PROBES RAIL RATES DEEPER

Interstate Commerce Commission Goes to Root of Discrimination.

DETERMINED TO ENFORCE THE LAW

One of Main Objects in Hearing is to Compel Railreads to Publish Their Freight Tariffs.

CHICAGO, April 1.-It is the purpose of the Interstate Commerce commission to employ every means within its power to secure an absolute observance of the provisions of the interstate commerce act. The committee is not going to cease operations because injunctions suits have been brought to this end.

This announcement was made by Commissloper Charles Prouty, relative to the investigation to begin here tomorrow. Asked what the commission expected to discover and what would likely be the outcome, provided evidence of late infections of the law developed, Mr. Prouty, said;

We must first ascertain what has been done and then determine what action is advisable under the circumstances, as they may develope. The fact that the Department of Justice is proceeding by another means would not prevent our taking the initiative in instituting criminal proceedings should the facts disclosed by the evidence warrant such action. evidence warrant such action.

Packing House Discriminations.

Upon former investigations railroad officials have told us that secret practices have been abandoned and the law observed. Despite this fact, one railroad had on file with the commission for some time, a tariff of 42 cents on packing house products from the Missouri river to the seaboard and it was not met openly by any other road. Now we would like to learn how it was the other lines managed to get business upon a tariff of 48 cents when the road in question was carrying it for 42 cents.

Commissioner Prouty said another purpose of the hearing was to take steps to compel the railroads to publish their export rates. This is a radical departure, although some of the roads in times past products. In general, however, railroad officials and attorneys claim that the law cannot compel them to publish export tariffs and a battle is to be made on this

Keep Domestic Rates Up.

The reason for the fight is that the railroads have been making higher domestic rates upon packing house products and grain and then cutting the rate by taking care of everything as export shipments. Asked if the commission purposed trying to probe any of the alleged pools, the commissioner said that so far as he knew there were no pools.

Concurrent with the commission's investigation is a notice by all eastern lines that effective April 14 rates will be raised on grain and grain products and upon packing house products for expert and domestic purposes, both by all rail and by part lake and part rall routes. The new rates are from two to four points higher per 100 pounds than the present rates, and they will establish a differential on grain and grain products of 2 cents in favor of the lakes, as against 3 cents at present existing.

The general committee of the Emmett ners. branch of the Irish National league met | The weather was ideal for the sport, a meeting to be held April 9, at which time of the pigeons which got away, were rethe Irish National league. It was decided that admission to the theater where the meeting will be held shall be by ticket, which may be secured free from certain stores in the city which will be designated later. These tickets will also be placed in one or two places in South Omaha and Council Bluffs, where they can be secured. Tickets thus secured will reserve seats at the theater until 8:30 on the night of the meeting, when, if the scats are not occupied they will be thrown open to the general public. This course was adopted, as the seating capacity of the hall is limited and it was the desire of the committee to make those who attend as comfortable as possible and to avoid crowding the hall.

Invitations have been sent through the local newspapers to sympathizers with the movement in Iowa and Nebraska and seats will be reserved for all who may come from other towns. These seats can be secured by the visitors before 8 o'clock on the night of the meeting by personal application to members of the general committee.

It was decided to ask a number of prominent men to act as vice presidents of the meeting and invitations will be issued to them in a day or two. Vice presidents will be chosen not only from Omaha, but from other towns in the state.

One matter which is causing the committee some concern is the fact that the students of Creighton college have made arrangements for amateur theatricals at the university hall on the night of April 9, the night of the meeting. Many persons are interested in both of these affairs and an attempt will be made to have the theathave flied export rates on grain and grain ricals postponed, as it will be impossible to change the date of the league meeting. as the theater can be secured for no other

> It was decided that parties desiring to make arrangements for boxes at the meeting should consult J. A. Connor, in the Board of Trade building, the chairman of the hall committee, who has charge of that part of the work.

The finance committee reported that it had received pledges satisfactory for the length of time that it had been at work and that there would be no difficulty in securing the funds necessary to defray the expenses. The meeting adjourned to meet Saturday night, at which time all preliminary work will be completed.

JOHN EVANS SHY, BUT BUNCOED

Declines to Invest in Padlock Game but Readily Surrenders Coin to Fake Officer. John Evans, on his way from his home in Iowa to Portland, Ore., stopped off in Omaha yesterday afternoon and in a few short hours had paid $40 to learn some of the ways of the bunco man.

John came from Woodbine, where the only excitement is the song of the whangdoodle when it whangeth, and from his bulky grip tied with a piece of binder twine, to his empty purse, everything indicated that John belongs to the evergreen family, called for short "easy marks." When John struck Omaha his blood was fired with an ambition to learn the ways of the city and he lost to the effect that the Banque Calais and no time in getting into line to realize his ambition.

Soon after leaving the station he met a stranger, who agreed to be his teacher and guide, showing him all the points of interest in the city and seeing that he got his money's worth. The two visited all the music halls and beer gardens and John was delighted with his new-found friend. While at Thirteenth and Webster streets the friend picked up a padlock. Just to show his aporting blood, he offered to bet John that he could open it without a key. "Not on your life," said John, ,"I don't bet on no other man's game; not since I lost 70 cents at the fair last year." While still congratulating himself on not being buncoed out of his money, John and his friend were accosted by a fierce looking blue-coated individual who styled himself a minion of the law. John and his friend were arrested, and John had never been arrested before, not even on Hallowe'en night, and it broke his heart. After the usual pleading the officer agreed to allow John to return to his hotel pending an investigation if John would put up all the money he had as a bond that he would not leave town. John had $40 and sisted on knowing that it was properly made the sympathetic officer took it and John was told to wait at the entrance of the St. James hotel on South Thirteenth street

Three hundred and sixty-nine candidates for Grand American handicap honors entered for this first preliminary shoot and the list included all of the prominent shooters who are on the entry list for the big shoot later in the week. There were 140 who had not missed a bled at the end of the fourth round, or after every man had shot once at each of the four traps. Seventy-four men had an inbroken record of dead birds at the end of the eighth round.

Twelve Birds the Number,

Because of the unwieldy entry list it was decided early in the day to cut the number of birds each man was to shoot at from twelve to eight, but as the sweepstakes, according to the original plan, were to be divided among the thirty high guns and there were seventy-four straight scores after all had shot at eight birds, the management later decided to continue the match to twelve birds, dropping from the list all who had missed more than one bird. This left 184 men, or half the entry list to shoot the remaining four rounds. The purse amounted to $2,583, which was divided equally among the thirty-six win-

The Montgomery handicap was the fourth event on the program and thirteen horses faced the starter. Flora Pomona was entered at the last moment. At the opening of the betting odds of 100 to 1 were laid against Circus, but a steady play on the colt forced the price down to 20 to 1 at the close. The start was a good one. Waring immediately assumed command and led his following up the backstretch at a merry clip, closely followed by Silurian and Fiora Pomona. At the far turn Circus made his run from behind and turning the stretch held fourth position. The finish was an exciting one, Circus winning by a head from Waxtaper, who closed up a lot of ground in the final run home.

Four favorites won—Alpaca, Essence and Blue and Orange, all of whom were ridden by Wonderly, took flat races, and Arius a jumping event. Y., April 1.-William Carter, a halfbreed Indian, who is under arrest for the attempted murder of Charles Carman at Port Crape, made a confession under oath today, in which he admits the crime and alleges that he shot Carman at the instigation of Dr. C. J. Tiffany, who he says, paid him to kill Carman. In an affidavit Carter says Dr. Tiffany promised him $25 to kill Carman, with committed. He says Tiffany gave him money to buy a revolver.

Continuing, Carter says: Continuing, Carter says:

Dr. Tiffany told me just how to shoot Carman. He showed me just the spot on the side of the head to shoot to be certain to kill him. Last Wednesday night I went to Dr. Tiffany's barn and stayed there until 8:36, when I went to the back of Carman's barn, where I remained until Mr. Carman came out with his lantern. After he had gone inside the barn, I went to the door and waited until Mr. Carman came out, when I fired one shot at him. He slung his lantern at me and then some wood. I was scared and stood for, a minute looking at him. He yelled and then I ran.

The authorities by comparing his statement with the known facts and the statement of Mr. Carman claim to find very many points of corroboration. Dr. Tiffany, who was arrested as an ac essory before the fact, denies Carter's allegation in every point and declares that he had no foreknowledge of the shooting of
