HISTORICAL ROMANCE BY WILL CRAWFORD

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" is Another Sherlock Holmes Adventure—A Game of Love, Scribner's Latest Publication.

The Century company has published a new book by Will Crawford entitled "Hobenzollern." It is a historical romance of the time of Frederick Barbarossa, emperor of Germany in the middle of the twelfth century.

"Many Waters," by Robert Shackleton, is a story of New York and is the author's first novel. He writes of the New York of today, and glimpses of the trailing life of gorgeous caravansaries, of Wall street intrigue, of the ceaseless activity of the press, of a street railway strike and other widely divergent phases of metropolitan life.

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" is another adventure of Sherlock Holmes by A. Conan Doyle. Dr. Watson, who chronicles the adventures of his friend, the famous Sherlock Holmes, tells us in the course of "Holmes himself said that no more complex case had come to him in all the years of his sensational investigations."

"The Honor of the Braxtons" is a story of student life in Normandy and the Latin quarter, by J. William Felsick. Two American students of art, Felix Braxton and Benjamin Cushing, go abroad to continue and perfect their studies.

The Scribners have published a new novel by Benjamin Swift entitled "A Game of Love." It is a story of ingeniously constructed plot and remarkable range of dramatic personae.

Touches on Mormonism. The report from Utah, prepared by Mrs. M. M. T. Allen and read by Mrs. R. S. McNeice, was interesting, as it touched rather frankly upon Mormonism.

hunger to be used more in God's service and the prayer for a woman's hospital to be built in Feroyepore. The prayer was heard and for six or seven years now the hospital, well equipped, has been in operation.

Secretary of Literature. Miss Mary L. Clark of Michigan read a paper on "What a Secretary of Literature Can Do." Here are a few of the paragraphs:

When about five years ago, the office of literary secretary was new, there was a very meagre idea of its duties. Since that time the work has broadened and its opportunities have increased marvellously.

Letting Light into Corea. Rev. Lee spoke first and said in part: "I have come to bring you a message from the land that was once called the hermit nation. It is no longer so. When I went there in 1892, I found a land where the people were in a state of ignorance and superstition."

Other Faculties Than Eloquence. Let me say to those who contemplate entering the mission field that all your powers should be put to use, not only more than your eloquence. We built a house for the poor and we shall be glad if an orator will be when I had to do with the construction and was wholly unacquainted with such work.

Names Registered Yesterday. Below appear the names that were registered yesterday. Those before which the asterisk appears are of visitors who attend the sessions, but not in the capacity of delegates.

Experience in India. Rev. J. N. Hyde, who has had experience as a missionary in India, delivered an address in part as follows:

When Jesus stood that morning in Nazareth and spoke that very human message from Isaiah, he touched a cord that has never been touched since. He found an Indian village in the Punjab, the name of the village, a high caste Hindoo, joined me and told me his sorrow over the loss of his wife. I told him of the comfort Jesus gives and he said this comfort was what drew him to Christ's teachings.

JENNINGS ON BOOK CONCERN

Senior Manager Tells Methodist Conference of Its Work. SUCCESS FROM A STRUGGLING START Ministers and Laymen at Omaha District Meeting Participate in Laying Cornerstone of New Church.

The Omaha district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church came to an end last night, the concluding service being an address by Dr. H. C. Jennings of Chicago, who spoke of the work of the Methodist Book Concern, of which he is senior manager.

Previous to the address by Dr. Jennings, Rev. Gross, field agent of the Book Concern, said that during the last year the people of the Omaha district had stood nobly by the concern, the sales having grown considerably in the last year.

At the conclusion of the address Rev. C. C. Cissell, from the committee on resolutions, reported expressing thanks to the pastor and members of the Seward Street church, for their generous work for the Christian Advocate and the Book Concern.
