On the crown of the head here were four or five indentations, each of which would have proven serious if not fatal. Not a brick or instrument can be occurred. MENACE TO TREATY RIGHTS

Chinese Exclusion Bill Denounced in Senate as to International Obligations.

BAD ON THE COVETED OPEN DOOR POLICY

Foraker and McLaurin Lead in Attack on the Bill, the Latter in Interest of Southern Cutton Trade.

WASHINGTON, April 14 .- The Chinese exclusion bill occupied the attention of the enate throughout today, Senators Foraker and McLaurin of South Carolina making extended speeches in opposition. Mr. For-aker contended that the pending measure was violative of our treaty with China and was calculated to restrict our commercial expansion in the east. While strongly supporting the policy of the government to exclude Chinese laborers, the Ohio senator maintained that this could be best accomplished by an extension of the present law holding that the drastic provisions of the pending bill would cut off our cotton trade with China and thus wreck the cotton inlustry of the south.

Mr. Teller briefly responded to Mr. Foraker urging that the right to abrogate treaties was fully recognized

Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts gave notice of an amendment striking out the much discussed clause prohibiting the employment of Chinese sailors on American ships Would Ruin Cotton Export.

Mr. McLaurin said it was inconceivable that any honorable nation, least of all the United States, should surrender its integrity by deliberately adopting policies and enacting laws in violation of its own sworn should enjoin a combination of the two and that, too, during a period of profound roads in a third corporation, under the peace, without any provoking cause from this would not be permitted. He closed he declared, was calculated by its restric with the charge that the combination is tive action and mimicable spirit, to kill our a violation of the contract obligation of trade with China. This was a consideration the railroads implied in their acceptance of vital importance to South Carolina, with its vast cotton productions and the growing shipments of cotton goods to China.

Mr. McLaurin said the effect of a shutdown in the China trade and the consequent collapse of southern cotton manufacturing would be most severe on the south. It would glut the home market and close the mills. The mill owners and the operatives would suffer. In South Carolina some 60,000 operatives would be injured, while has been begun on the Shoshone canal, the same result would occur in North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and all the states where cotton is grown or cotton goods manufactured.

Effect on Treaties

Mr. Foraker took up the various treaties, showing the development of that exclusion policy and the various rights given and restrictions imposed. Replying to a ques tion from Mr. Platt of Connecticut, Mr. Foraker said that Li Hung Chang would have been excluded from this country under in the House of Commons this afternoon the provisions of the pending bill, and made the budget statement. He declared China could exclude our missionaries, engineers and students.

Mr. Foraker contended that the treaty of 1894 was the culmination of the statutory provisions on exclusion, and the only proalbition under that trenty was against la borers, all other classes being permitted to come to reside here. No one had pointed the educated Chinaman. He therefore opposed the pending treaty as violating the constitution:

Mr. Quarles, asked if the new Chinese policy of sending youths to America schools would not make each one of these youths switch was invented by a Rawline man. It an advance agent of American civilization. Blow at a Good Cause.

Mr. Foraker responded by reading recent edicts directing that young men from every province be sent abroad to study. And yet, declared Mr. Foraker, at this moment senators were asked to vote to exclude Chinese students from our shores. In his judgment a more unwise provision and one ful. It brought in £6,500,000, against his more violative of our treaty obligations had estimate of £5,100,000. The export duty or not been proposed since he entered the

Mr. Foraker denied that the proposed evil were so far from being justified that measure was in the interest of the wage the exports were higher than in the case earners of the United States.

Mr. Lodge opposed amendments to is known as the seaman's clause. One of the amendments struck out the entire clause prohibiting Chinese sailors on American ships, and the other increased to $10,000, the bond to be given by foreign ships not to permit the landing of Chinese sailors. The amendments went over.

DRAG DEBATE ON RECIPROCITY Enemies of Cuban Bill Seek to Prolong Its Stay in the House.

WASHINGTON, April 14.-Interest in the Cuban reciprocity debate in the house seems to be waning, judging by the attend ance on the floor today, but the earnestness of the speeches on both sides of the question increase rather than decrease in in

That the opponents of the bill are determined to prolong the struggle as much as possible was made manifest in the record. Mr. Robinson of Indiana, opposed Cuban annexation, on the ground that it would threaten the American wage earner. The conference on the postoffice appropriation bill was adopted early in the day, after some criticism of the pneumatic tube propo-

The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed the debate upon the Cuban reciprocity bill. The first speaker, Mr. McCall of Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee, made an earnest speech in favor of the reciprocity bill. Kleffner, ex-chief of fire department, who died nine years ago, gets five hundred dollars that she did not know was due her. On January 8, 1874, Mr. Frank Kleffner took a policy with the Germania Life Insurance Company of New York. He made only a few payments and let the policy lapse. After his death Mrs. Kleffner, being under the impression that the policy was void, destroyed same together with all the ster's unabridged dictionary and spent receipts. Last February the company opened an office here and forwarded the list of Omaha policyholders to their manager, Jos. B. Clarke. Mr. Clarke set about to locate the ones who had allowed their policies to lapse and upon lavestigation found that Mr. Kleffner had been dead for several years. He at once notified the widow that under the conditions of the policy she could furnish proof of her husband's death and get $500. Mrs. Kleffner had no trouble in producing the proofs. therefore she got a check for the amount within a very few days. She necessarily teels very grateful to Manager Clarke and the company as neither she or Mr. Kleffner had regarded the policy as being worth anytion of Champagnes.
