Nebraska Women Enjoy Their Long Ride to Los Angeles.

NCIDENTS OF THE TRIP OF MERRY SORT

Visit to Santa Fe Cut Out by Railread Company, but Disappointment is Lost in Other Pleasures.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aprl. 29 .- (Special Correspondence.)-Few of the representatives of the Woman's clubs of Nebraska who made up the delegation that left Omaha Thursday evening, April 24, will forget their five days' journey to Los Angeles to the sixth biennial convention of the General Federation of Woman's clubs. Started off with the cordial enthusiasm of the less fortunate ones who were to remain at home, for illegal shooting. The parties taken the spirits of the women were high and in in charge on this occasion were Joseph spite of the fatigue and discomforts in- Snyder and T. C. Coots. They had been cident to a long journey the party reached Its destination but little the worse for wear and still anxious to remain together in the convention city. Reaching Kansas City Friday morning. paid. the delegation scattered in parties of two and three to spend the morning sightseeing, returning at noon to make the acquaintance of the delegations from Minunited there to make up the train. The club husbands or sons, and before evening the train had been thoroughly canvassed, old acquaintances renewed, new ones his term of service ended last night. dropped entirely, only as used to designate the various care.

The announcement on Friday afternoon that the side trip to the old town of Santa Fe had been cut out occasioned genuine disappointment to all and not a little indignation among many who had been influenced to take the Santa Fa route for through rate included. The elimination was explained by an official as necessary owing to the many sections in which the trains were being run, but upon protest of the party which had bought tickets with the understanding that the Santa Fe trip was included the company offered to take them there if they would bear the expense of the Pullman cars. The women felt unable to meet this, however, and were obliged to forget their disappointment in the pleasure of their own company. This they readily did and being a rescourceful lot sufficient entertainment was provided to make up for the lack of interesting sights enroute, upon which the ordinary traveler is dependent.

The wedding anniversary of one of the women furnished occasion for a celebration that displayed vaudeville talent wholly unsuspected in the ordinarly dignified club nen, the program concluding with a speech by Mr. Nathan Wilson of Strombsburg. Neb., who spoke in behalf of the 'Auxiliary" in which the men on the train had organized themselves. Reaching Las Vegas, N. M., at 8 p. m. Saturday, the entire party visited the Hot Springs and baths, devoting an hour to sight-seeing by electric light, which, if not as profitable as a daylight visit, was almost as enjoyable and resulted in but one member of the party being left behind.

Sunday was a quiet day, song or gospe services being conducted in each car, and as the evening was spent at Williams, Arin, the majority of the delegation attended church.

Monday was the red letter day of the entire trip and compensated for all other Reaching the Grand devoted to visiting the many points of interest. Some joined the pony train at 9 a. m., going down the river seven miles below, and returning at sundown, while others made the various drives or ventured down the trail on foot. Here were met the Colorado and Pennsylvania delegations and many of the most prominent members of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, the day affording opportunity for a general exchange of general federation

The hospitality of the California women became manifest soon after the party entered the state, and at every station the train was met by women with baskets and bunches of flowers. At San Bernardino the party was met by members of the Hostess club, one of which was Mrs George W. Purcell, also of the Omaha Woman's club, who extended the club welcome and gave instruction.

Reaching Los Angeles late in the evening, the delegation was met by a local committee, who escorted them to Nebrasks headquarters at Abbotsford Inn, located half a block from the convention audi-

The journey was especially free from caucusing, but the arrival of the delegation was welcomed by representatives from the middle west, who value their judgment in the formulation of some plan that may harmonize the Massachusetts and Georgia F. E. S.

NEBRASKA AND MOUNT VERNON Report of Mrs. Manderson to the Regents of the Association, Soon to Meet.

On Thursday the Board of Regents of the Mount Vernon Association of the Union will meet at Mount Vernon in annual session and will spend about ten days in transacting its business. This is an association of women which has taken charge of the house and tomb of George Washington, after having acquired title to it some years ago by paying $200,000 for the grounds and buildings. The object of the the historic spot. Mrs. Charles F. Manderson is vice regent for Nebraska, and will make the following report:

Will make the following report:

OMAHA, May 1, 1902.—To Mrs. Justine V.
R. Townsend, Regent of the Mount Vernon Association of the Union: Madam—As vice regent for the state of Nebraska I make the following report:

I received and distributed the annual report of the association for the year 1901 and corresponded with a few of my acquaintances in regard to the objects of the association. The following contributions were made and I ask that the secretary make suitable acknowledgment: Mrs. were made and I ask that the secretary make suitable acknowledgment: Mrs. George A. Josslyn, $25; Mrs. Charles N. Dietz, $10; Mrs. Herman Kountze, $5; Mrs. G. W. Wattles, $6; personal, R. S. M., $5; total, $50, for which amount I inclose my check on the Omaha National bank, payable to the order of Treasurer Riggs.

The interest of our young state in the objects of the association will undoubtedly increase and I hope the societies composed of the descendants of those who served in the colonial wars and the American revolution will make proper recognition of the importance of the preservation and care of the home and tomb of Washington.

I ask the acceptance of a small plate

ask the acceptance of a small plate

the home and tomb of Washington.

I ask the acceptance of a small plate that came to me from an ancestor on the paternal side. Experts believe that it is unique and that all others like it were destroyed. It is of common blue ware known at the time of its manufacture as semichina. The face of the plate has a representation of a capitol building, very similar to the first capitol erected at Washington, which was destroyed by the British during the war of 1812. On the back of the plate is the inscription, "Mount Vernon, the seat of Government of the United States."

Mr. Gardiner G. Hubbard, deceased, whose knowledge of historical matters was profound, told me several years ago, when I showed him the plate, that he did not believe there was another like it in the world and that it bore out the truth of the statement sometimes made that the estates of George Washington at Mount Vernon were first desired for the location of the federal capitol, and it was while that was contemplated that these plates were made.

It certainly would have been most fitting that this beautiful place should have been selected, not only because of its convenience and suitable surroundings, but in recognition of the great service of the father of his country. It is not unlikely that Washington himself prevented such location because of his desire to maintain his home and perhaps the dread that he might be charged with self-interest. Respectfully submitted.

On account of this accident it is understood that the work of rebuilding the entire hog house will be commenced before very long. Some five or six months ago engineers from Chicago spent several days in South Omaha staking out the ground and making sketches of plans for a new hog and fertilizer house. These plans, it is stated, were approved by the directors of the Swift company some time ago and something like $250,000 appropriated for the rebuilding of this old portion of the plant. Mention was made in The Bee of the plans of the company at the time the engineers were here. It was stated then that rebuilding was to commence about June I. Now that a portion of the plant has been wrecked it is thought that the rebuilding of the entire old portion of the western section will commence as soon as material can be arranged for. #### JACKSONIAN CLUB MEETING Prospect of Happier Times for Local

Democracy Appear in

"Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the acts of democratic county commissioners in appointing republicans to office."

This little bombshell, launched in the midst of seventy-five members of the Jacksonian club at its regular session last night, failed to explode, though it was propelled with all good intentions by W. S. Shoemaker, and by G. F. Bergner, who seconded the motion to adopt the resolution. A sphinx-like silence on the part of the balance of the assembly, however, met the proposition. There was no discussion and the matter was quickly tabled by an overwhelming vote, the sentiment being that it was the province of the county central ommittee to conduct such probings. Upon the unanimous passing of a resolution to that effect, W. H. Herdman, I. J. Dunn and E. P. Berryman were appointed as a committee to draw up resolutions anent the death of J. Sterling Morton, to be presented at the next meeting. No comment nor opposition was aroused, despite that fact that in 1896 Mr. Morton, together with the other Cleveland democrats, was stricken from the membership list of the club as disloyal to the principles of Jackson, its inspiration. Mr. Morton's portrait was also at that time taken from the walls of the ciubrooms. The action of the club last night is regarded as significant of the actual existence of a strong sentiment looking toward the ultimate rewelding of these two party elements, which separated over the free silver question. This tendency has already been indicated by the reception recently into the fold of a few of those so summarily ejected six years ago.

Last night's discussion was on "Current Events." and J. A. Ryan was leader. The beef trust came in for an unusual amoun of attention, and most of those present joined in the chorus on this topic. The Philippine question was also touched upon. In the absence of President Cosgrove, W. H Kelliger of Auburn, Neb., presided. #### Discouraging Day to Play.

Nearly all the players of last year blosomed again for this initial day of the new season, and tingled with pleasure as they felt each stroke bringing them back nearer to old form. The relentless wind and occasional momentary dashes of rain made driving crucial, lofting aggravating and putting precarious, but they weathered it like seamen with no especially unkind remarks except when Foye's ball was blown so far into a patch of shrubbery that it cost him three strokes; when Dick Kimball stalled on the eighteenth hole and lost the grip that he had secured on the Bidwell trophy, or when some similar catastrophe blasted a particularly promising future.

With many it was pre-eminently a day for relaxation-and they relaxed. J. H. tosh forgot, for the is or ever was any such thing as a tax case, a supreme court, a mandamus or even a city councilman, and strode from hole to hole in a jaunty cap and trousers that came no lower than the ones he wore at the age of 10. A. L. Reed examined real estate for once in his life without attempting to estimate its value. Luther Drake honored but one draft (the strong one from the south) and would sign no papers but his opponent's acoring card. Dick Stewart frolicked about with none of that dignity presumed to mark the benedict, and Ed Peck took on a priming coat of tan without watching market quotations on the same. Men of large affairs and large frames appeared in small shirts and small trousers, and from 2:30 to 6:30 every soul was a stranger to his business self. Habitues of the old St. Andrew's course could have played the game with no better ambition than these.

Result of the Matches.

The result of the two matches, however, was something of an upset, as it had been anticipated by many that Dick Kimball would make his third and final winning for the Bidwell trophy for best score, which Foye annexed, and that Foye would acquire a lien on the Cartan cup for handicap, but of this he was robbed by Jack Cudahy's aggressive tactics that defled the wind gods and beat them at their own game. As promiscuously entered in the club's record the players made the following showing, the three figures after each name representing the gross, the handicap and the net: cap. Final.
