Before tearing down and rebuilding we will sell out every pair of shoes in the entire stock, so as to reopen with all new lines. We have remarked every pair. We have cut prices all the way from ten to fifty per cent. No matter how new the stock is—and most of our summer shoes are already in—no exceptions have been made. The only difference being that when the lots are small or broken the prices have been cut just so much deeper. Each succeeding day will add excitement to the sale.

On the main floor the shoes are all in their original cartons on the shelves, with the reduced prices marked in plain figures. In basement, however, most all are on bargain squares.
