Objects to Digging Dandelions on the State Capitol Grounds.

MORE TROUBLE AT THE MILFORD HOME

Several Employes Resign on Account of the Removal of the Former Superintendent, but Places Are Filled.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, May 3 .- (Special.) -- The state officials are having their share of labor troubles, the threatened war of the janitors having broken out this morning. The net result is the resignation of F. McEfliott and rumors of other vacancies.

The trouble commenced several days ago when the fanitors were ordered to dig up the dandellons in the capitol grounds. They thought this was adding too much to their work and there was much talk of resignations, but they compromised by going after the dandellons. This morning Janitor Mc-Elliott, a Boone county man, learned that while he was out gouging up the pests in the lawn a new man had been put at work inside the building. He thought the new hand should have been started on the outside work, so he handed in his resignation. Being questioned as to the trouble one of the other janitors complained that the commissioner had given them a certain number of days to get the dandelions cleaned out and had told them that if they failed to have them out in time others would be hired and the extra pay should janitors. The men get $50 per month, and conscious. The animal had been in the of the distante for outdoor manual labor. Strike, at Milford Home.

In the meantime it is said that the governor has a strike on his hands at the Milford home. Some days ago he displaced Mrs. Edwards, the head of the institution, to make room for a woman from Hastings. Mrs. Edwards had held over from the fusion administration. The report is that when she went out the others all resigned. Secretary Clancy went to Milford last night to look into the situation and took with him a young woman who will assist the new superintendent until a regular corps of employes can be secured.

Draughtsman Schleagel is engaged in copying the field notes of the original surveys of Antelope county, and today he found in the work a report made by the surveyor in September, 1865, where Wil-liam Stuefer, William Malchow, Frank Wortman and D. E. Bagger were the chainman and assistants. The signature of Stuefer is exactly like the one now used by Mr. Stuefer. Deputy Euton of the land commissioner's office has returned from his trip to Dixon and Dakota countles, after having made leases of the several fractional tracts of school land in that locality. The total amount of vacant land was about 600 acres, being mostly accretions from the river. The average appraisement of this land was $7 per acre, and for the most part was taken by adjoining land owners gram.)-The Adams county republican to prevent it being settled on by squat-

The Nebraska-Iowa Grain company of Omaha has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state, showing a capital stock of $50,000. The incorporators are: K. C. Morehouse, F. J. Campbell, Euclid Martin, E. M. Andreesen and Charles H. Pickens. One of the rules of the new company is that it will never deal in options or sell for future delivery.

A new high temperature record for the first half of May was established in Lincoln this afternoon, when street thermometers marked 92 degrees. At the government station it lacked a fraction of 90. A high wind, carrying clouds of dust, prevailed throughout the day. The deficiency in reinfall is unusual. Eastern Nebraska has not had a drenching shower the present spring, and while winter wheat and rye are standing the drouth well no one denies but that they are deteriorating.
