was then denounced, as I am now denounced, for attempting to Mahoneize the state.

The freedom of thought and action, however, which followed the farmers' movement opened the doors for every white man and every negro who voted for Hampton in 1876, and they could advocate whatever views they cared to express, provided only that they took an oath to support the nominees of the primary election. Men who vote the national republican ticket were allowed to vote in the primary for state and county officers, and I have heard from the same platform men claiming to be democrats advocating Cleveland and the gold standards, and others Weaver and free sliver. And since then no attempt has been made to exclude those who bolted with the independent Haskell the Bowden movement.

I was elected to congress in 1883 after a beated canvass against able opponents, and yet on every stump in the district I proclaimed my independence and announced that upon all national questions I would follow my own judgment and not be bound by the caucus of any party. Although my democracy was assailed at that time I was elected four times upon the same declaration of principles. Carrying out my pledges to the people I began a systematic study of the questions of the day, with the result that I changed my views upon many of them.

The first marked difference with my party maistants arose over the tariff question while I was in the house and a member of its ways and means committee. Again, in 1897, when I was a candidate for the senate, I was charged with being a republican, out I disregarded the characterization and resolutely contended that the policies which I advocated were for the material advancement of the people, regardless of how they were labeled.

Action of Concern to me what may be the action of the May convention as to the rules of the primary and a revision of its pledges. The suppression of free speech and independence of action in voting by such means renders it impossible for any self respecting citizen holding my views to become a candidate in the democratic primary in South Carolina.

The vital question therefore is, will the people of the state submit to this political tyranny and join in this unholy and unpatriotic work of disfranchising the intelligent people and excluding them from our elections? I resent the suggested exception of myself for of course I would not make my race for the senate or proclaim my views under conditions which were not equally applicable to those who entertain and advocate my views.

I have an abiding faith that it will yet be shown that the dictator of the machine is not the exponent of the views of the majority of our people. The primary system adopted in our state through the farmers' movement has been prostituted and perverted into a political machine for the purpose of excluding all candidates who are not in full accord with the views and wishes of the dictator.

The general situation continues satisfactory. Crop conditions were improved this week by favorable rains over a large section of the country. Wheat is not in entirely satisfactory condition, but there is plenty of time for improvement. A large promised, as a result of present high prices, and cotton planting is now progressing well, although the season is nearly two weeks behind the average. General trade continues active. Mills are producing large quantities of goods and merchants appear to have no difficulty in distribution, with a consequent diminution of profits. This is likely to prove a constantly growing feature. There is no abstement in the demand for iron and fits products, showing that the industrial activities of the nation are still unwearied. The consumption of coal, iron, copper and other raw materials continues on a phenomenal scale. Money will soon be easy again and is likely to so continue for the next three months at least—an important factor in the stock market. There is more or less expectation of gold shipments, but in apprehension need be felt on this score, as a few millions can be easily spared on this side, and the decline of the Boer war will gradually strengthen affairs on the other side of the Atlantic.

As to the future of the market there seems to be nothing to hinder a further advance, except the exceedingly plain fact that prices are high enough, and the opportunities for a buil market are much inferior to those of a year ago. Fortunately, stocks are generally in strong hands; the public has been unusually cautious in entering the market, and there is a general feeling of skepticism abroad, which is something of a safeguard and prevents any outbreak of wild speculation. There are weak spots, and possible squalls in sight, so caution is necessary in speculative operations; but thus far the present era has been singularly free from speculative excesses, considering the tremendous developments of the last five years. The sensational declines in International Power and General Carriage emphasize the warning to let the industrials severely alone. Wednesday's pinch in the money market was somewhat disturbing, while on the other hand the increases in Northern Pacific and Pennsylvania dividends were very emphatic reminders of railroad prosperity.
