

MOORES AND CUPID ARE BUSY

London Times Lends Its Dignified Columns to Advertising the Firm.

GIRL IN FARAWAY RUSSIA WRITES

She Wants the Mayor to Find Her a "Strong, Healthy, Good-Natured Man" for the Matrimonial Voyage.

Mayor Moore's fame as a sociologist and as the author of that charming little book "Heart and Hand" has found its way to the Siberian wilds and the English public is reading about it over its entire length.

The story about Mayor Moore's matrimonial bureau started originally as a joke. It really grew, however, and the only part he took in the enterprise was the passive one of receiving a letter from a Cleveland, O., publication asking him to forward it to the names of young Nebraskans who might be induced to correspond with factory girls in the eastern part of the United States, subject matrimony. He did not answer the letter, nor did he send any names, but the story that he had formed a partnership with Cupid obtained currency. Every newspaper that copied the item added a line or so on its own account until now the London Times—most dignified and veracious of dailies—charges Omaha's mayor with trying to depopulate the British Isles.

Designs on English Girls.

The Times serves it up as follows: Nebraska's Matrimonial Office—Mayor Moore of Omaha, I. S. A., desires to reduce the surplusage of matrimony girls in England, and he has evolved a solution for the problem caused by the relative dearth of women in Nebraska. He has prepared an artistic book, containing half-tone pictures of young Nebraskans matrimonially inclined. Under each picture is a description of the individual's personality and prospects and of his desires regarding matrimony. The book is circulated widely in Eastern States and the manufacturing towns of the States.

"We would prefer factory girls and the so-called highly born need not apply. Girls coming here may expect to work as housewives, but will be well treated and will have the satisfaction of growing up with Nebraska."

It is not likely that the mayor would have known anything about this, as the Times has few subscribers in Omaha, had not a little girl named Addie J. Emmons, who lives up in northern Russia, cut it out and sent it to his honor in a letter.

She Wants No Saint.

This missive from the land of "ovichs and offkays" follows: IJGOWA, Kovovs, Russia, May 15.—Mayor Moore: Dear Sir—In referring to the enclosed cutting I will introduce myself as an American girl working for her living in the north coast of Russia (homestead, also). She knows how to keep house, can mend stockings, can make soap and boil a potato; loves all animals and is not afraid of a mouse or rat; can "stitch" on a horse, is not 30 years old, not ugly or very pretty, weighs less than 100 pounds and has a pretty figure (so she is told). She would marry a strong, healthy, good-natured man, not a saint and not too great a slinger, and who would try to love and appreciate a good little wife.

Hearing that the climate is severe, perhaps you will describe it in your reply. All her relatives live in America; her father is now in Frisco. Yours truly,

ADDIE J. EMMONS.

MISSOURI CURRENT CHANGES

Why Omaha Water Company is Anxious for High Stage of Water.

The Omaha Water company is becoming interested in the condition of the Missouri river and the probability of a high stage of water this summer. Yesterday E. M. Fairfield, manager of the company, investigated the snowfall in the mountains and the conditions at the headwaters which would occasion higher water. He was informed by the local weather forecasters that all hope for high water might be dropped, as every indication pointed to a low stage in the Missouri during the spring and summer.

Mr. Fairfield said: "We are not becoming alarmed over the low water, as under any conceivable condition we will have plenty of water at the present stage, but we are anxious to know the condition of the river with reference to the Burt street pumping station. If the river remains low this year it may cause us to put in work there which otherwise we will not have to do. The river has been forming a sandbar in front of the station for some time and what our head pipe was in the current of the river at the time the plant was constructed, the current is now on the Iowa side. In addition to the trouble caused by the natural change in the channel the end of our suction pipe is getting into a pocket, caused by the silt from the smelter which is being dumped into the river and which is forming a point. As right now there is an eddy formed by the point, but it may become dead water soon."

"If we had a stage of high water this spring it is probable that the bar would be washed out. At the present time we can keep the end of the suction pipe clear only by running the pumps night and day. If the bars were gone we could run the pumps only when we desired the water."

HAS THE TRUE WESTERN RING

Letter from Wyoming School Board Official Asking for a Teacher.

Secretary Burges of the Board of Education has received the following letter from a Wyoming village which has the true western ring. Mr. E. L. Patrick, the writer, is a breeder of Hereford cattle, besides being clerk of the school board, and he wants a teacher. It doesn't make much difference as to sex or age, but the applicant must have a certificate of some kind.

PATRICK, Wyo., May 24.—Secretary School Board, Omaha: Dear Sir—Can you send me a good order for a six-month school? Wages will be according to grade of certificate shown—$40 to $50. At our annual meeting the wages were raised from $40 to see if we could get better teachers.

There will not be more than five scholars in the school. The teacher can get board within a half mile of the school at $15 and possibly for $12. We would like a teacher of good appearance and experience in teaching. Age no barrier up to middle life. I presume any teacher would rather write me first, but it is not necessary to do that. They can take the Evening Express & Missouri Valley train on Monday for Lusk, Wyo., getting there Tuesday morning and get here same night. They could come Wednesday morning to Fort Laramie, Wyo., but they would have to hire a rig to bring them over the eighteen miles.

"This is a quiet and respectable community and money in treasury to pay. Very respectfully, ED L. PATRICK, Clerk."

LIKES LININGER ART GALLERY

Cheyenne Editor Urges Visitors to Omaha to See the Art Collection.

Editor E. A. Slaek of the Cheyenne Daily Leader shows his appreciation of an Omaha institution by devoting nearly a column of his editorial space to a description of the Lininger art gallery.

"The purpose of this brief and imperfect description of this palace of art," writes the editor, "is that the readers of the Leader may take advantage of their next visit to Omaha and see that in which the city takes great pride. In that broad public spirit which characterizes men of liberal tastes, Mr. Lininger has enriched a large room in the public library with paintings and other works of art, to which he is making additions from time to time."

NEW LINE TO BE OPENED IN SEPTEMBER

Three Hundred Teams and Five Hundred Men at Work—Eastern Lodges to Travel with Tangier to San Francisco.

General Manager Bidwell of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad has just returned from the scene of the Verdigris extension with the first news that has been had concerning the progress on that work for many weeks.

"Thirty-six miles and there's only sixty-nine miles in all, so we are well along," he said. "The heavy mile and a quarter of rock work west of Niobrara, which was a bigger task than all the other sixty-seven and three-quarter miles combined, is completed to grade. I walked over the grade myself. This job was an enormous task, 100,000 cubic yards of rock having been taken out there."

"Thus the building of this railroad has now ceased to be a matter of grading. That amounts to nothing now. It is the bridging which is the big thing confronting us. There will be about fifty small bridges and the big one over the Niobrara river. September 15, of course be built in advance of the track. We cross Ponca creek alone about fifteen times. We already have all bridges in between Verdigris and a point two miles west of Niobrara except the big one, and I think we will get them all in as early as we plan to. The road will be finished on September 15, according to present calculations. Three hundred teams and 500 men are being kept busy on it, and everything possible is being done to hasten it. The sixty-pound rails for the track are being hauled up from the main line between Stanton and O'Neill, where they are being replaced by heavier steel."

Shriner's Going to Frisco.

Union Pacific passenger officials are elated at the action of Tangier temple, the local organization of Shriners, in choosing the Overland route as the official one for the temple to the coming convention in San Francisco. Information has arrived at Union Pacific headquarters that as a result of this change of plans the Omaha Shriners are to be specially honored by two of the most important temples of the east with an invitation to accompany them to the coast from Omaha. A large majority of the temples are going via the Union Pacific, and Lulu temple of Philadelphia is one that has signified its intention of asking Tangier to ride with it, thus placing the Omaha in company with many of the most prominent members of the order. This move had been planned by the easterners some time ago, but when it was learned that the local shrine was going west on a different route from the others it was abandoned, and just reconsidered since the announcement of last Friday night.

Substance of the Allegation Made in Damage Suit Against the Surgeon.

Dr. A. F. Jonas is being sued in Judge Sibbald's court for $10,000 by R. Kolmitz, an administrator of the estate of his son, Theodore Kolmitz. The petition alleges that his son, aged 10, was suffering with appendicitis in October, 1900, and that Dr. Jonas accepted a retainer of $5 to perform an operation, but left town for the day, necessitating calling another physician. The boy died while under the other physician's care. Nobles of Tangier Temple

Made final arrangements for the pilgrimage to San Francisco on Friday evening, May 23, selecting the Union Pacific as the Official Route, thus disposing of all misleading statements on this point. In making this selection the following facts were borne in mind, namely: The Union Pacific is the only line running through trains via Denver and Salt Lake to California; that it is 273 miles shorter to San Francisco and 18 hours quicker than any other line, and that, as less time is consumed via this route, there are fewer incidental expenses on the trip.

Nearly all the prominent eastern temples will pass through Omaha over the Union Pacific.
