Supreme Court Decisions.

The supreme court in an important and interesting decision today passed on the question of negligence of a railway company in the rights of trespassing children. It was a case against the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Railroad company, tried in Muscatine. Children playing around a turntable unfurnished it and one was injured. Suit was brought against the company for damages and a judgment issued. The company claimed that the children were trespassing and therefore the company was not liable. The court holds that the law as to trespass does not apply in the case of children in the same way as to adults and that the natural instincts of children to play and to seek to play with any movable object cannot be restrained. The judgment of the lower court is therefore affirmed.

Clara Blaydes of Muscatine left in her will a bequest for an orphan's home to be located in Muscatine within five years from her death, but if not so located the money was to go to a home for old women. The Lutherans organized and located an orphan's home, but placed it just outside of the city limits. The trustees of the Old Ladies' home claimed the money because the orphan's asylum was not located actually within the city limits. The court holds that the conditions of the will had been substantially complied with by placing the asylum on ground adjoining the city.

The following are the decisions placed on file today, after which the members of the court went to their respective homes: Old Ladies' Home of Muscatine, appellant, against W. Hoffman and the German Evangelical Lutheran society for Christian Charities, Muscatine county, Judge Wolfe, affirmed.

Edgington against Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern railway, appellant; Muscatine county, Judge Wolfe, affirmed; E. L. Spinyer, appellant, against I. G. Holiday; Lee county, Judge Bank, affirmed.

Starr against William Schardier, appellant; Johnson county, Judge Wade, conviction for adultery, affirmed; P. J. Halman, appellant; Woodbury county, Judge Gaynor, affirmed; J. W. Starr, appellant, against E. P. John and Ann Melhober, appellants, against E. P. John; Johnson county, Judge Wade, reversed.

Bank of Ackley, appellant, against John Peter, appellant; Johnson county, Judge Wade, affirmed; Peter Meyer against Judge Hobson, certificate; Winnebago county, dismissed; J. W. McDowell against B. C. Caldwell, appellant; Jackson county, Judge Querton, reversed.

Oskaloosa Cigar company, appellant, against Iowa Central Railway company, appellee; Muscatine county, Judge Smith, dismissed; Mobaaka county, Judge Scott, dismissed; E. J. Reininghams against Merchants' Union, appellant; Van Buren county, Judge Fee, reversed.

Anchor Mutual Insurance company, appellee, against William Stewart, appellant; Johnson county, Judge Wade, reversed; Johnson county, Judge Wade, reversed; Plymouth county, Judge Winkfield, reversed; Randolph county, Judge Schewe, Lee county, Judge Bank, reversed.
