

NATHAN S. McLEAN KILLED

Struck by Motor Car on Council Bluffs Line While Walking on Track.

HEAD CRUSHED BY IMPACT WITH CAR

Deceased Lived in Council Bluffs and Was Interested in Lumber Firm Doing Business in Omaha.

Nathan S. McLean, president of the Johnson-McLean company, a planing mill and wood working concern at Sixth and Jones streets, was struck and instantly killed by a westbound car on the line of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge company in Council Bluffs yesterday morning.

Mr. McLean was walking toward Omaha between the rails of the right-hand track. The car was running at high speed and the fender caught the man from behind about the height of the knees. He was thrown backward against the front of the car, his head striking the top of the fender and bending the iron plate back out of place. This blow killed him and the body was then thrown up into the air and to one side. As the car whirred by passengers on the rear platform saw the body in the light from the car windows. It fell in the ditch fifteen feet from the track, where it was found.

MOTORMAN'S STORY

Motorman Poncelew stopped the car within 125 feet of where the body fell. Most of the passengers thought the car had run over a piece of wood or a stone, till Poncelew came back and said he had struck a man. The body was lying face downward and blood was flowing profusely. It was thought on a hasty examination that some bones in the body had been broken.

"He was walking slow along the tracks, close to the outside rail," said Motorman Poncelew. "I saw him first of stagger just as the car came on him. He paid no attention to it and we hit him with the outer edge of the fender. The body came back and struck the corner of the car, which threw him frontward and to one side."

RAMSHACKLES DOOMED TO GO

Advisory Board Orders Number of Old Buildings Torn Down at Once.

At the meeting of the advisory board Wednesday afternoon William R. Lightson's article about Omaha's ramshackles. Monthly receives considerable attention, especially such portions of it as pertained to the ramshackle buildings of the "Prairie City." Mayor Moore seemed to think that the criticism was not altogether unjust.

The following inspector reported that a large number of structures which had been condemned during the last month had been torn down by their owners or agents, but that some of them were still standing. He was directed to rigidly enforce the rule to tear them down at the city's expense if the owners did not remove them within the thirty-day limit.

City Engineer Rosewater called the board's attention to the fact that all of the carcasses of dead animals that had been dumped in East Omaha were located on Iowa soil. "There seems to be a question," said he, "whether the dumping of them there can be reached by our ordinances."
