Fremont Tribune: Governor Savage has a row that might be disastrous. The govappounced his withdrawal from the field as ernor will retire from the office with the consciousness that his administration has been wise and economical and strong, and his excellent services will be better appreclated a few years hence than they are at this time, when so many people are so incensed over his alleged blunder in the Bartley matter that they forget or overlook the splendid work he has done in other directions.

> St. Paul Republican: While the withdrawal of Governor Savage from the field as a candidate for renomination is a most timely and sensible act, so far as that gentleman is personally concerned, there are certain reasons why it is to be regretted. The announcement of his candidacy, shortly after the Bartley pardon was granted, was accepted as a square joining of the issues between the treasury looters and the reputable element of the party. It was hoped that the contest for party supremacy might be fought to a finish in the state convention and that the hosts of evil would be so badly routed that they would never more dare to enter Nebrasks politics. Had Savage remained in the race as the avowed candidate of the Bartley beneficiaries there is no question but that this result would have been attained. Now that he has been forced off the track it is important that no loss notorious but equally objectionable candidate shall be foisted upon the ticket. The danger is not yet over. Eternal vigilance will be the price of freedom from the corrupt clique which has dominated recent conventions and legislatures. A man must named for governor by the republicans this shortness, involved some fine points in enyear whose character is above reproach. Let not the withdrawal of Governor Savage in grading.
