

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Resolution Demanding Reopening of Union Pacific Foundry Adopted.

LAWYER BALDWIN SPEAKS AGAINST IT

Plends that Company Should Have Had Written Notice of Hearing of Moulders' Complaint by Council Committee.

Omaha, through the action of the city council, has gone on record as demanding that the Union Pacific Railroad company retain its foundry at its present site, and that the same be reopened and that the eighty iron moulders formerly engaged there be re-employed as soon as possible.

The question was introduced by the reading of a letter from the railroad company, signed by W. R. Kelly and John N. Baldwin, its attorneys, in which the point was made that the company had not been officially notified of the hearing before the general committee of the council Monday afternoon.

Plan of the Company.

The letter from the railroad company follows: To the Honorable Mayor and City Council of Omaha, Neb.: The general committee of the city of Omaha on April 21, 1902, adopted a certain preamble and resolution relating to the contract which was made between the Union Pacific Railroad company and the city of Omaha, which provided for the construction of certain streets and alleys, and the conveyance of certain property to the railroad company.

The said railroad company, under the circumstances, did not deem it proper or necessary that it should call a meeting without official notice or request, and especially not to a committee of the city council and from certain officers of the city of Omaha. The said railroad company, under the circumstances, did not deem it proper or necessary that it should call a meeting without official notice or request, and especially not to a committee of the city council and from certain officers of the city of Omaha.

Denies Violation of Contract.

This company has received a copy of said preamble and resolutions, and for its answer thereto: Denies that it has in any manner, or to any extent, or in violation of any of the terms, covenants, conditions, obligations or agreements on its part, in said contract, either in letter or in spirit, it avers that it is now fully and completely complying with and performing each and every one of the terms, conditions, covenants, obligations and agreements in said contract, and in its letter and in its spirit, and alleges that it will continue to do so.

Immediately upon the execution of said agreement with the city of Omaha this company let many contracts for the furnishing of material, tools and machinery for the construction and equipment of permanent machine shops, and that it thereby incurred large obligations and has expended large sums of money, and that the work upon several of the said new and permanent buildings is being diligently prosecuted.

Wherefore, the Union Pacific Railroad company respectfully submits that your honorable body should proceed no farther in this matter, and should take no further action with reference to matters embodied in said resolutions. Respectfully submitted, UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

By W. R. Kelly and John N. Baldwin, its attorneys.

At the conclusion of the reading Chairman Whitehorn of the railroads and telegraphs committee, reported the resolutions drawn up by City Attorney Connell, a full text of which appeared in The Bee of Tuesday. They protested against the removal of the Union Pacific foundry, and insisted upon the company's conforming to its part of its contract with the city under which valuable lands were deeded to it. Mr. Whitehorn's report was favorable to the adoption of the resolutions.

Baldwin Makes Speech.

President Carr directed the clerk to call the roll of the house on their adoption, but at this juncture Attorney Baldwin arose and said: "Now you are about to take action by the adoption of this resolution, which would amount to corporate action. Any action of this kind will be of serious import, not only to the moulders, but to all of the city. There is a distinct issue raised by our communication, without reference to the understanding regarding notice of the meeting. We supposed that in a matter of such grave importance, involving hundreds of thousands of dollars, a written notice would be given.

"We do not now ask you to modify your actions, but simply ask for a short time—two or three days—in order that the company may be heard and make a statement and explanation of its understanding of the contract before any corporate action is taken.

Attorney Ransom, representing the iron moulders, about thirty of whom were present, said that the contention of the company that it had not received official notice was but a splitting of hairs, and smacked of bad faith. He said his clients wanted no law suits, but a friendly compliance with the contract.

The roll call resulted in a unanimous vote in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

Capitol Avenue Market.

The resolution adopted at the preceding council meeting, directing the chairman of the Board of Public Works to set aside such parts of Capitol Avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets as may be necessary for the extension of the market house site, was returned by the mayor with his veto. The veto said in substance that the mayor objected to the resolution for the same reason that he objected to the original market house proposition. "I consider the entire project ill-advised and impracticable," it continued, "and I think the council should not persist in the plan over the protests of so many interests of the city which have petitioned your honorable body to abandon it."

The resolution was adopted over the veto of the mayor by a vote of 7 to 1. The next document from the mayor was a veto. It pertained to a plan showing the opening and extension of Webster street through block 3 of Park place, and the mayor based his objection on the fact that the same had been paid for by the city.

TRIGGER TOURNAMENT OPENS

Unfavorable Weather mars Sport at Gun Club Grounds.

GOOD WORK DESPITE WIND AND DUST

Many Crack Shots of the Country Tea-Timer and Shoot Through Ten Target Events of the First Day.

With a high wind hurling blinding sheets of sand from the Missouri river flats in their faces, three score sportsmen from all portions of the United States toed the timber at the Omaha-Dupont club grounds yesterday afternoon and shot through ten target events in the face of the worst exhibition of weather with which Omaha has ever confronted a shooting tournament.

The occasion was the twenty-sixth annual tournament of the Nebraska State Sportsmen's association and so notable a crowd of trigger artists never before assembled for a Nebraska event. The entry list was also the largest that has been known at the state shoot in years, and everything save the weather seemed bent on furthering the successful conduct of an affair that had such auspicious getaway chances.

The man of all the shooters who least minded the choking swirls of sand and dust, the bitter cold blasts of wind and the blinding storms of intermittent gusts of rain was the one least prepared for it. This was Captain A. W. Money of New York City, the famous old trap shot who has followed the game in all parts of the world for decades back. "Cap" was there with his green goggles and was in a suit of light hannels, with low patent leather shoes and no underclothes. But he was the most philosophical of all. Said he: "Omaha always treats me this way. This day is just a duplicate of the one the weather man served out the last time I came to Omaha to shoot. That was five years ago, when Elliott and Parmelee met the last time. I don't mind this, however." And the way the captain shot into several of the moulders seemed to bear out his words.

William Crosby First.

Shooting was continued persistently all day long, and when the last man had received his full share of the deposit of dirt from the murky atmosphere it was found that William Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., was first and that Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., was second for the day's total. The former broke 154 of 170 targets thrown, and the latter made 152 kills. Burnside and White tied for third with 145.

These scores are not good for top ones, but they are great considering the terrible state of the weather. The wind was really appalling, blowing close to forty miles an hour without a recess anywhere. Steady did crack like the Grand American handicap and the misadventure of the day was more targets in a row, just because their eyes were blinded the minute they dared open them to have a look at the clay.

Everyone was hopeful last night for something better today, when ten more target kills were to occur. J. A. B. Elliott is here ready for his match with Crosby on Friday afternoon for the iron medal. Other famous ones are Charlie Budd of Des Moines, B. F. Cunningham of St. Joseph, J. M. Hughes of Palmyra, Wis., J. S. Fanning of New York City, J. W. Garrett and W. W. Shamwell of Colorado Springs, the Grand American hand-cap, Trip Irwin of St. Louis, Guy Burdette, but all the women are invited to go to depot on that afternoon to assist in taking care of the visitors. Some will go to Council Bluffs and cross the river with the special. If the weather is inclement no athletic or social entertainment will be held at the depot.

As at present calculated, the New England special will make a stop of about two hours here. If the weather permits the visitors will be taken for a trolley ride about the city. Summer cars will be provided and a pleasant break in the long railway ride will be made on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Tilden, president of the Omaha Woman's club, is actively at work among the members to the end that the reception will be commensurate with the dignity of the city and the importance of the club. The ladies which carry the New England women will arrive first. There are three in number and will have on board 100 women each. The first station is expected to reach Omaha about 2 o'clock, and the others will follow at fifteen-minute intervals. The Michigan train will reach Omaha about 4 o'clock.

"BRICK" MURDOCK NO MORE

Well Known Character of the Gambling Fraternity Dies of Paralysis.

The body of John W. Murdock, who died at the Clarkson hospital Monday night, will be taken to Davenport today for burial.

It is now at Healey & Healey's undertaking parlors in charge of the Eagles, of which order deceased was a member.

Murdock came to Omaha about twenty years ago and during the time when the "diamond" and other gambling houses were flourishing he became one of the most popular faro dealers in the western country. In 1894, when the gambling houses closed, Murdock went east with Becker, the Illinois bookmaker, and was gone several years, but did not leave the important cities. Later he returned to Omaha and made this his headquarters until his death, making frequent trips to California and the east.

He was a king among the gamblers, handsome and generous to a fault. His friends say that no man ever asked him for money and was refused. He continued his generosity until his death, and of the thousands of dollars that had come into his possession all was given away and spent for no one ever lived in more regal style. He wore nothing but the finest clothes, made in the latest style, and his linen was always spotless.

Attending his generosity one of his friends said: "Murdock was the most generous man I ever saw. After gambling had been practically stopped and money was scarce with him, he would come into my place of business and borrow money and give it away before leaving the place. He was as honest as he was generous, and he never borrowed a cent that he didn't repay, and his honesty was so well known that no one ever hesitated to lend him money. He has owned hundreds of dollars at different times, but it was all paid back. 'Brick' Murdock left a clean slate when he died."

Murdock came to Omaha from Davenport, Ia., with his brother Zeke, now in Chicago, and both soon became favorites. He was immediately dubbed "Brick" because of his austere hair, and very few of his friends of twenty years ever knew his first name. He was stricken with paralysis about two months ago, and on March 17 he was taken to the Clarkson hospital where he died. He leaves a wife and one son about 20 years of age.

HAS VISION OF THE FUTURE

Rev. J. Stitt Wilson Asserts that Co-operative Commonweath is at Hand.

Many banners suspended from the balcony upon which were such inscriptions as "You may be a socialist and not a Christian, but you cannot be a Christian and not a socialist." "There can be no social peace as long as some people own that upon which all people depend," etc., and a crowded house greeted Rev. J. Stitt Wilson at Washington last night, when he delivered his lecture on the movement with the frequent applause accorded him by the audience attested that he spoke the sentiment of the crowd. Mr. Wilson told of the growth of the socialistic movement throughout the western country and said that the reason the eastern workmen had not availed themselves of the movement with their western brethren was because they did not know what it meant to be free, but the time was coming when socialism would dominate the earth and make a decent civilization from the material which had been collected during the nineteenth century.

"Socialism has passed through the stages of ridicule and misrepresentation," he said, "and is in the period of discussion, which means that all classes of men will soon be under its banner. I believe that the competitive world is doomed, and that a co-operative commonweath is at hand, in which the name of the public will be on everything."

Tonight Mr. Wilson delivers another address at the same place in which he will more fully discuss the question.

CANADA PRAISES THE BOERS

Dominion House of Commons Adopts Resolution Favoring Universal Amnesty in South Africa.

OTTAWA, April 23.—In the House of Commons tonight a resolution was adopted stating that while British supremacy had been maintained in South Africa (to which end Canada cheerfully contributed men and money) a policy of magnanimity and mercy may properly be extended to the brave few now opposing British arms, and that in the interest of peace and future tranquility and homogeneity, it is expedient to offer universal amnesty as a condition of peace and submission to British control to all persons in arms against Great Britain in South Africa.

GABRIN'S BODY IS EXHUMED

Colorado Legislator's Remains Will Be Subjected to Inquest and Case Reopened.

DENVER, April 23.—The body of Albert Gabrin, member of the Colorado legislature, whose death in January last was declared by a prominent physician who analyzed the contents of his stomach, to have been from arsenic poisoning, was exhumed today by coroner Horan, who will hold an inquest tomorrow.

Chief of Police Armstrong said today that he has evidence upon which arrests will be made as soon as the coroner's report is made. Sensational developments are expected within the next day or two.

Why take sickening salts or repulsive castor oil? "Goes through you like a dose of salts" means violence, grips, gripes, gases, soreness, irritation, and leaves your stomach and bowels weak and burnt out. Might just as well take concentrated lye. Then there's castor oil, disgusting, nauseating truck that your stomach refuses unless you disguise the taste. Fool your own stomach, eh? Don't ever believe that anything offensive to your taste or smell is going to do you real good. Nature makes certain things repulsive, so you will not take them. Force yourself to nauseous doses, and you ruin your digestion, weaken your bowels, destroy your health.
