Good health depends mostly upon the food we eat. We can't be healthy if we take alum or other poison daily in our food. Dr. Price's Baking Powder is absolutely free from alum. It is made from pure cream of tartar and adds to the healthfulness of the food.

NOTE—Alum baking powders induce dyspepsia, liver complaint and kidney trouble. Alum may not kill, but undermines the health, and ill health makes life miserable.

CONNOLLY'S FIGHTING GARB

It is No Temporary Apparel from Now On, Says Owner.

THREAT TO JAR O'KEEFE'S APPOINTEES

Report that Connolly is Willing to Give Tate Auditorship in Order to Place Dan Canon and Pat Ford.

"My fighting clothes are on to stay on," said Commissioner James P. Connolly yesterday, "and at this conference which I am arranging there will be a heart-to-heart talk which no newspaper man will be permitted to hear. In fact, there will not be any one there but commissioners, and there will be at least one of them who will be conspicuous by his absence. There may be another vacant chair, but I am not so certain about it."

As he made these latter remarks Mr. Connolly's hazel eyes focused involuntarily on the seat where Commissioner O'Keefe sits and then on Chairman Holdick's newly-varnished throne. He smiled the smile of a warrior surveying the tents of the enemy.

"We will talk of my resolution, introduced at Tuesday's meeting and referred to the committee of the whole. It provides for rescinding the resolution of February 14, giving the heads of departments power to hire and discharge all employees under them, but whether this resolution is agreed on or killed will make no difference if I can succeed in doing away with the one-man power," he has been running the hazel eyes focused on O'Keefe's desk goes to them and says to appoint this man or that man and they do it. They haven't say their souls are their own.

Wants a New Lineup.

"But that is going to stop now. The men who will be put in the various places will be there to stay and they needn't be afraid. I am going to make sure of a new lineup for the foundation for what is to be done in the immediate future."

About the court house it seems commonly understood that the thing "to be done" include the substitution of John H. Tate, a republican, for Peter O'Malley, a democrat, as chief of the auditing department and the resignation of A. J. Webb, the assistant, who is considered an O'Keefe man. Other substitutions planned are those of P. Ford for Thomas O'Connor at the county store and Dan W. Canon for J. Henry Oest at the poor farm.

A democrat who is friendly to both O'Keefe and Connolly and influential in the party councils has been to the court house frequently of late, trying to effect a reconciliation, but said yesterday: "It seems

Consumption

Is a disease of civilization. When the Indian was a stranger to the white man he had no name in his vocabulary for this dreaded malady. Without arguing as to the curability of consumption, it may be stated positively that Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures weak lungs, hemorrhages, bronchitis, deep-seated and stubborn cough, and other diseases which are neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption. There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics. Persons suffering from chronic disease are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is conducted by mail, and the seal of sacred secrecy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. In a little over thirty years, Dr. Pierce, assisted by his medical staff of nearly a score of physicians, has treated and cured thousands of men and women who had been given up as incurable by local physicians.

no use. They simply will not get together and they're raising trouble for the party while the republican minority looks on and laughs. Harry Miller is sweating with the rest of us and called the democratic members together the other day in an effort to effect a compromise. He even offered himself as something of a burnt sacrifice, trying them to punch holes in his forces if they must, but for the party's sake to get together in other matters.

Some Democratic Frost.

"Connolly waited for O'Keefe, O'Keefe sat like an image, and the meeting ended in a frost. Connolly takes the stand that O'Keefe has not only aspired to be the whole thing, but to have him (Connolly) literally snubbed into submission, and that he is therefore justified in taking the extreme measures that he does. O'Keefe isn't saying much of anything, but I guess his wood-sawing is still audible if you listen real intently."

HEAT FOR THE LABOR TEMPLE

Mr. Fredrickson Explains Terms He Made with Temple Representatives.

OMAHA, April 9.—To the Editor of The Bee: Referring to the article "Heating Out Labor Temple," in your issue of April 8, I would say: Mr. E. A. Willis, representing the Labor temple, called on me in the early part of February to arrange for heat for the new Labor temple location. I made them a price of $10 per week for heat during the day so the carpenters and plasterers could finish the building. When they started to occupy it they told me they wanted heat until 12 p. m. and I informed them that I could not furnish it at that rate later than 10 p. m., so we finally agreed upon a price of $2 per day for heat, which was satisfactory to Messrs. Clark and Willis.

I presented a bill to the Labor temple for $2 for heat for last month, and Mr. Willis brought this up at the meeting. He O. K'd it and informed me that it was passed upon as being all right. So I wish you would kindly correct the mistake which was published in the above-named article in regard to me and the Labor temple. I hope you will have this corrected in this evening's paper, please. H. E. FREDRICKSON.

The trouble over heating at the Labor temple, as a result of which H. E. Fredrickson threatened to turn the heat off of the upper rooms, came about over a misunderstanding between the members of the board of directors of the Temple association. When the building was leased by the association an arrangement was made whereby the association was to pay $10 per week for the heat while repairs were in progress, the heat to be shut off at 9 o'clock in the evening. After the association began to use the rooms at night Mr. Fredrickson charged $2 per day for the heat, and this charge was authorized by the chairman of the executive committee of the association. The treasurer of the association knew nothing of the new agreement, as no official record of the action had been kept, so that when it came to paying the bill he refused to honor the additional amount, the difference between $40 and $22.

MERRIMAC HERO IN OMAHA

H. O. Dignam, One of Hobson's Men, on His Way to Stuart, Iowa.

H. O. Dignam of Merrimac fame registered at the Millard yesterday morning, and during the forenoon was the center of a group of interested people, who were trying to get him to tell them something new or something more about the sinking of Merrimac. "I guess there is nothing new in the Merrimac line," said the sailor. "It was sunk and I was fortunate enough to be one of the party selected to sink it and I guess that is all there is to it."

FRANCIS AND EUSTIS' PLACE

Omaha Man Says He Knows Nothing of Plans Officially.

WILL GO TO CHICAGO IF REQUESTED

Appointment Will Come Through Darius Miller if at All and Will Be in Nature of Command.

Despite the flurry of preliminary speculations in which he is engulfed, General Passenger Agent Francis of the Burlington road was in a state of unrumpled calm yesterday. His alleged speedy removal to Chicago did not prevent him from going through a stack of mail of appalling dimensions, and working in the front office went on as usual.

"I will say this much," said Mr. Francis: "If I am assigned to duty as general passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road at Chicago I shall go. We are soldiers here, in a sort of way, and such an action would be the province of a proposition for my consideration. It would be a command. That order, if promulgated, would not come from my general manager, but from Darius Miller himself, who is first vice president of the Burlington system, and who is in special formal charge of all our operations."

"However, understand that I have heard nothing as yet, and so my talk here is purely tentative. I have not even received official notification of the proposition. Mr. Eustis, and I may not. They will not necessarily send official announcement of that appointment to us. When Thomas Miller was made freight traffic manager of the Burlington system a month ago no official notice of the change was received here.

May Be No Successor.

There is another feature to this which people seem to overlook and which really lessens considerably the probability of my going to Chicago. It is the fact that Mr. Eustis can possibly maintain both positions. Why could he not be passenger traffic manager of the Burlington system and at the same time continue his duties as general passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad?

"What makes this solution look more feasible is the fact that just that same thing was done with Mr. Miller. A month ago he was general freight agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. He still holds that position, although he is now also freight traffic manager of the Burlington system. Why should a new general passenger agent be appointed for the 'Q' any more than a new general freight agent?"

"That the Nebraska lines of the Burlington are a great factor of the system can be shown by the passenger business alone. In this department of the three the passenger business is one-third of the grand total, and that means purely the revenue we give ourselves. Besides that, we hand over to the other two departments, the 'Q' and the Missouri lines, much of their business, so altogether we have a hand indirectly in much more of the total."

New Home-seeker Rates.

Responding to a demand from all portions of the country, the Western Passenger association has taken another important step in the matter of rates to the west coast by arranging for a home-seeker's rate to every point on the Pacific ocean.

News of this action was received at railroad headquarters here yesterday in the shape of an announcement of a home-seeker's rate to Oregon points south of Portland, setting dates to be April 15, May 4 and May 20. Rates have already been in effect to all California points and to Washington, but there has been a cry for an Oregon rate. The new rate stretches along the Southern Pacific coast line from Portland down to Astoria, which within a few miles of the Oregon coast, and all California rates maintain. The rate is good from Missouri river points and all other east. It is one fare plus $2. Home-seekers now have the entire west coast stretched before them at this price.

Setting Time Schedule Details.

"All the details of the new time schedule to go into effect on the Burlington on May 4 will be settled at St. Joseph tomorrow," said General Passenger Agent Francis of the Burlington road yesterday. "Passenger Traffic Manager Eustis of the Burlington system, General Passenger Agent Wakeley of the Burlington Missouri lines, and myself meet there tomorrow with General Superintendent T. E. Calvert of the Burlington Nebraska lines, and will conclude the arrangement of the time tables. Of course the most important thing will be the settlement of the terminal arrivals and departures, and this is already done. The general alterations, with these main points, has now been adopted and what we will do tomorrow will be to set the time tables, terminals, arrange local trains, connections and things of that nature."

Goodnow Succeeds Hitt.

The arrival at local headquarters of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad here of a circular from the headquarters of First Vice President Parker at Chicago announcing the appointment of C. A. Goodnow as general manager, put an end to the doubts of those who were unable to believe that the step had been taken.

TESTING TITLE TO A COW

Eddie Houghton's Suit Against Constable and Farmer is on Trial.

In county court there is being tried the replevin suit of Eddie Houghton against Constable Paul F. Stein and L. W. Johnson, testing the title to the Jersey cow. Mrs. Eustis Houghton stumbled over a brace at the Ak-Sar-Ben grounds last fall and injured her right knee. Justice Foster and Attorney John W. Cooper, who were rooming at her house, undertook to repair $1,000 damages from the city for her. The city refused the Ak-Sar-Ben board, and Walter Jardine, acting for the latter, settled with Mrs. Houghton personally for $300. The attorneys used for a fee and attached the Houghton cow. Mrs. Houghton came into court and confessed judgment in the sum of $125. Her daughter, Eddie Houghton, is also in court, asserting that it was hers and represented the savings of four years' school teaching. This suit is on the replevin and directed against the constable who seized the cow and the farmer into whose custody she was given.

Rutherford of St. Paul, and Miss Ella Rutherford.

Miss Ethel O'Brien, A Frayser, Tennessee Society Lady.

I am very happy that your Wine of Cardui was brought to my notice, for it was certainly just what I needed. About a year ago I suffered the most excruciating pains every month with severe aches. I went to my family physician but he did not seem to be able to do anything for me. A friend of mine who had used your medicine for the same trouble and with great success advised me to give it a trial. I bought a bottle and used it faithfully and it lessened the pains the first month and in three months I had no pains nor headaches. It is certainly fine. —Ethel O'Brien, Frayser, Tenn.

ASSOCIATING sunshine with a smile, happiness, health and life itself, is no idle comparison. There is no stronger nor more effective health-giving element than sunshine. Men grow strong because they are in the sunlight and pure air more than women. Girls make a great mistake in shading their faces from the sun. Nothing is more attractive than a bare-headed girl whose face is tanned by the sun and whose hair is blown about by the pure health-giving air. She needs not feel herself less beautiful with her sunlit face than her sister who has grown pale by exposing her face to no stronger ray than the gas light of the ball room and social gathering. Because girls take too little exercise, because too little sunshine strikes their faces and too little fresh air reaches their lungs, they are the helpless prey of female troubles. They suffer at the coming of womanhood when the only reason is that they have not given themselves a chance to grow before the coming of women's functions and duties. They have not the constitution to stand the new life. The gaunt, complexioned girls of five, ten and twenty years ago are the suffering women and helpless mothers of today.

Every mother should take this lesson to heart and protect her daughter from a life of pain and agony. She can do this by giving her a bottle of Wine of Cardui, and insisting upon out-door exercise.

J. W. Whitehead, of Winchester, Ark., writes of his daughter:

"My daughter was in bad health and we treated her with several kinds of blood medicine but nothing did her any good until we bought six bottles of Wine of Cardui, which did her a great deal of good."

Mrs. Matthew Taylor, of Stanton Depot, Tenn., praises Wine of Cardui for what it did for her daughter. She writes:

"I want to return you a thousand thanks for what Wine of Cardui has done for my daughter. She is up and about and after four months' treatment the doctors had done her no good. She fell in weight from 125 to 105 pounds. Now she weighs more than ever. She is taking Wine of Cardui yet and has only used six bottles."

It is important that a girl just entering womanhood be in health. If she is not, she is in danger of a whole life of suffering. Mothers should start their girls right and there is no medicine that will enable them to do this like Wine of Cardui. This pure vegetable Wine regulates menstruation and in that way rids a maiden of many a menace that would follow her to old age or drag her to the grave. If you have a young daughter just nearing the age of 13 years do not let her run the chance of suffering at the coming of womanhood, when you know that an occasional small dose of Wine of Cardui will prepare her to assume the estate of womanhood with no violent shock to the system. A shock to the sensitive nerves of a young girl at this time may cost her life. Your druggist always keeps Wine of Cardui.

GARBAGE DUMP IS IN IOWA

Sanitary Officer, Sent Out to Make Arrests, Makes a Discovery.

CITY ATTORNEY DIGS UP OLD ORDINANCE

It Provides that Policemen May Arrest Anyone Caught Hauling Garbage "Upon the Territory of an Adjoining State."

The Board of Health and the police department sustained a shock yesterday when Sanitary Officer Gibbons returned from the environs of the East Omaha bridge to say that the carcasses of dead animals which have been so extensively advertised in late news items, were not in Nebraska, in fact, but on Iowa soil. "Can an Omaha policeman go into Iowa to make an arrest?" was the question he asked. "Reader of riddles, tell me, how are we to know?" was the answer he got.

The police department passed the question to the Board of Health, the Board of Health passed it on to the city engineer's department, and the city engineer's department certified it to the city attorney. The latter dug up an old ordinance (which has once been declared unconstitutional), which says in effect that an officer may arrest any person detected in the act of hauling garbage, offal or other refuse toward the city limits, or upon the territory of an adjoining state, with the evident intention of dumping it within a distance of three miles of said city limits."

Mr. Connell said that he thought this ordinance could be enforced and Officer Gibbons was sent back to watch for suspected hauling wagons, northward or eastward bound. He was directed to inspect the cargoes of all such wagons, and if found to consist of offal, to arrest the driver, either going to or coming from the illicit dumping ground. This entails an unforeseen difficulty. According to the statements of men employed on the Burr street pumping station, it is the habit of those who have dumped on the Iowa expanse to cross the river on the East Omaha bridge, returning to Omaha, presumably, over the Douglas street bridge.

This is another of the numerous tangles in state and city law caused by the vagaries of the Big Muddy. There was a time when the river, between the East Omaha bridge and the foot of Grace street, made a loop out into Nebraska, enclosing a tract of land of approximately five square miles. This peninsula naturally belonged to Iowa, since it was on the east side of the river. But one morning, after a freshet had subsided, the fishermen along the banks were surprised to find that the river had "cut cross loam," as it were, topping off the peninsula as a butcher lops off a link of bologna sausage, and the result was that five square miles of Iowa were left on the Nebraska side of the river.

Like Link of Winesaur.

All that is left now to attest this anomaly of the river is Cut-off lake, which, on the map, resembles nothing so much as a gracefully curving link of Winesaur, with creeks for strings dependant from the ends. This encloses the north boundary of that part of Iowa which is in Nebraska. The old peninsula, a peninsula no longer, is known as the "Link of Winesaur."

It is very doubtful if the city will be able to secure a conviction for dumping garbage on this tract. The police court judge may sustain the city ordinance by imposing a fine, but the chances are that the man so convicted would take an appeal to the district court, where the lower tribunal would be reversed. It may lead to a deal between the Nebraska legislature and the Iowa legislature whereby the "excessiveness" will be ceded to the former state.

NEBRASKA BOY AT PAGO PAGO

One of the Naval Apprentices Writes His Friends of His Experiences.

Last spring a number of Nebraska boys enlisted for service in the navy. Plattsmouth has one representative, who passed the necessary examination, King Wise. The boys were sent to pass six months on the training ship, Potomac, stationed at Mare Island, and were then transferred to Mohican for a cruise, the itinerary embracing Honolulu, Christmas Island, Pago Pago, Guam, Bonin and Yokohama, at which place they will arrive about May 15. King Wise writes to his friends at Plattsmouth from Pago Pago, our new Samoan naval station. He says:

"We have been about a week here, enjoying the change; everything is so new and strange. The native women are, as a rule, good looking and the men strapping fellows, and they are all clad, with but few exceptions, after the manner of Adam and Eve. They are a happy and cheerful lot, singing from morning until night. When the men reach the age of 23 or 24 they are required to have their legs tattooed from their thighs down to their ankles. The operation is exceedingly painful. Four of five men hold the victim down and another takes an instrument with a number of needle points and a mallet and goes at it. You ought to hear them scream. You'd think you were attending a chopping block."

"The last time I had shore leave, three of us went away back in the hills and came across a good-sized hut thatched over with cocoanut fibre and leaves. We went in and went through the usual ceremony, touching our foreheads, bowing, and then sitting down cross-legged on mats placed for us. I told the big native he was my friend; he told he was his friend, all the time touching our foreheads and bowing. I presented him with a small piece of tobacco, and he was won forever. He disappeared and brought back the queerest meal you ever saw. There was baked bananas, baked fish, wrapped in leaves, some queer things tasting something like potatoes, and then came kava, a native drink that affects not your head, but makes your knees highly weak. Then they gave each of us a mat and a bark blanket. We find all this very delightful after being cramped on board ship so long."

"Mebian's full complement is supposed to be 185 men and twenty-one officers, but there are between 300 and 400 boys, besides the officers. Navy diet is supposed to be healthy and muscle-building, but it does not appeal to stomachs that long for the flesh pots of home, as exemplified by the pumpkin pie, which is made by the natives. So the fresh fruits and the good living we find at Pago Pago will make us loath to start cruising again. We have great fun when we are granted shore leave. The very first thing I did was to climb a cocoanut tree, which until after several trials seemed an impossible feat, but after once getting there, a good big drink of milk amply repays one for the trouble. I have more or less 'cutting up' on board, but hardly any bullying. Most of the boys are well-read and well-to-do, healthy if not wealthy, and feel now they have their sea legs on, quite wise. We are all embryo Selsbye and Deweys and long for promotion."
