Corn and Oats Crawl Up a Fraction of a Point. WHEAT NERVOUS AND QUITS UNCHANGED. Opens Higher, but Dips with Come-back-Grain Interest Centers in Corn and Provisions Are Irregular with Slight Change.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Speculation in grain was active and nervous today, following the irregularities of the corn pit. Trade was largely of a manipulative character which puzzled the public. At 10:30 a.m. May wheat advanced 1/8 cent to 1.05 1/2 and May oats 1/8 cent to 45 cents. Provisions were weak for a time, but closed unchanged to the influence of the cold weather west and southwest. This was a good excuse to start covering and buying the market, but the market was not of late. In a bull deal in July options jumped into the pit and sold 1,000,000 bushels of corn based on the contract for the month of late.
