Railroad Earnings Keep Up.

BERLIN, May 11.—The incidents on Wall street absorbed the entire attention of the market here during the last week, and German bourses were chiefly under the influence of New York. The weekly financist reviews, with their usual warnings, deal in moralising on the subjection of the German bourses to the American lead. The Frankfurter Zeitung declares the prevailing opinion to be that the situation at New York is threatening, although the symptoms of the week do not presage the long expected crash. Nevertheless, continues this paper, the American situation is very precarious and a crash is inevitable sooner or later, perhaps in a year. Some newspapers compare the last week on Wall street with the occurrences there of about a year ago.

MUST FULFILL ALL TREATY OBLIGATIONS Bailroad Earnings Keep Up.

Our railroads are still making splendld returns and generally showing increases about 10 to 12 per cent ahead of the large figures of last year. This is the most convincing evidence of continued general prosperity. Still, the main source of strength of the better class of railroad stocks is the fact that important merger plans are under consideration, and though the Northern Securities case has somewhat delayed such achemes their final consummation is ultimately looked for. The Iron trade continues taxed to the utmost and the furnaces hold orders that will keep them fully employed to the end of the year. As for the general trade outlook, that is encouraging. Here and there reactionary symptoms are developing, high prices for raw materials and labor having materially increased cost of production until a point has been reached where profits are receding and consumption is being sensibly checked. There is no sign of general reaction in sight, but that the indications of a turn in the tide are multiplying must not be ignored.

In brief, we have a number of influences in favor of higher prices such as cited above; on the other hand, unfavorable developments in the money or crop situation would precipitate sharp reactions and quickly subdue the present bullish undertone. Opportunities for quick turns will be plentiful, but the only safe course will be to sell on pronounced railies and buy only on decided breaks. Senator Hoar Asks Question Which

Senator Foraker Says it Would Be Embarrassing to

WASHINGTON, May 12.-At the conclusion of routine business in the senate today the resolution effered by Mr. Bailey of Texas on Saturday relative to special embassies to coronations was called up, but after some discussion went over. A conference was agreed to on the bill providing diplomatic and consular appropriations for Cuba and Mesers. Cullom. Lodge and Morgan were named as con-Mr. Cullom presented to the senate and had read the cablegram received by the State department from Consul Ayme at Fort de France. A bill to fix the compensation of erters and balliffs in United States courts at $3 instead of $2 a day was passed. Consideration of the Philippine government bill then was begun, Mr. Foraker of Ohlo addressing the senate in support of the measure. The Ohlo senator said that the opponents of the measure had given the debate a wide range, but it was evident that the real issue was not the pending measure, but the policy of which it was the exponent.

"Until," said Mr. Foraker, "we shall have established law and order in the islands, until we have established a stable government there and led those people into the ways of light and happiness, it is important that we stay there perhaps even longer than has been expected. We will not come away from those islands under this administration. We cannot come away because we will not write poltroonery across our forehead, and because the American people will not permit us to come away." Mr. Foraker pointed out that the United States was bound by the treaty of Paris to protect all property rights, including the friars in the islands, holding about 15,000 acres of land in the Philippines. Until a government was formed which would do all this the United States must remain in the

Mr. Foraker discussed at length the substitute offered by the minority of the Philippine committee, showing that it was not such a one as would meet the necessities of the situation. Continuing, be said: "As the president said a few days ago in this city, 'Our flag will stay put.' '

Honr Asks a Question.

Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts interrupted to nquire if when all our treaty obligations had been fulfilled and government had been established in the Philippines we would recognize the right of the Filipinos o independence. "I believe," said he, "that the affirmafon of that duty would have prevented this war. I ask the senator, shall we disclaim any right or desire to hold the Filipinos in subjection. Mr. Foraker said the questions were em barrassing. In his judgment it would be most impolitic for congress now to declare absolutely what the government would do at some future time. Mr. Foraker referred to a speech de livered by Mr. Tillman last week. The South Carolina senator interrupted to say that while he was quoted he was misinterpreted.

In a laughing response Mr. Foraker said: "We all recognize the ability of the senator from South Carolina and his felicity of exhardly anyh his discretion." (Laughter.) "The people of South Carolina," suggested the Atlantic that moves westward into the Gulf of Mexico and sweeps northward as the gulf stream and curves across to warm the shores of Europe had its counterpart system in the Pacific in the equatorial current that starts about at Panama and moves westward to the Philippines, is deflected by those plateau-like barriers, turned northward along the Japanese coast and sweeps in a great upward curve back across the Pacific as the Japan stream to warm the northern shores of this country, and come down and deflect southwestward, to be redrawn into the equatorial current for another trip across to the Philippines. But, while the two big oceans have similar ocean currents, their shores are different. The Pacific, beginning at Cape Horn, extending up the coast to the Aleutian islands, over to China, Japan, the Philippines and ending way down at Tasmania, is bounded by a mountain wall close to shore ranging roughly from 5,000 to 15,000 feet in height and having no fewer than 250 active volcances in a distance of 20,000 miles. Mr. Tillman, "seem to approve of it." Mr. Foraker, speaking of the commercial nterests in the Philippines, said before the Spanish war in times of peace we maintained a squadron to protect our interests in the east. When war began it was wise that Dewey went to Manila and wise for hom to stay there in further protection of our commercial interests in the Orient. Mr. Foraker read editorials from demo-ratic papers supporting the policy of President McKinley in 1898-99 and declaring when the war with the Filipinos began t was necessary to suppress the insurrec-

Referring to the editorials in the Denver News, of which Senator Patterson is proprietor, Mr. Foraker said with keen sar-"These editorials do not read exactly as the senator's speeches do now, but the time will come when the senator will take greater pride and pleasure in reading the editorials than in reading his speeches." (Laughter.)

Mr. Foraker said he was reading at great length from the Denver News editorials because they were the ablest he had found either in republican or democratic papers (laughter) and he desired to embalm them for all time in the Congressional Record. (Renewed laughter.)

mctive volcanoes in a distance of 20,000 miles.

Prof. Davidson went on to explain that the equatorial current moves westward because the earth is turning "astward all the while, and the ocean, being a movable surface on a solid body, really hangs back a little, and that action results in a western trend of the waters at the equator, where the surface of the earth is moving the fastest, and this western movement along the equator draws into it from north and south the currents coming from the polar regions. Off Japan this equatorial stream of warmer water is from 500 to 600 miles wide, moves eighty miles a day and gives the shores of Formosa a temperature of 86 degrees. After it curves back across the Pacific and warms the colder northern coast it moves southward. Because the greatest coast rainfall is at Cape Flattery, and there is 125 inches a year, Prof. Davidson inclines to the opinion that about there the Japan current, with its rain-bearing vapors, must strike its midstream. As this current passes San Francisco it widens to 1,000 miles and has given up a good deal of its warmth to the chilly coasts of the north. Prof. Davidson has a record of some seventy Japanese junks, carried away in typhoons and left to drift with the Japan stream, and the wrecks, a few of them with men on board, show where the stream strikes all around the great curve and way around to the Hawalian islands. He spoke of one junk that had been picked up 500 miles southwestward of Santa Barbara with three survivors of a large crew after drifting for 517 days in the Japan stream thousands of miles. From that drift the rate of the movement of the stream was found to be ten miles a day.

He told of a so-called tidal wave that had struck this coast and explained that it was an earthquake wave from Japan. It crossed the Pacific ocean, about 6,000 miles, in eleven and a half minutes and made itself felt way up into the Tuolumne river and in San Francisco and San Diego bays. From that wave rate the scientists computed the average depth of the NEW YORK, May 11 .- (Special.)-Henry Clews, in his weekly market letter, says:

Last week's collapse of certain speculative bubbles has materially improved the situation on the Stock exchange. It has induced a closer scrutiny of collateral on the part of the banks, forced considerable wholesome liquidation and afforded a desirable and much-needed check to reckless wildcat speculation. The creation of new securities having scarcely present or prospective value of any sort was going on at a pace that threatened danger to the entire financial community; and serious results were unavoidable unless such manipulators were promptly crushed. The only power capable of dealing with these forces was the banks, and to them must be given the credit for putting on the brakes judiciously at the time of emergency. The remedy was uncomfortable for those who had ignored the dictates of common prudence, but the experience has been beneficial to the large majority of interests. Henceforth we are likely to witness more caution regarding shadowy enterprises. Clews, in his weekly market letter, says: Good Rallying Powers.

He said that when the Canadians asked for even a fitty-mile limit for fur sealing in the Bering sea they knew that the mother seals swam out fifty and sixty miles from the Pribliovs to get food fish in the Japan stream, as no food fish were to be While there has been more or less irregularity in the stock market since the above events, due chiefly to uncertainty concerning the money situation and the coal strike, still the market exhibited good rallying powers after all declines. Underneath all visible influences there is a confidence among the holders of good raliroad stocks which effectively prevents any material declines and is the basis of upward manipulations at every opportunity. Holders of such securities will not sell even at present high prices; their reasons plainly being the extraordinary continuance of good earnings and the feeling that the concentration movement among the railways will in some occult manner benefit their particular property. While this substantial form of optimism governs the great mass of stockholders, it is useless to expect any general reaction in the stock market. We are quite likely to see more frequent breaks as a result of speculative excesses, but no general liquidation or selling of good railroad stocks is possible until seventies. Five Generations of Men

At present the governing factors in the situation are these, in their respective order—the money market, the crop outlook, the railroad situation, the iron trade and business conditions. The monetary situation is not entirely free from concern. Bank reserves are low, loans greatly expanded and the development of other weak spots during the summer would cause no surprise. Funds must soon return more freely from the interior, which, in connection with forced contraction of loans, would strengthen reserves. Money, however, is hardly likely to remain as casy as have found delight in the exquisite cham pagne of the Moet & Chandon vintage. To day the sales of this famous brand through out the world far exceed those of any of its competitors. Importations during 1901 represent an increase equal to more than 100 per cent of the combined increase of all the other champagne houses .- Adv.

Little Business in Stocks. LONDON, May II.—There was little business on the Stock exchange during the last week and in the mining market there was hardly any at all, yet in both places prices were well maintained and the tone was cheerful. There is considerable talk of the certainty of peace in South Africa and its favorable effect on prices. In the meantime, however, prices are stationary and there have been no transactions of importance to report. It is said now, as it has been said for a month, that there is considerable investment in high class stocks. This is seemingly corroborated, but it is useless to expect much in this way until the assurance of peace is had. Mines were stagnant. Money was more plentiful, owing to the arrival of continental gold, but rates were firmly maintained. MANCHESTER May 11.—The fall in the price of cotton restricted business on the cloth market last week. Sellers generally complained of the unsatisfactory progress made during the week, buyers mostly looked on. Business with China has been practically suspended. A few orders were received from India and there were some purchases of bleaching cloths and the better class of prints from the Levant. Yarns were easier, but did not help business. The daily fluctuations in the price of cotton restrict shippers to small transactions and the home trade is content to supply immediate requirements. Fatal Accident Occurs with Balloon Fifteen Hundred Feet in Air and Severo is Dashed to FARIS, May 12.- The death of Senhor Severo, the Brazilian aeronaut, who, with an assistant, was killed this morning by the explosion of his airship. La Paix. which he was making a trial trip, created terrible consternation.

Prof. George Davidson of the University of California, president of the Geographical Society of the Pacific, spoke in the Academy of Sciences hall upon "The Currents and Cilmatology of the Pacific, reports the San Francisco Chronicle. His talk was based largely upon his personal investigation during many years and was roughly illustrated with a large map he had especially prepared to indicate the sweeping course of the Pacific currents and the general wall-like mountain chain drawn in a mighty curve about the shores of the western ocean. Senhor Severo had invited a number friends to witness the ascension and his wife and a number of relatives were following the course of the balloon in motor carriages. Suddenly the spectators were horrified by a bright flash of light, lowed by a loud explosion. The balloon, which at this time was 1,500 feet above

The aeronaut fell into the Avenue du Marne and was dashed to pieces. The bones of his legs were forced through the soles of his boots and the man who accompanied bim was burned to death. The accident was said to have been caused by a leakage of gas. Senhor Severo started with the intention of sailing to the military parade ground at Issy, and a large number of his relatives and friends were preceding him in the direction of that village, situated five miles southwest of Paris. With an engineer named Sachet. Severo sailed out of his balloon house near the Boulevard de Vaugirard at 5:30 a. m., in excellent spirits and full of confidence. The aeronaut put his airship through a series of evolutions before starting in the direction of Issy. Hitch in Steering Gear.

There seemed to be some hitch with the steering gear and the rear propelling screw turned with difficulty. Nevertheless, after several stoppages, the airship sailed off, moving steadily enough through a light breeze. Suddenly a puff of wind caught the ship and whirled it over the avenue du Marne. The ship turned completely round and veered about in a fashion show ing control of it had been lost. Then from the center of the outer envelope, a tongue of flame darted out. This was fol lowed by a loud report resembling a cannon shot and the ship sank like a stone falling on the roof of a house, thence into some trees and finally reaching the Avenue du Marne, almost on top of its occupants who had previously been precipitated to the stone pavement.

The fearfully mangled corpses of Severo and Sachet were conveyed to a neighboring The bodies presented horrible spectacle, especially that of Sachet. The flame which caused the explosion burned the engineer in a most shocking manner. Practically not a bone of either victim was left unfractured and both skulls were terribly crushed. head. I understand he threw out ballast as the airship was rising rapidly. This, if true, is sufficient to explain the accident. Rapid rising would drive out the gas through the valve and send it against the motors, thus causing an explosion. One defect of Sevro's airship was that the motors were too near the balloon. "No, the catastrophe does not discourage me, but I fear the setback to aerial pavigation. It will frighten many persons and discourage those who were inclined to spend money in such undertakings."

About 350 boys are to go Tuesday, the 27th, and remain until Saturday, living the life of soldiers, but without the military advantage of having Uncle Sam foot the bills. Commandant Tompsett is giving much thought to the matter, but sees no other way than to follow the campaign plan of last year and borrow the amount needed, the debts to be paid from the proceeds of entertainments to be given in the future. He says that the railroads have given a liberal rate of less than 1 cent per mile and that he hopes for donations from commission men, auch as were given last year, but that the expense will still be so heavy that somebody will have to be appealed to to belp out financially.
