You're just the kind of a man I want." Duquette repeated that he wouldn't sign and that his wife had refused to have anything to de with it. Porter asked to have the affidavit back and Duquette said he had burned it.

Detective Has Other Evidence.

He had not burned it, however, and Detective Donohoe secured it a few days later when called into Edholm's store, where the Duquettes had called to let Edholm know what Porter was doing. Donohoe stated yesterday that he knows of two other similar affidavits and that one of them has been signed by an enemy of Edholm's. One is in Sloux City and another in Deadwood. The testimony of Mrs. Duquette is largely corroborative of that of her husband, as given above.

At the federal building Assistant District Attorney Rush said: "The Porter case will I be called next week and if the defendant is bondsmen. It will be left permanently in the center of the main hall, where it stood during the ceremonies, an enduring meaument to the class of '02.

TO INVITE EDITORS EARLY k-Sar-Ben Governors Will Probably Take in Quill Drivers This Month.

The Board of Governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben have under consideration the question of inviting the editors of the papers in the Omaha territory to visit the den and become members of the order earlier in the season than they were invited last year. A number of the memers have suggested that May 26 be the date on which Nebraska editors will be shown the mysteries surrounding the throne of the merry monarch and that on the following Monday the Iows editors be invited.

Members suggesting this plan do so, ac cording to their statements, for the reason that it will prove better to have the cooperation of the press in securing responses which will later be issued to the business men of the territory covered by has been customary to send invitations of the den and the result has been that them worse."

who ignored the invitation were anxious to join. They were hospitably received of course, but the pleasure would have be greater had they gone through with the party from their city or community. The question of the souvenirs of the year's work may be settled at the meeting of the board to be held Monday evening preceding the work at the den. Several designs have been submitted and the committee to whom Victory and to hear the ceremonies in con- the matter was referred may be ready to report at that time.

It is probable that at the meeting at the den Monday evening the buttons which are to be worn by the members of the order The company making them expected to have them on hand in time for the first night, but wrote that they would be ready for delivery some time this week. These buttons are highly ornamental, the design showing fully the object of the society and the hopes of its managers. During the week the ritual committee will arrange for a speaker of note to be present Monday and notice of his engagement will be given. It is intended to make these weekly addresses a feature of the evening's entertainment.
