DR. ANDREWS ON SACRED EDUCATION

State Conference Carticipated in by Many Nebraska Thinkers-General News from Lincoln.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, April 5 .- (Special.) - Clergy men, educators and students gathered in this city today to participate in the Ne braska conference in the interest of religious education. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the University of Nebraska and the Lincoln Pastors' asociation. Persons came in response to the call from many points throughout the state and today entered upon their work with much enthusiasm. The conference will conclude its deliberations tomorrow evening. Today's sessions were held in the First Congregational church.

The opening address of the conference was delivered by Chancellor Andrews, who began his remarks by saying it was not his purpose to anticipate any discussion that might take place, but only to outline some of the thoughts, which, so far as he could discover, had led the members to convene. "I take no part in the joust; I am simply the herald, ringing the bel to give notice that the joust is on," declared the chancellor. "And let not this polemic figure of the 'joust' frighten any. We are not here to fight, but to reason together. Further, though we have met to discuss we have not met to discuss religious doctrine. On the substance matter of that we differ-perhaps less than we think, perhaps more.

The chancellor thought that however far apart the members of the conference might be at certain points the gathering would certainly be quite illogical were they not as one in at least the single conviction, that there is a reality to religion.

Reality of Religion.

"We vary in our statements of that re ality, both in general and in detail, and there may be differences of view touching the degree of its importance," said he, "but with one voice and heart we maintain that religion is real, not a chimera, not a chance survival from lower stages of human development. The assumption that religious teachers have something yet to learn regarding the best modes of inculcating their beliefs involves no admission that they have hitherto been or are at present altogether astray. In the nature of the case review and revision of the methods employed in teaching religion must from time to time be imperative.

"A curious and interesting illustration of this need, showing how religious nomenclature, at least, must from time to time be reinterpreted, connects itself with the theological conception of sovereignty, meaning that power legislative and executive in a government from which there can be no appeal. In the days of absolute royal sovereignty when men like Buchanan, Jurieu, Hooker and Hobbes discoursed upon this conception, it was easy to ascribe sovereignty to the Supreme Being without derogating from him any moral attribute. Political sovereignty was then almost universally considered to attach to some man, a king, or woman, a queen, who because sovereign, could do no political wrong any more than our supreme court now can render an illegal decision

"At present, however, this is changed The intelligent throughout the world ascribe sovereignty to the total people and regard it insufferable for any individual to arrogate this to himself, so that to ascribe sovereignty to God inevitably political conceptions."

Slighting of Sunday School. In conclusion the chancellor said: "The cessation by so many parents of efforts to render their children sanely religious might have been expected to evoke attempts at the betterment of Sabbath school instruction. Such attempts are making now, one of the sessions, I touch it here only would improve Sabbath school teaching to secularize and intellectualize this, dealing with dates, authorship, analysis, geography, criticism, and slighting the moral and religious content of the literature studied. Information of the sorts named is needed, especially for superintendents and teachers. also for normal classes, which should be kept up to insure supply of good teachers; but the mere mental apprehension of precious literature and history will never interest the masses and would do them little good, even if it interested them.

"Two questions of moral moment obtrude themselves in considering those religious musterings of young people by themselves which are so fashionable now. First, is it well that young people should be thus sharply segregated from their seniors. forming, as it were, a minor imperium; a synagogue of children, in the religious community? I conceive that many are answering this query in the negative and that few indeed regard it as undebatable. second inquiry in the premises is whether, supposing such segregations not

At last a cure has been found. Incredi-ble us it may seem, after the centuries of

THE R. P. VANDERSHIEL .. IN CONCESSES fallure, a positive and certain cure for the deadly consumption has at last been discovered. It remained for a great physician of Michigan to find the only known cure for consumption, after almost a life's work spent in experimenting and study.

Consumptives who have returned from the West-come home to die because they thought nothing could be done for them—have tried this new discovery and are now well and atrong.

In principal contention the moratage was over the question of whether the publication of the history of a previous case consumption after almost a life work in which Mrs. Closen was similarly accused, and of veiled references by the girl's attorney to it at various times, influenced the jury.

for Slugging.

The Omaha Young Men's Christian asso ciation basket ball team definitely settled its superiority over the men from the Lincoln association last night by defeating the visitors in the local gymnasium by a score of 35 to 12. This is the third game these teams have played this season and rivalry has been intense from the start, growing keener after each contest. Omaha won the first game here by a score of 27 to 19. Then the Omaha team went to Lincoln and was defeated by a large score. Now Omaha has won the third game carrying the state championship. Unpleasant incidents marred last night's match. Because of differences over rulings of the officials, rivalry developed into aniconsideration the recommendation of the mosity and some rough work was done on jury to mercy, at your age, 62 years, and both sides.
