(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, May 26.—(Special)—Preparations are being made to give Congressman E. J. Burkett a rousing welcome upon his arrival in this city at 5:40 tomorrow afternoon. The congressman is returning to Lincoln to attend the district convention, which will be held in the evening. James Costello, who has been appointed marshal of the occasion, has arranged the following program:

Eastern relatives of the late Bruno Hermann object to his wife sharing in the estate. Julius Hermann, an uncle of the deceased, arrived in the city last night accompanied by his attorney and this morning notified Administrator J. H. McClay that the claims of Mrs. Hermann would be contested.

Frankly and candidly the visitors declared that they did not believe that Mrs. Hermann, now living with friends in South Lincoln, was the lawful wife of the editor.

Crop Prospects Excellent.

People of Central Nebraska, as well as those of nearly all other sections of the state, report that conditions for big crops were never better in the last fifteen years than they are now. Wheat and oats have been damaged some, but the harvest, on account of the increased acreage, especially of wheat, is expected to be above the average.

Norris Brown, deputy attorney general, tells an graphic language of the difficulties soon to be experienced by the farmers in Buffalo county and surrounding territory. Mr. Brown passed Sunday at his home in Kearney, but during the day talked with numerous farmers and other authorities on crops.

"The crops in Buffalo county will be big, though we'll have to go outside to find land to stack them on," said Mr. Brown. "We never saw more crops at this time of the year, nor much more promise. The oats are doing well, and what wheat there is in the county is in good condition. If this weather keeps on a little while longer every farm in Buffalo county and surrounding territory will pay big dividends."

Politics in Pawnee.

J. B. Raper of Pawnee City was in Lincoln a few hours on business today and while here discussed the local political conditions in Pawnee county with a few friends.

"The fusionists seem to have lost spirit in Pawnee county," said Mr. Raper, "while on the other hand the republicans seem to have a better organization than heretofore and to be in better condition to roll up a big vote. We have two new candidates for the legislature, Dr. W. H. Wilson of Table Rock and J. M. Cravens of Armour. Representatives Scott and Wensel both served two terms and were not candidates for re-election."

The farmers and business men of the county seem contented. The crops are in good condition and business in the towns throughout the county has seldom been better."

Complaint Against Insurance Company

A complaint against the Interstate Mutual Life Insurance company of Omaha was filed in the insurance department of the auditor's office this afternoon by Mr. Lloyd Chapman of York. A document setting forth in an informal way several grievances against the company was presented to the auditor last week, but because it was not properly drawn was referred back to the auditor. Today the amended complaint was filed. Deputy Insurance Auditor Babcock declined to discuss the nature of the charges.

"I expect to set a day for the hearing of the case," said Mr. Babcock, "but until that time the department will have nothing to say regarding the matter."
