office. An attempt to ascend to the district court bench having already been made, with unsuccessful result, and there being no other office in the county which he could open a door for him, Mr. Shields has widened his political horizon to take in the congressional ticket, in which he thinks he sees some promise of having his name transferred to the official roster of the national legislature.

Aside from Mr. Shields and Mr. Dunn there is still another strenuous candidate for the fusion nomination for congress in the person of Frank T. Ransom, who avers that he is a democrat, but that he is in the place where "silver republican" used to be. Mr. Ransom began his hustle for the nomination several months ago, and being several laps ahead in the race, considers that he has Dunn and Shields just a little bit faded.

John B. Meserve, who has just been "vindicated" by having an indictment of embezzlement against him quashed on a legal technicality, is said to be a candidate for the fusion gubernatorial nomination. It is hinted that he is anxious to have the run for governor on the strength of his record as state treasurer in order to test his contention that a custodian of public funds is entitled to put the earnings of those funds into his own pocket. Populists and democrats in Omaha are not taking the Meserve candidacy seriously.

"If there is to be any fusion in Nebraska this fall," said a prominent Douglas county populist yesterday, "the candidate for governor will be a populist. There are a number of democrats seeking the place at the head of the fusion ticket, but the people will under no circumstances give up this fall. We let the democrats name the candidate for supreme judge last fall and it was thoroughly understood at that time that the populists were to have the head of the ticket this year. There is no honorable way in which the democrats can even ask to provide the candidate for governor. It is my opinion that the populist convention will not even entertain a proposition from the democratic convention on that subject, with the exception of a single vote to name the head of the ticket or go it alone."

"The convention will probably be held early, some time in July probably. Omaha will not get the convention unless it makes some effort for it, which it has not made up to date. Of course, I shall make a talk in favor of Omaha at the meeting of the state committee at Lincoln on Wednesday, but I don't believe it will have any effect. In my opinion Omaha will never get a populist state convention unless the populists deliver an ultimatum at the outset, side the rest of the convention hall at least."

Announcements of the Theaters.

A pleasing bill composed of a diversity of acts of uniform quality is gratifying theater-goers at the Orpheum this week. The bicycle act of the three Merrills is a fine sensational exhibition. One of the members ascends on a high stool to the top of a high stair and makes a daring leap to the stage below. Julia Kingsley, the talented comedienne and the quaint comedian Nelson Lewis are scoring big in the laughable comedy "Her Uncle's Niece." Meserve, seen here now on the next amateur performance, which will be given in connection with the regular bill next Saturday night. A dozen acts have been listed and the usual amount of hilarious fun is promised.

The large advance sale of seats for the performance of "Hunting for Hawkins" at the Boyd, Wednesday, matinee night and Thursday and Friday nights, indicates that local amusement seekers appreciate a high class attraction when it is offered them. "Hunting for Hawkins" is a red-hot comedy, with a well-defined, interesting plot, bright, witty dialogue, laughable situations, and is said to move with a breeziness that allows no dull moments during the action.

COUNCIL IS IMPOTENT BODY

Members in Committee Meeting Find Little They Can Do Just Now.

Everything about the city hall, even the building, is in a suspense pending the decision in the present tax hearing before Referee Ryan. There is constant evidence of the fact that it takes money to make the wheels work, and when the councilmen met yesterday in committee of the whole they again found themselves blocked in all purposes to do anything important. They did, however, agree on certain points, among which was one for the Mutual Oil company to erect its tanks along the Union Pacific tracks, about one-half mile west of the government corral. Another was for the Bemis Bag company to raise the sidewalk along the south side of its building on South Eleventh street and to put a glass awning along its east side.

JOHN WERTH TAKES POISON

Carpenter Dies at Clarkson Hospital and Body is Held by Coroner.

John Werth died at Clarkson hospital last night, the result of a dose of poison evidently taken with suicidal intent. He was found unconscious on his bed in his room at 1011 Capitol avenue at 12:30 o'clock by H. C. Van Aubry. The latter notified Dr. Ralph, who, after an examination, said that the man was evidently suffering from the effects of poison and had him removed to the Clarkson hospital.

By the side of Werth's bed, on a chair, was a glass half filled with water and some white powders which were partially dissolved. On a shelf over the bed the officers found a postal card addressed to Emil Glaser, Fourth and Boulevard, upon which was written: "Friend Glaser: Come and get goods when you want to. John." On the back of a large poster the man had written a note to the landlady, instructing her to give the goods to Glaser when he called and also adding the line: "I expected money, but did not get it."

Werth was 40 years of age and a carpenter by trade and for the past five years has been rooming at the Capitol avenue address. So far as known he has no family. He was a quiet, sober man, and, according to the people with whom he roomed, was not addicted to drink.

Werth died at 9:30 o'clock and the body was taken to the coroner's morgue.

Digests what you Eat Kodol Dyspepsia Cure A healthy stomach, capable of digesting a good, square meal, is a great blessing. It keeps the body strong by insuring plenty of nourishment. In fact, it means perfect health. But some of us must be done when the stomach is so tired that it can't digest what you eat, for undigested food poisons the blood. We can recommend a preparation that completely digests all classes of foods—that is KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. It gives the stomach perfect rest and allows you to eat and enjoy the variety of food that is necessary for maintaining health. It never fails to cure indigestion, after everything else has failed. It is pleasant to take and can be used in all conditions. "For many years I suffered from chronic indigestion, and it seemed as though nothing was going to do me any good. On the advice of a friend I commenced using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gave me immediate relief and I continued its use, until now I feel that I am cured."—Henry F. Cramer, Wendellville, N. Y.
