Musical

Here beginneth one of a series of articles on "Music Considered Nationally." The series has been inspired by a circular, written by Mr. Kowalsky of San Francisco.

Mr. Kowalsky has developed his scheme thoroughly and it is to be hoped that something will come of it. The circular is divided into sections and it is my intention to consider the best points each week in this column until the circular has been thoroughly ventilated.

Ante Room Echoes. Westward the star of lodgedom takes its way and many eyes are turned to the Great Salt Lake of Utah and over and beyond to the portals of the Golden Gate.

Only a man devoid of judgment will deny the power of music to elevate, educate and benefit the citizens of any place. The human soul has for his birthright the law of rhythm, which is the great first law of music.

Nothing will bring us into such close contact with our neighboring towns as this. Let us try it! But, no, some few wise business men, who don't like music, themselves ignore the possibilities, and there you are.

It is with regret that I chronicle the departure of Charles W. Clark, the eminent artist, who will leave Chicago next month to take up his abode in Paris.
