BROWN DOES HIS WORK WELL

Fitches Milwaukee to a Standstill After Starting Wrong.

OMAHA'S RECORD STILL UNBROKEN

Third Consecutive Victory Perches on Banners of the Rourke Team Through Some Splendid Ball Playing.

With its percentage still unassailed Omaha remains at the top of the Western league column, but its third victory over Milwaukee yesterday was due solely to the inability of two Angels to control their whips at critical moments, and the laurel finally came to the Rourke Rangers only after the keenest work and by the close margin of 2 to 1.

As it turned out, friendly errors by Lucia and O'Neill helped the locals to win, and with that fact registered the game developed chiefly into another display of the remarkable pitching resources of Mr. Mordecai Brown. This twirler did a fiery stunt yesterday. In the very first inning the Angels landed on him fiercely for three hits and two runs, the first two men up going out singles, and an error by Hickey, another hit by Thornton and a base on balls for Gattins helping things along.

In the sixth inning, however, only twenty-three Angels came to bat, and the three that did see first base got there on gifts from Brown himself. In the third, the fifth and the seventh the first three men went out in order, while the other innings showed only four up. And Brown was most of these a no-go-er, striking at the ball, too, striking out only three of them.

Meanwhile the Rangers were going through all colors of callisthenics in an endeavor to mend the score. They took one tally in the first on O'Neill's wild throw to first base, and tied the game with another in the third on a base on balls aided by Genins' double. But O'Neill was also throwing a great game, and from then till the seventh Omaha scratched in vain for that remaining run necessary. Then it came, but only because Pitcher O'Neill hit Hickey with the ball and Catcher Lucia made an error that let him home.

The Angels strated mightily in the eighth to tie the heat it, and they did contrive to break Brown's hitless record with another safe one by Thornton, but no runs resulted. Genins made another hit for Omaha in the eighth, but that was also unproductive. So the Angels came to bat in the ninth with that one tantalizing tally to terrify them. The way things started it looked as if they would soon annihilate it. Cockman was first, and he singled. Then Brown gave Hanford his base on balls. Lucia batted the ball to Brown, who batted it to Hickey, who singled. Cockman at third. Then O'Neill struck out and Lucia started around, sending Hanford on towards home. It was a slow play, and Hanford got half way between third and the goal when Dolan started the ball back to Genins. The new law of coming and hesitating, stopping in his path. Genins dropped the ball and it rolled to one side. Hanford pitched forward again, but Johnny picked up the leather in time. Had the fielder kept on running at first he would have tied the score.

Genins made three hits for Omaha, one a double. Brown took two of the other three, thus adding to his pitching feat by leading seven men of his team in batting. Carter's catch of a foul and McVicker's and Duffy's of long running flies were the fielding features. Gattins, by making a good catch of a grand ball, A good cold day crowd was out, about 1,200 strong. Today comes Peoria. Score:

LESS CANDY.

Better Give Children Delicious Food Than Candy.

Some foods will cure dyspepsia and other foods will cause it. The safest way to get well is to use the food that agrees with the stomach and permits nature to go along in a thoroughly natural way. A lady who has had at last found a true way to get well and keep well and that is by the use of Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food. For six years I suffered with indigestion and palpitation of the heart so that I could not sleep nights. I tried a great many different kinds of medicines and a lot of different kinds of cereals, but none of them helped me, my stomach seemed to get worse and worse.

I became very despondent and was at a loss to know what to do. One day I read in the paper that Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food would relieve indigestion and build up the body. I wondered if it contained any medicine, but learned that it did not, but that it was only food prepared so that the stomach could easily digest it. The next time I went down town I bought two packages. This was on Tuesday and it was all gone on Saturday, for we all liked it so much, so I sent down and bought three more packages and from that time I have been using Grape-Nuts steadily and my indigestion has entirely disappeared.

The Biggest Cut in Price Ever Offered, Starting May 1.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.—(Special Telegram)—Bartlett Richards and the delegation of stockmen from Nebraska had a hearing before the public lands committee of the house this morning. Representative Mondell, in the absence of Major Lacey, presided over the deliberations of the committee. Mr. Richards, as in the case before the sub-committee of the senate committee on public lands, was the principal speaker, and for upwards of an hour occupied the floor, Colonel John P. Irish, who is the representative of the Cattle Growers' association occasionally interrupting in order to make more clear Mr. Richards' argument. The members of the committee asked a great many questions during the progress of Mr. Richards' presentation of the case. Acting Chairman Mondell calling attention to the fact that there were no mountainous regions in Nebraska and that in view of the fact that there was a very large irrigation project pending before congress, asked Mr. Richards whether it would not be better to pass a specific act relative to Nebraska and the lease of the public domain in that state than to depend upon congress to pass a general leasing measure. To this Mr. Richards replied that since he came to Washington the question of specific legislation for Nebraska had been again presented to him by the Nebraska delegation and that he looked with favor upon the measure if no general land leasing law be enacted. In view of the vast interests which were represented by himself and his associates of the delegation he felt that some general measure ought to be passed, but he would be content at this time if some special act could be passed which might be an entering wedge for future legislation of a wider scope.
